Allied Planes Battle 100 Russian Jets

Five MIG's Shot Down In 35-Minute Fight

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Wednesday, Sept. 26 (AP)—Thirty-seven U. S. Sabrejets battled 100 Russian-built MIG-15 jets over northwest Korea Tuesday in history's biggest and longest all-jet sky fight.

The American pilots reported they shot down five MIGs and damaged five more without loss to themselves during the 35-minute action which swirled upward to six miles.

Today, Far East Air Force headquarters in Tokyo boosted the previous estimate of 89 Red jets to 100.

Seize Important Peak

Last April 12, one hundred U. S. jets and 65 MIGs tangled over "MIG Alley" but it was not an all-jet fight. Thirty-two U. S. B-29 Superfort bombers also were involved. FEAF reported then that eight MIGs were destroyed, seven probably destroyed and 18 damaged.

Aground allied troops seized a commanding peak west of "heartbreak ridge" on the Eastern front. In the west, and center, United Nations patrols ran up against bitter resistance.

The battle, ranging up to heights of 35,000 feet, lasted only 35 minutes. But it was enough to set a record for length in the brief history of jet warfare. The longest previous was a 30-minute battle Sept. 3.

The American flight, led by Col. Francis S. Gabreski, America's top ace, spotted the sweptback Communist fighters over "MIG Alley" south of the Yalu river and near the Manchurian border.

U. S. Fifth Air Force headquarters said all the American planes returned safely.

Battle Hand-To-Hand

On the ground, U. N. troops battled hand-to-hand with Communist defenders before breaking through and capturing the hill west of "heartbreak ridge." A pooled dispatch from the eastern front said the allies suffered heavy losses.

Other U. N. troops protected the flanks of the assaulting soldiers as they advanced, cleaning out bunker after bunker.

Poor weather halted air support in late afternoon, but big guns of the U. S. Eighth Army took over the job of pounding the Reds.

Postman Is Held In Assault Death

SALISBURY, Md., Sept. 25 (AP)—Frederick Dysart, 41-year-old postman, was released in $5,000 bond today in the death of John Henry Hastings, 37.

Police said Hastings was injured early Sunday in a scuffle outside the Salisbury Moose hall.

Dysart was arrested on an assault charge and posted $1,000 bond. After Hastings died in Peninsula General Hospital today, Dysart was picked up again.

Stanley W. Gibson, 31-year-old Amboy high school teacher, whose romance last year with his former pupil, Joyce Underhile, 17, caused his dismissal, arrived for a public hearing on the issue at the Illinois town last night with his fiancee. Gibson, who was previously married, is fighting the dismissal order effective November 2 as the couple plan to wed when Joyce finishes her studies at the University of Illinois where she is studying to be a teacher. Senate Refuses To Boost New Corporation Tax

Corp. Refuses Delay To Hike Pending Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—In two decisive votes today the Senate refused to restore an estimated $720,000,000 a year in new corporation tax revenue to the enate's huge tax bill.

By a vote of 62 to 20, it rejected an amendment to boost excess profits taxes on corporations by $600,000,000 annually.

A short time earlier Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) lost his attempt to eliminate from the bill a series of sections intended to give corporations additional relief from excess profits taxes at the rate of $120,000,000 a year. The vote on the O'Mahoney amendment was 70 to 15.

These were major setbacks for an administration bloc which is trying to move the tax bill closer to the $10,000,000,000 goal set by President Truman.

The House has voted for $7,200,000,000 in new taxes, including a sizeable hike in personal income levies, but the Senate Finance Committee recommended a measure calling for only $5,506,000,000.

Senator Millikin (R-Colo), ranking Republican member of the finance committee, led the fight against boosting excess profits taxes, contending the proposed change would amount to "confiscation of earnings."

The defeated amendment would have imposed a tax on profits exceeding 75 per cent of those earned in a base period—the average of the three best earning years of any corporation from 1946 through 1949. Since this provision is in the House bill, it will have to be fought out again in a Senate-House conference.

Stan Kenton Arrested

TULANE, Calif., Sept. 25 (AP) — Stan Kenton, 39, one of the country's top orchestra leaders, was arrested on a drunken driving charge here last night.

Stranger Scoops Up Chips After Poker Shooting

VENTURA, Calif., Sept. 25 (AP)—A cleaned-out poker player ended the game for another card fancier and himself last night with two well-placed shots, and a quiet stranger raked in the winning pot.

Sheriff's deputies told this story: Clyde A. Thompson, 37, came home from a poker club, muttering that he had been cheated ever since he arrived here from Eugene, Ore., a month ago.

He said he had lost everything he had and was going back to get the man who had bested him. His wife said she was unable to keep him from taking his rifle.

Thompson fired one shot through a screen door into a group of eight players, killing George T. Ransom, 45, his intended target. Then he turned the gun on himself, fatally.

In the resuming uproar a stranger from Los Angeles who had been sitting in on the game scooped up all the chips, cashed them in and walked off with several hundred dollars.

Producer Admits Red Affiliations

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25 (AP)—A top Hollywood producer admitted Communist Party membership today after a story of the Screen Writers Guild fight against Communist domination was unfolded for the House sub-committee on Unamerican activities.

The stories were told by Karl Tunberg, 44, the Guild president, and by Sidney Buchman, 49, producer at Columbia Studios whose pictures include "The Jolson Story," Mr. Smith Goes To Washington," "Sign Of The Cross" and "Cover Girl."

Buchman, born in Duluth, Minn., and a Columbia University graduate, was identified last week as a Communist by Screen Writer Martin Berkeley. Today Buchman readily admitted it, saying he was a party member from 1938 to May, 1945.

Tunberg, a voluntary witness, said he has never been a Communist. He estimated there are now perhaps 60 Communists in the Guild which has a membership of 1,200.

President Orders Tighter Security By Civil Agencies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—President Truman signed an order today applying to government civilian agencies tight military security on information which might aid "potential enemies."

Mr. Truman issued a statement saying the sole purpose of the order is to guard against disclosures "harmful to the security of the United States" and not to withhold information that has no bearing on national security.

"The American people have a fundamental right to information about their government, and there is no element of censorship, either direct of implied, in this order," the President said.

The order applies only to officials and employes of the government, carries no penalties, and does not attempt to restrict what newspapers, radios or other agencies of news dissemination may publish or broadcast.

Civilian agencies handling matters affecting the defense program must classify certain material as "security infromation" and also give it one of four additional classifications:

Top secret, secret, confidential, or restricted.

The order does not attempt to define what information should be classified and leaves it to agency heads and designated security officers to use their own judgment.

The President's order, his statement, a letter to agency heads and the pages of the regulations were handed to reporters by Presidential Secretary Joseph Short at a news conference.

Armed Forces Seek Increase In Firepower

Atomic Stockpiles Apparently Growing

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Fresh indications that an arsenal of new weapons is growing rapidly appeared today as the army formally bid for considerable quantities of atomic firepower for battlefield use.

These developments were coupled with a word of caution from Defense Secretary Robert Lovett that conventional weapons and manpower are not outmoded and there is yet "no new, inexpensive or magic way to win wars."

The latest in the story of "fantastic" new weapons which were reported earlier this month:

1. Army Secretary Pace, appearing before a secret meeting of the joint congressional committee on atomic energy, asked for a "very substantial" share of the enlarging nuclear pile. Chairman McMahon (D-Conn) added, in reporting fragments of the session: "the army attaches high significance to its work looking toward atomic energy exploitation on the field of battle. . . ." This could refer to often-rumored artillery shells or rockets with atomic warheads.

2. Secretary Lovett reported to a new conference "considerable progress has been made toward a variety of new weapons." As technical problems are eliminated, "the new weapons are becoming complementary to conventional weapons and will eventually replace certain types, to the ultimate improvement of our over-all defense program."

3. Senator McMahon, elaborating on his demand for accelerated creation of atomic military forces, said: "the so-called wonder weapons I am talking about are not something to be fulfilled in the dim and misty future . . . they are down-to-earth hardware proven, demonstrated and confirmed . . . or to be proof-tested this fall and next winter and next summer and the year after."

The Senator, addressing a Federal Bar Association dinner, joined with Lovett in saying that he did not foresee the quick elimination of conventional troops or of more conventinal weapons. Both said they were trying to clear up misinterpretations of McMahon's Sept. 18 speech before the Senate. At that time the Senator proposed spending $6,000,000,000 annually to speed atomic development.

Queen Of Iran Visits Switzerland

TEHRAN, Iran, Sept. 25 (AP) — Queen Soraya and her 11-year-old step-daughter, Princess Chahnaz, said goodbye to the Shah at the Tehran airport tonight and flew off to Switzerland.

A court communique said the 19-year-old queen would seek medical treatment for after effects of the typhoid fever she suffered before her marriage to the Shah last Feb. 12.

Court officials denied her departure had any connection with Iran's oil nationalization crisis.

Green Again Elected AFL President

Named To His 28th Term By Labor Group

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25 (AP)—William Green, 78-year-old president of the American Federation of Labor, was re-elected unanimously today to his 28th term at the closing session of the annual convention.

Green, of Coshocton, Ohio, was nominated by Phil Hannah, secretary of the Ohio State Federation.

There were no other nominations.

All Officers Renamed

The fourteen-member executive council and all AFL vice presidents, were likewise returned to office unanimously.

The convention, which opened Sept. 10, ends tonight.

Green took office 27 years ago upon the death of Samuel Gompers. With great feeling, he said today "with all I have and the best I have, I thank you for this great honor."

The 1952 convention, Green said, probably will be held in New York City.

Earlier this afternoon the convention issued a broad invitation to the CIO and all other "free" labor groups to join the federation and achieve "labor unity."

"Today, there is no reason whatsoever for any bona fide free trade union organization remaining outside the ranks of the AFL," the convention said in a statement adopted without opposition.

The invitation mentioned the CIO, but not John Lewis' coal miners, although it was addressed to all units outside the federation.

The omission of Lewis' name, however, drew comment from one of his greatest admirers—bushy-haired Frank Turco of the Seattle News Venders. He said no single labor organization would be possible unless Lewis were included.

No Further Comment

There was no further comment on the unity statement, adopted with a scattering of applause.

Referring to the basic differences between Lewis, Philip Murray and the other leaders who led the CIO out of the AFL and those AFL leaders who headed the craft unions and fought mass organization, the statement said:

"Today, there is no difference at all over organization structure or form dividing the labor movement into two national federations." That was the strongest declaration of elimination of the old clash since it had developed 16 years ago.

State Promises Aid To Asylum

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25. (AP)—Governor McKeldin promised today that the state will do everything it can to keep inmates from escaping from Crownsville State Hospital.

He promised that steps would be taken to insure "all possible maximum security" in the Crownsville criminal division, and he said the state would take steps to get better personnel, at better pay, to guard it.

The governor's recommendations for an immediate solution were somewhat less than satisfactory to residents of the Crownsville community, alarmed over five reported escapes from the institutions within a week.

Robert C. Adams, a member of a Crownsville delegation that called on the governor, said the state's solution was only the speeding up of a long range program and added bitterly:

"As of today, we have nothing but your sympathy."

The governor had called a meeting today of mental health, penal, legal and fiscal department heads, together with representatives of the Crownsville community, to discuss the situation.

Newark Woman Wins Crochet Title

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 25 (AP)—A Newark woman today regained ground lost by her sex at the New Jersey State Fair last year.

The woman, Elizabeth Stefanelli of Newark, was declared the crochet champion of the 1951 fair. Last year, the championship was won by a man.

Mrs. Stefanelli won her prize with a bedspread.

OPS Drive Spreads Quickly To Over 130 Communities

Checkup Began Before Dawn By Inspectors

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Government inspectors descended on hundreds of slaughter houses today in a nationwide assault against meat control violators.

The drive began before dawn and spread quickly to more than 130 cities. All available enforcement agents of the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) were thrown into the lightning checkup.

As first reports on the drive reached Washington, OPS announced that it was establishing dollars and cents ceilings on wholesale pork prices and instructing retailers to adjust their price levels accordingly.

Described as a standardization measure, the new regulations are expected to bring some immediate rises in wholesale prices. These rises will be reflected at the retail level, OPS officials said, but provision is made for a cut-back in retail costs if the price of live hogs drops.

Price Enforcement Director Edward P. Morgan estimated 500 packing houses would be inspected in the coast-to-coast checkup of meat chiselers.

Records of slaughterers, their cattle weights, scales and invoices were scrutinized to determine whether they are purchasing livestock in compliance with the controls act and selling it at legal prices.

In San Diego, Calif., OPS Director Michael V. DiSalle declared: "Meat prices are too high. Livestock prices are too high. They are translated into retail beef prices that are too high in proportion to the average consumer's income."

DiSalle accused some elements of the beef industry of being out to destroy price controls.

We are not going to surrender," he said in a speech at a "test town, U. S. A." meeting. "The control of such an important cost of living item as meat is essential to the stabilization program."

The Senate Banking Committee gave DiSalle a lift today by approving a bill to reimpose livestock slaughter quotas. DiSalle claims loss of power to impose slaughtering quotas would destroy all meat controls. President Truman also has called for their restoration.

Senate Probers In RFC Loans To Quiz Boyle

Company Refuses By Gabrielson's Firm

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—The administration tonight took Republican National Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson part way off the hook on charges of attempting to influence the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in connection with an $18,500,000 loan to Gabrielson's firm.

Gabrielson has insisted that as a top GOP chieftain, he could have no influence with the Truman administration's multi-billion-dollar lending agency.

RFC Refuses Delay

Tonight, with demands for Gabrielson's resignation echoing on Capitol Hill, the RFC gave Gabrielson a new point for that argument—it rejected his personal plea for a one-year delay in making payments on the RFC loan to the Carthage Hydrocol Co. Gabrielson is president of the firm.

The development capped a day in which Senate investigators probed into RFC loans to the American Lithofold Corp. of St. Louis and heard testimony that the company handed out big fees—plus such gifts as perfume, turkeys and cameras—to U. S. tax agents.

But the agents denied there was any "shakedown" in their sales of Lithofold products, although some of the sales were made to firms whose taxes the agents supervised.

An RFC spokesman indicated that Gabrielson's request for a delay was turned down because the agency makes it a general policy not to grant loans—or give concessions to borrowers — when private capital could be used.

Gabrielson has said that his company could easily raise the money for the payments from private sources, if necessary. His company has three RFC loans. First payments on two of them, totalling $250,000, are due Oct. 1.

Will Call Boyle

Three federal tax officials disclosed the story of American Lithofold's fat fees and gifts—at times with reluctance—at a Senate inquiry into the firm's affairs.

Chairman Hoey (D-NC) said the inquiry group will call William M. Boyle, Jr., head of the Democratic National Committee, to testify Thursday as to what part he played, if any, in influencing Lithofold's $565,000 in government loans.

The company, a St. Louis printing firm, received the loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation after hiring Boyle as an attorney. Boyle has denied bringing any pressure to bear on the RFC.

Senator Hoey said the inquiry will continue even if Boyle resigns his party job. He said the same thing goes in the case of Gabrielson.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP) — A prankster gave the Consolidated Edison Co. a sweet bomb scare today. He planted a package in a phone booth. Police dunked it in oil, opened it and found a five-inch tube filled with sugar.

Truman Offers Italian Help

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — President Truman today reaffirmed American determination to continue helping Italy, as the Big Three prepared to renounce publicly their right to limit the size of Italian armed forces.

Both gestures were intended to bulwark the position of Italian Prime Minister Alcidz De Gasperi, here on the second day of a three-day visit.

The President assured De Gasperi in a 50-minute White House conference that the United States will "continue to assist Italy and the other Allies in achieving economic and social stability and increasing their capacity for defense."

A communique announcing this said the two government leaders had discussed the full sweep of Italian affairs. These include the touchy status of Trieste, between Italy and Yugoslavia, and Italian requests for emigration rights.

The Big Three reportedly will issue by tomorrow, U. S. time, a declaration giving up their right to police the size of Italy's armed forces, now limited by treaty to 300,000 men, 350 planes and 132 naval ships.

Gets "Cold" Cash

HASLETT, Mich., Sept. 2 (AP) — State police here are looking for a thief who got away with $100 in cold cash.

Ivan Palmer of Haslett told officers the money was taken from the deep freeze in the basement of his home.

Don't Roughhouse The Baby It May Cause Bone Ailments

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Don't roughouse the baby too hard — the results may be diagnosed later as bone disease.

This advice was implicit today in a report by a Cincinnati doctor who said many "bizarre" bone abnormalities in very young children could frequently be traced to injuries in the nursery or elsewhere in the home.

And often times, said Dr. Frederic N. Silverman, such a history of injury is either forgotten or withheld by parents—sometimes leading to the incorrect diagnosis that the abnormality is due to cancer, tuberculosis, syphilis or other bone disease.

Addressing the American Roentgen Ray Society, the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine doctor urged doctors to be alert to the possibility of "unrecognized" injury in diagnosing abnormalities of the bone.

Here are some of the cases he described:

1. An infant boy who showed evidence of "healing rib fractures"—which were traced to his father's "habit of throwing him up in the air and catching him during play."

2. A seven-months old girl whose left shoulder was affected and who had "old healing fractures" in her legs. Medical detective work brought out various instances of rough handling including one in which an older child once fed her some cotton, choking her.

The mother picked the child up by the legs and shook her until she coughed up the cotton.

The doctor said the mother, in demonstrating, "gave an excellent demonstration of the crack-the-whip technique."

Third Session Agreed Upon By Communists

No Details Given Out After Brief Meeting

TOKYO, Wednesday, Sept. 26 (AP)—Allied and Red liaison officers met at Kaesong today for an hour and 20 minutes for discussions looking toward resumption of the Red-suspended Korean cease-fire negotiations.

The Allied team returned to Munsan, United Nations base camp in Western Korea southeast of Kaesong, at 11:40 a. m. (9:40 p. m. EST Tuesday).

There was no immediate report on results of the meeting—which lasted only slightly longer than yesterday's stormy one.

Reds Walked Out

The Reds, who walked angrily out of yesterday's meeting, were prodded by the patient but persistent Allies into accepting a third session only a few hours before today's meeting opened.

Allied representatives made two roundtrips from Munsan, United Nations advance base, to Kaesong—once last night to propose the meeting; again this morning to get the Reds' affirmative reply.

Then the liaison team took off.

But there was no indication of any bridging of the gap—between the Reds' insistence on merely deciding on a date for negotiations to resume and the Allies stand that there be a discussion of "conditions."

The Allies said the Reds angrily walked out on a liaison meeting, called yesterday for this purpose, but the Peiping radio offered a different version today. It said the session ended by mutual agreement. It made no mention of the latest Allied proposal.

The Peiping broadcast, heard here by the Associated Press, carefully stated that the senior Allied liaison officer agreed to "disbanding" the meeting pending further instructions from higher authority.

It made no mention or the Allied announcement that the meeting ended abruptly with the Communist liaison representative walking out.

The Tuesday meeting ended, Peiping radio explained, because U. N. officers "could not give an opinion on our proposal" for immediate resumption of negotiations. The senior Allied officer "agreed to disbanding of the meeting in order to wait for instructions from his higher authorities," the broadcast said.

Agree To Meet Again

The Allied request that the Communist agreed to meet again to arrange for resuming the talks was delivered at the Communist outpost of Panmunjom at Sunset Tuesday by an Allied helicopter.

The message, signed by Col. Andrew J. Kinney, senior Allied liaison officer, was sent under instructions from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander. It said:

"Despite your unilateral action in recessing the meeting today and your abrupt departure therefrom, I am prepared to meet with you tomorrow, 26 September, 1951, at 10 a. m. (8 p. m., EST, Tuesday) to discuss conditions mutually satisfactory for resumption of the armistice talks."

The Asian version of the famous Communist walkout came when Kinney insisted on talking about conditions under which the talks could be resumed by the high-ranking Allied and Communist negotiators.

Kinney proposed that liaison officers of both sides be given authority to discuss these conditions.

British To Defy Iranian Order

LONDON, Sept. 25 (AP) — The British cabinet was reported tonight to have decided to defy an order of Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh for the expulsion of all British oilmen from the Middle East country.

The aging Iranian premier, after repeated threats, finally gave the order today for some 300 British technicians to get out within nine days. A British foreign office spokesman said the order was a "new and serious development which is under urgent consideration."

Qualified sources said Prime Minister Attlee and his chief cabinet advisors reached their decision immediately after hearing about the order.

Since this provision is in the House bill, it will have to be fought out again in a Senate-House conference.

Stan Kenton Arrested

TULANE, Calif., Sept. 25 (AP) — Stan Kenton, 39, one of the country's top orchestra leaders, was arrested on a drunken driving charge here last night.

Stranger Scoops Up Chips After Poker Shooting

VENTURA, Calif., Sept. 25 (AP)—A cleaned-out poker player ended the game for another card fancier and himself last night with two well-placed shots, and a quiet stranger raked in the winning pot.

Sheriff's deputies told this story: Clyde A. Thompson, 37, came home from a poker club, muttering that he had been cheated ever since he arrived here from Eugene, Ore., a month ago.

He said he had lost everything he had and was going back to get the man who had bested him. His wife said she was unable to keep him from taking his rifle.

Thompson fired one shot through a screen door into a group of eight players, killing George T. Ransom, 45, his intended target. Then he turned the gun on himself, fatally.

In the resuming uproar a stranger from Los Angeles who had been sitting in on the game scooped up all the chips, cashed them in and walked off with several hundred dollars.

Producer Admits Red Affiliations

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25 (AP)—A top Hollywood producer admitted Communist Party membership today after a story of the Screen Writers Guild fight against Communist domination was unfolded for the House sub-committee on Unamerican activities.

The stories were told by Karl Tunberg, 44, the Guild president, and by Sidney Buchman, 49, producer at Columbia Studios whose pictures include "The Jolson Story," Mr. Smith Goes To Washington," "Sign Of The Cross" and "Cover Girl."

Buchman, born in Duluth, Minn., and a Columbia University graduate, was identified last week as a Communist by Screen Writer Martin Berkeley. Today Buchman readily admitted it, saying he was a party member from 1938 to May, 1945.

Tunberg, a voluntary witness, said he has never been a Communist. He estimated there are now perhaps 60 Communists in the Guild which has a membership of 1,200.

President Orders Tighter Security By Civil Agencies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—President Truman signed an order today applying to government civilian agencies tight military security on information which might aid "potential enemies."

Mr. Truman issued a statement saying the sole purpose of the order is to guard against disclosures "harmful to the security of the United States" and not to withhold information that has no bearing on national security.

"The American people have a fundamental right to information about their government, and there is no element of censorship, either direct of implied, in this order," the President said.

The order applies only to officials and employes of the government, carries no penalties, and does not attempt to restrict what newspapers, radios or other agencies of news dissemination may publish or broadcast.

Civilian agencies handling matters affecting the defense program must classify certain material as "security infromation" and also give it one of four additional classifications:

Top secret, secret, confidential, or restricted.

The order does not attempt to define what information should be classified and leaves it to agency heads and designated security officers to use their own judgment.

The President's order, his statement, a letter to agency heads and the pages of the regulations were handed to reporters by Presidential Secretary Joseph Short at a news conference.

Armed Forces Seek Increase In Firepower

Atomic Stockpiles Apparently Growing

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Fresh indications that an arsenal of new weapons is growing rapidly appeared today as the army formally bid for considerable quantities of atomic firepower for battlefield use.

These developments were coupled with a word of caution from Defense Secretary Robert Lovett that conventional weapons and manpower are not outmoded and there is yet "no new, inexpensive or magic way to win wars."

The latest in the story of "fantastic" new weapons which were reported earlier this month:

1. Army Secretary Pace, appearing before a secret meeting of the joint congressional committee on atomic energy, asked for a "very substantial" share of the enlarging nuclear pile. Chairman McMahon (D-Conn) added, in reporting fragments of the session: "the army attaches high significance to its work looking toward atomic energy exploitation on the field of battle. . . ." This could refer to oftenrumored artillery shells or rockets with atomic warheads.

2. Secretary Lovett reported to a new conference "considerable progress has been made toward a variety of new weapons." As technical problems are eliminated, "the new weapons are becoming complementary to conventional weapons and will eventually replace certain types, to the ultimate improvement of our over-all defense program."

3. Senator McMahon, elaborating on his demand for accelerated creation of atomic military forces, asid: "the so-called wonder weapons I am talking about are not something to be fulfilled in the dim and misty future . . . they are down-to-earth hardware proven, demonstrated and confirmed . . . or to be proof-tested this fall and next winter and next summer and the year after."

The Senator, addressing a Federal Bar Association dinner, joined with Lovett in saying that he did not foresee the quick elimination of conventional troops or of more conventinal weapons. Both said they were trying to clear up misinterpretations of McMahon's Sept. 18 speech before the Senate. At that time the Senator proposed spending $6,000,000,000 annually to speed atomic development.

Queen Of Iran Visits Switzerland

TEHRAN, Iran, Sept. 25 (AP) — Queen Soraya and her 11-year-old step-daughter, Princess Chahnaz, said goodbye to the Shah at the Tehran airport tonight and flew off to Switzerland.

A court communique said the 19-year-old queen would seek medical treatment for after effects of the typhoid fever she suffered before her marriage to the Shah last Feb. 12.

Court officials denied her departure had any connection with Iran's oil nationalization crisis.

Green Again Elected AFL President

Named To His 28th Term By Labor Group

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25 (AP)—William Green, 78-year-old president of the American Federation of Labor, was re-elected unanimously today to his 28th term at the closing session of the annual convention.

Green, of Coshocton, Ohio, was nominated by Phil Hannah, secretary of the Ohio State Federation.

There were no other nominations.

All Officers Renamed

The fourteen-member executive council and all AFL vice presidents, were likewise returned to office unanimously.

The convention, which opened Sept. 10, ends tonight.

Green took office 27 years ago upon the death of Samuel Gompers. With great feeling, he said today "with all I have and the best I have, I thank you for this great honor."

The 1952 convention, Green said, probably will be held in New York City.

Earlier this afternoon the convention issued a broad invitation to the CIO and all other "free" labor groups to join the federation and achieve "labor unity."

"Today, there is no reason whatsoever for any bona fide free trade union organization remaining outside the ranks of the AFL," the convention said in a statement adopted without opposition.

The invitation mentioned the CIO, but not John Lewis' coal miners, although it was addressed to all units outside the federation.

The omission of Lewis' name, however, drew comment from one of his greatest admirers—bushy-haired Frank Turco of the Seattle News Venders. He said no single labor organization would be possible unless Lewis were included.

No Further Comment

There was no further comment on the unity statement, adopted with a scattering of applause.

Referring to the basic differences between Lewis, Philip Murray and the other leaders who led the CIO out of the AFL and those AFL leaders who headed the craft unions and fought mass organization, the statement said:

"Today, there is no difference at all over organization structure or form dividing the labor movement into two national federations." That was the strongest declaration of elimination of the old clash since it had developed 16 years ago.

State Promises Aid To Asylum

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25. (AP)—Governor McKeldin promised today that the state will do everything it can to keep inmates from escaping from Crownsville State Hospital.

He promised that steps would be taken to insure "all possible maximum security" in the Crownsville criminal division, and he said the state would take steps to get better personnel, at better pay, to guard it.

The governor's recommendations for an immediate solution were somewhat less than satisfactory to residents of the Crownsville community, alarmed over five reported escapes from the institutions within a week.

Robert C. Adams, a member of a Crownsville delegation that called on the governor, said the state's solution was only the speeding up of a long range program and added bitterly:

"As of today, we have nothing but your sympathy."

The governor had called a meeting today of mental health, penal, legal and fiscal department heads, together with representatives of the Crownsville community, to discuss the situation.

Newark Woman Wins Crochet Title

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 25 (AP)—A Newark woman today regained ground lost by her sex at the New Jersey State Fair last year.

The woman, Elizabeth Stefanelli of Newark, was declared the crochet champion of the 1951 fair. Last year, the championship was won by a man.

Mrs. Stefanelli won her prize with a bedspread.

OPS Drive Spreads Quickly To Over 130 Communities

Checkup Began Before Dawn By Inspectors

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Government inspectors descended on hundreds of slaughter houses today in a nationwide assault against meat control violators.

The drive began before dawn and spread quickly to more than 130 cities. All available enforcement agents of the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) were thrown into the lightning checkup.

As first reports on the drive reached Washington, OPS announced that it was establishing dollars and cents ceilings on wholesale pork prices and instructing retailers to adjust their price levels accordingly.

Described as a standardization measure, the new regulations are expected to bring some immediate rises in wholesale prices. These rises will be reflected at the retail level, OPS officials said, but provision is made for a cut-back in retail costs if the price of live hogs drops.

Price Enforcement Director Edward P. Morgan estimated 500 packing houses would be inspected in the coast-to-coast checkup of meat chiselers.

Records of slaughterers, their cattle weights, scales and invoices were scrutinized to determine whether they are purchasing livestock in compliance with the controls act and selling it at legal prices.

In San Diego, Calif., OPS Director Michael V. DiSalle declared: "Meat prices are too high. Livestock prices are too high. They are translated into retail beef prices that are too high in proportion to the average consumer's income."

DiSalle accused some elements of the beef industry of being out to destroy price controls.

We are not going to surrender," he said in a speech at a "test town, U. S. A." meeting. "The control of such an important cost of living item as meat is essential to the stabilization program."

The Senate Banking Committee gave DiSalle a lift today by approving a bill to reimpose livestock slaughter quotas. DiSalle claims loss of power to impose slaughtering quotas would destroy all meat controls. President Truman also has called for their restoration.

Senate Probers In RFC Loans To Quiz Boyle

Company Refuses By Gabrielson's Firm

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—The administration tonight took Republican National Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson part way off the hook on charges of attempting to influence the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in connection with an $18,500,000 loan to Gabrielson's firm.

Gabrielson has insisted that as a top GOP chieftain, he could have no influence with the Truman administration's multi-billion-dollar lending agency.

RFC Refuses Delay

Tonight, with demands for Gabrielson's resignation echoing on Capitol Hill, the RFC gave Gabrielson a new point for that argument—it rejected his personal plea for a one-year delay in making payments on the RFC loan to the Carthage Hydrocol Co. Gabrielson is president of the firm.

The development capped a day in which Senate investigators probed into RFC loans to the American Lithofold Corp. of St. Louis and heard testimony that the company handed out big fees—plus such gifts as perfume, turkeys and cameras—to U. S. tax agents.

But the agents denied there was any "shakedown" in their sales of Lithofold products, although some of the sales were made to firms whose taxes the agents supervised.

An RFC spokesman indicated that Gabrielson's request for a delay was turned down because the agency makes it a general policy not to grant loans—or give concessions to borrowers — when private capital could be used.

Gabrielson has said that his company could easily raise the money for the payments from private sources, if necessary. His company has three RFC loans. First payments on two of them, totalling $250,000, are due Oct. 1.

Will Call Boyle

Three federal tax officials disclosed the story of American Lithofold's fat fees and gifts—at times with reluctance—at a Senate inquiry into the firm's affairs.

Chairman Hoey (D-NC) said the inquiry group will call William M. Boyle, Jr., head of the Democratic National Committee, to testify Thursday as to what part he played, if any, in influencing Lithofold's $565,000 in government loans.

The company, a St. Louis printing firm, received the loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation after hiring Boyle as an attorney. Boyle has denied bringing any pressure to bear on the RFC.

Senator Hoey said the inquiry will continue even if Boyle resigns his party job. He said the same thing goes in the case of Gabrielson.

Sweet "Bomb"

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP) — A prankster gave the Consolidated Edison Co. a sweet bomb scare today. He planted a package in a phone booth. Police dunked it in oil, opened it and found a five-inch tube filled with sugar.

Truman Offers Italian Help

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — President Truman today reaffirmed American determination to continue helping Italy, as the Big Three prepared to renounce publicly their right to limit the size of Italian armed forces.

Both gestures were intended to bulwark the position of Italian Prime Minister Alcidz De Gasperi, here on the second day of a three-day visit.

The President assured De Gasperi in a 50-minute White House conference that the United States will "continue to assist Italy and the other Allies in achieving economic and social stability and increasing their capacity for defense."

A communique announcing this said the two government leaders had discussed the full sweep of Italian affairs. These include the touchy status of Trieste, between Italy and Yugoslavia, and Italian requests for emigration rights.

The Big Three reportedly will issue by tomorrow, U. S. time, a declaration giving up their right to police the size of Italy's armed forces, now limited by treaty to 300,000 men, 350 planes and 132 naval ships.

Gets "Cold" Cash

HASLETT, Mich., Sept. 2 (AP) — State police here are looking for a thief who got away with $100 in cold cash.

Ivan Palmer of Haslett told officers the money was taken from the deep freeze in the basement of his home.

Don't Roughhouse The Baby It May Cause Bone Ailments

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Don't roughouse the baby too hard — the results may be diagnosed later as bone disease.

This advice was implicit today in a report by a Cincinnati doctor who said many "bizarre" bone abnormalities in very young children could frequently be traced to injuries in the nursery or elsewhere in the home.

And often times, said Dr. Frederic N. Silverman, such a history of injury is either forgotten or withheld by parents—sometimes leading to the incorrect diagnosis that the abnormality is due to cancer, tuberculosis, syphilis or other bone disease.

Addressing the American Roentgen Ray Society, the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine doctor urged doctors to be alert to the possibility of "unrecognized" injury in diagnosing abnormalities of the bone.

Here are some of the cases he described:

1. An infant boy who showed evidence of "healing rib fractures"—which were traced to his father's "habit of throwing him up in the air and catching him during play."

2. A seven-months old girl whose left shoulder was affected and who had "old healing fractures" in her legs. Medical detective work brought out various instances of rough handling including one in which an older child once fed her some cotton, choking her.

The mother picked the child up by the legs and shook her until she coughed up the cotton.

The doctor said the mother, in demonstrating, "gave an excellent demonstration of the crack-the-whip technique."

Third Session Agreed Upon By Communists

No Details Given Out After Brief Meeting

TOKYO, Wednesday, Sept. 26 (AP) —Allied and Red liaison officers met at Kaesong today for an hour and 20 minutes for discussions looking toward resumption of the Red-suspended Korean cease-fire negotiations.

The Allied team returned to Munsan, United Nations base camp in Western Korea southeast of Kaesong, at 11:40 a. m. (9:40 p. m. EST Tuesday).

There was no immediate report on results of the meeting—which lasted only slightly longer than yesterday's stormy one.

Reds Walked Out

The Reds, who walked angrily out of yesterday's meeting, were prodded by the patient but persistent Allies into accepting a third session only a few hours before today's meeting opened.

Allied representatives made two roundtrips from Munsan, United Nations advance base, to Kaesong —once last night to propose the meeting; again this morning to get the Reds' affirmative reply.

Then the liaison team took off.

But there was no indication of any bridging of the gap—between the Reds' insistence on merely deciding on a date for negotiations to resume and the Allies stand that there be a discussion of "conditions."

The Allies said the Reds angrily walked out on a liaison meeting, called yesterday for this purpose, but the Peiping radio offered a different version today. It said the session ended by mutual agreement. It made no mention of the latest Allied proposal.

The Peiping broadcast, heard here by the Associated Press, carefully stated that the senior Allied liaison officer agreed to "disbanding" the meeting pending further instructions from higher authority.

It made no mention of the Allied announcement that the meeting ended abruptly with the Communist liaison representative walking out.

The Tuesday meeting ended, Peiping radio explained, because U. N. officers "could not give an opinion on our proposal" for immediate resumption of negotiations. The senior Allied officer "agreed to disbanding of the meeting in order to wait for instructions from his higher authorities," the broadcast said.

Agree To Meet Again

The Allied request that the Communist agreed to meet again to arrange for resuming the talks was delivered at the Communist outpost of Panmunjom at Sunset Tuesday by an Allied helicopter.

The message, signed by Col. Andrew J. Kinney, senior Allied liaison officer, was sent under instructions from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander. It said:

"Despite your unilateral action in recessing the meeting today and your abrupt departure therefrom, I am prepared to meet with you tomorrow, 26 September, 1951, at 10 a. m. (8 p. m., EST, Tuesday) to discuss conditions mutually satisfactory for resumption of the armistice talks."

The Asian version of the famous Communist walkout came when Kinney insisted on talking about conditions under which the talks could be resumed by the high-ranking Allied and Communist negotiators.

Kinney proposed that liaison officers of both sides be given authority to discuss these conditions.

British To Defy Iranian Order

LONDON, Sept. 25 (AP) — The British cabinet was reported tonight to have decided to defy an order of Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh for the expulsion of all British oilmen from the Middle East country.

The aging Iranian premier, after repeated threats, finally gave the order today for some 300 British technicians to get out within nine days. A British foreign office spokesman said the order was a "new and serious development which is under urgent consideration."

Qualified sources said Prime Minister Attlee and his chief cabinet advisors reached their decision immediately after hearing about the order.

Plans For Huge Irrigation Being Drawn, Soviet Scientist Says

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

MOSCOW.—(AP)—A Soviet scientist reported today that plans are now being drawn for a huge hydro-electric-irrigation project in Siberia to make a Garden of Eden out of Central Asiatic deserts.

The project was first revealed in a popular scientific magazine for youth early in 1949, but this was the first time any member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences had put his stamp on it.

Academician A. V. Vinter, writing in the publication Science and Life, said completion of the big Stalingrad and Kuibyshev dams and the Turkmen canal during the next five or six years will set the stage for the still greater power and irrigation undertaking.

Vinter made other predictions of triumphs for Soviet science. He declared that atomic energy, "the secret production of which was discovered by Soviet scientists," will mean a revolution in energetics" (the science dealing with energy).

The hydroelectric-irrigation program calls for turning the flow of three Siberian rivers—the Ob, the Yenisei, and the Lena—from northward to southward. A vast lake would be created in Central Siberia nearly as large as the Caspian Sea. A large canal system would divert the waters from this inland sea into the Northern Kazakh steppes to irrigate that rich but desert area. Eventually, the waters from the three rivers, which now flow into the Arctic Ocean, would pour into the Aral and Caspian Seas in Southern Russia.

If carried out, the program will mean the construction of dams, power stations and canals of sizes thus far never achieved in the world.

In his reference to atomic power, Vinter said it "will be widely used for the construction of canals, tunnels, dams, and also for the production of cheap power at new atomic electric stations."

Vinter also called on Soviet scientists to work out means for using the power of cosmic rays. He pointed out that these contain energy reaching billions of electron volts, whereas energy imparted artificially to atomic particles totals some tens of millions of electron volts.

The scientist said the underground gassification of coal is so far advanced that the U.S.S.R. soon will begin mass production of gas turbine installations for this purpose. He continued:

"Now there comes the turn of the problems of direct transformation of coal energy into electric energy (bypassing the extremely uneconomic process of burning), the production of the thermo-electricity, the industrial production of photo-electricity, and the transmission of electric power without wires."

He added that the "investigations of Soviet scientists in these fields" make them "quite hopeful of results."

New Weapon Is Designed To Fight Cancer With Radioactive Cobalt

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new weapon designed to fight cancer with atomic energy material equivalent in power to the world's entire supply of radium has been unveiled by the General Electric Company.

Its developers said the apparatus is designed to utilize radioactive cobalt costing an estimated $18,000 but that an equivalent amount of radium to do the same job of radiation would cost $26,000,000.

And, one of the G. E. officials, Dr. E. Dale Trout, told a reporter that the amount of cobalt to be used in the device would be equal in radiating power "to that of the world's entire known supply of between 1,500 and 1,700 grams of radium."

Predicting that the development would "greatly" reduce the cost of high-energy radiation treatment of cancer as compared with the cost of employing high-energy X-ray machines, the officials said this:

That the new apparatus would make it economically feasible for "numerous hospitals" throughout the nation to employ high-energy techniques.

And this, they added, would bring high-energy treatment for cancer "within reach of a much larger portion of the population than ever before."

The apparatus—whose main part resembles somewhat a sawed-off gun barrel about three feet long and 13½ inches in diameter—was shown as the opening of the annual meeting of the American Roentgen Ray Society.

G. E. officials said the total cost of the unit is not being revealed at this time, but Dr. Trout told a reporter:

"I would expect that this would cost about one-third as much as X-ray equipment of comparable energy. A great deal depends upon the availability of cobalt and allied materials such as tungsten."

Radioactive cobalt can also be used in cancer treatment by "planting" the material surgically in the tissues.

But the G. E. technicians said the new apparatus would work just like an X-ray machine, treating the patient from "outside."

This, they said, would reduce the need for "planting" cobalt in the tissues "with consequent danger of infection and other hazards," and would also permit treatment of sizeable areas of malignancy.

It takes the average farmer 40 minutes to work to produce one bushel of corn.

Predicting that the development would "greatly" reduce the cost of high-energy radiation treatment of cancer as compared with the cost of employing high-energy X-ray machines, the officials said this:

That the new apparatus would make it economically feasible for "numerous hospitals" throughout the nation to employ high-energy techniques.

And this, they added, would bring high-energy treatment for cancer "within reach of a much larger portion of the population than ever before."

The apparatus—whose main part resembles somewhat a sawed-off gun barrel about three feet long and 13½ inches in diameter—was shown as the opening of the annual meeting of the American Roentgen Ray Society.

G. E. officials said the total cost of the unit is not being revealed at this time, but Dr. Trout told a reporter:

"I would expect that this would cost about one-third as much as X-ray equipment of comparable energy. A great deal depends upon the availability of cobalt and allied materials such as tungsten."

Radioactive cobalt can also be used in cancer treatment by "planting" the material surgically in the tissues.

But the G. E. technicians said the new apparatus would work just like an X-ray machine, treating the patient from "outside."

This, they said, would reduce the need for "planting" cobalt in the tissues "with consequent danger of infection and other hazards," and would also permit treatment of sizeable areas of malignancy.

It takes the average farmer 40 minutes to work to produce one bushel of corn.

Injunction Issued By Court In Dispute Over Coal, Land

Associate Judge George Henderson yesterday signed a restraining order and injunction in connection with a dispute over some coal which had been strip mined and stored on Big Vein Hill near Lonaconing.

James E. Darrow filed a complaint in Circuit Court against Arthur Bond and John J. Foote in which he petitioned for the restraining order and injunction.

February Agreement

William H. Geppert, attorney for Darrow, said there is a dispute between Bertha M. Devlin, administratrix of the estate of the late Jacob Miller, and Bond and Foote over title to the coal and property.

In February of this year Darrow entered into an agreement with the administratrix and the attorney for Bond and Foote and by court agreement was to be allowed to enter upon the land and strip mine the coal. Geppert said during the strip mining a large coal fire which had been burning was extinguished.

Due to the poor condition of the coal market at the time the fuel was piled up to await more satisfactory prices for the product. The agreement under which Darrow stripped the coal provided for him to deposit rents and royalties on the coal with the clerk of Circuit Court pending the outcome of the dispute between Bertha M. Devlin and Bond and Foote.

Tried To Stop

On September 12 agents of Darrow entered upon the land to remove the coal stored there. It is alleged that Bond compelled them to refrain from taking out the coal. The attorney for Bond and Foote, who it is claimed entered into the agreement for them, sent a letter to Bond telling him to refrain from stopping the removal of the coal, Geppert stated.

It is alleged that Bond telephoned the attorney and made threats pertaining to the situation.

Judge Henderson's order states that Darrow and his agent are to be given the right to enter the land and remove the coal, subject to the provisions of the agreement made in February, and that Bond and Foote are restrained from interfering. The two men have five days in which to move for the dissolution of the restraining order.

Pair Sentenced In Assault Cases

Thirty-seven-year-old Ellery Smith, Flintstone, has been sentenced to 30 days in the County Jail after being found guilty of assault in a case tried before Trial Magistrate William J. Gunter.

Smith was charged with assaulting William E. Kimes, Sr., and William E. Kimes, Jr., August 28 in a Martin's Mountain tavern. Sentence was suspended on condition that Smith be of good behavior for a year and refrain from drinking.

According to testimony, an argument developed over politics at a tavern then operated by Michael Savarese. The elder Kimes was knocked unconscious during the scuffle and his 17-year-old son was allegedly hit from behind in the scuffle.

The case was prosecuted by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, with William L. Wilson, Jr., attorney for the defense.

Raymond Cleggett, 418 Pine Avenue, was also given a 30-day jail sentence on assault when tried before Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

Cleggett allegedly struck Walter C. Moxley, 186 Wineow Street, in the head with a railroad brake stick. The incident occurred August 18 during an argument on Wineow Street.

Cleggett claims he wielded the stick in self defense, saying Moxley threatened him with a knife.

Sentence was suspended on condition that Cleggett be of good behavior and pay $75 medical expenses. Moxley was hospitalized for some time as a result of the clubbing.

William L. Wilson, Jr., attorney for the defendant, pointed out that the incident occurred before Cleggett was put on parole for another offense.

Partnerships And Taxes

The higher-taxation bloc in the Senate is fighting the family partnerships provision in the tax bill now before the Senate. The bloc says the provision will open up a new tax loophole costing the Treasury plenty.

A similar provision was in the Senate tax bill last year as this went to conference. The Senate "liberals" had fought it last year also, in vain. The House conferees would not accept it, so it was abandoned.

This year the House version of the tax bill carries a provision by which wider recognition would be given in the future to family partnerships for income-tax purposes. The Senate Finance Committee accepted the House provision, but proposes that it be allowed for income-tax returns all the way back to 1939. For that purpose the income-tax statute of limitations would be waived.

The Finance Committee says that since the Supreme Court decision of June 27, 1949, in the Culbertson case, some legitimate family partnerships have not been recognized as they should have been in applying the income tax. The committee argues that its provision would simply give family partnerships the same recognition for taxes as in the common law and in common sense. And the committee calls the retroactive feature necessary to clarify and settle a vast amount of litigation now pending on the tax liabilities of such partnerships.

Partnership profits are taxable under the personal income tax. If the head of a business takes a member of his family into partnership, and each family partner files a separate return, the total income-tax liability on the profits of the business is naturally reduced. The total tax liability on four separate net incomes of $20,000 each, for instance, is much less than on one net income of $80,000.

Between 1934 and 1945 family partnership returns increased from 291,000 to 629,000, according to Senator Douglas (D., Ill.) on the Senate floor on September 20. The higher-taxation Senate bloc admits that many of these returns were legitimate, questions the legitimacy of others. Senator Humphrey (D., Minn.) told the Senate on the same day:

"The bill allows a father who runs a business to reduce his taxes by making gifts to each of his children of an interest in his business. . . . An infant six months or six days old can be a partner. If the father wants to be technical, he can create a trust for his children, make himself trustee, and in that capacity become his own partner."

Humphrey estimated that, under present tax rates, a married man with two children and $100,000 net income would reduce his tax liability from $51,912 to $39,184—by $12,728, or almost one-fourth—if he gave each of two children a one-fourth partnership. The saving would be still greater under the higher taxes about to be imposed.

In the Culbertson case, a rancher had taken his four sons into partnership. Two, of legal age, were in the Army, one was 18, the fourth was 16. The U. S. Tax Court rejected the partnership for income-tax purposes, but a Court of Appeals accepted it because it contemplated that the sons would contribute their services in the future.

In overruling the Circuit Court, the Supreme Court pointed to its Tower case decision of 1946. In this the Court had ruled that for the income tax to recognize a partnership, each partner must contribute "either vital services or capital originating with him." Plans for the future did not suffice, and Tax Court findings on the facts must be accepted.

Red Underground

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says the Communist party in the United States has "gone into a real underground operation with nothing but a sham above ground. Very little of the party machinery is visible today."

Across the country, according to a survey made by a wire news service, branch offices of the Communist party have been closing down. Some that are still in existence are unmanned and party telephones go unanswered. A few have moved to cheaper quarters.

The apparent result is that distribution of Communist literature has been severely curtailed, that few party meetings are being arranged, and activities in general have been reduced to a shadow of what they formerly were.

In the past Communists and their works have been in the public view to a certain extent, although it has taken a great deal of effort on the part of law enforcement officials and congressional committees—starting with that headed by Rep. Martin Dies—to educate the American people in Communist aims and practices.

Now the greater part of the structure seems to have vanished. It would be a mistake, however, to assume it no longer exists.

The Smith Act, which makes it a crime to conspire to teach and advocate the overthrow of the government by force, does not outlaw the Communist party. But any member of the party who can be proved a part of such a conspiracy can be sent to jail. Some have been sentenced to prison terms while a number of others are awaiting trial.

This threat, beyond any question, has had a great deal to do with what has been happening to Communist centers that formerly operated openly.

But it must not be concluded the problem has been solved. Communists have gone underground in other countries and gained strength while operating in that manner because the task of combating them was made more difficult.

Inhaling Vitamins

Despite the lush claims of advertising writers, few persons have labored under the illusion that cigarets could cure anything, or that a pack a day could put roses in one's cheeks. People generally merely take the habit for better or worse, with an occasional uneasy feeling that it may be for worse—especially after reading some of the scare articles about the horrid things chain smoking can do to the human system.

Many will be startled to learn they have been inhaling a drug full of vitamins every year. According to a series of papers read at a meeting of the American Chemical Society, tobacco contains at least four B vitamins. It is one of the richest of all plants in nicotinic acid which is the vitamin that cures pellagra.

And as for nicotine, which is the devil in the weed, one chemist reported that 85 per cent of the nicotine smokers inhale is quickly made harmless by the body.

Perhaps a new slogan for cigarets will soon appear in the ads: "Four vitamins with each drag."

Now that dehydrated jelly is on the market, dried watermelon should soon put in its appearance.

How To Keep Well

Spread Of Infection To The Ears

Middle ear infections (otitis media) are common in infants and small children because the hearing apparatus usually is involved whenever they have a cold. As the youngsters grow older the ear is spared more and more, so that by the time adulthood is reached most respiratory infections are confined to the nose, throat and bronchial tubes.

The majority of ear infections in little tikes rarely go beyond the stage of slight redness and congestion. A certain percentage develops into serious lesions, with the formation of pus and rupture of the eardrum. It is important for all parents to be on the lookout whenever the child complains of earache, especially if a cold or contagious disease is present. Neglect often results in deafness that could have been prevented with the proper attention.

The more serious manifestations of an infected ear usually appear two to four days after the respiratory disease has reached its height. The temperature may have started to go down but shoots up again, ranging between 100 and 105 degrees F. Pain may or may not exist, and in some youngsters the drum ruptures wihout distress at any time. When earache is present it is likely to be most noticeable at night. Infants often indicate aching by rubbing and pulling the affected ear and by extreme irritability and restlessness.

Infected ears are less prevalent today than in the past. This generally is ascribed to the more widespread use of the sulfonamides and antibiotics in the treatment of colds. These wonder drugs have proved valuable in the treatment of ear involvement. They are so effective that in mild cases it is not always necessary to open the drum. But there are no hard and fast rules in this respect, as each case is an individual problem. When the physician is certain that pus has formed he recommends opening the drum because it is too risky to rely entirely upon the wonder drugs. Healing is prompt when the combination is used and the chance of recurrence is lessened.

Blowing the nose often jeopardizes the ears because there is danger of forcing bacteria into the Eustachian tubes. These passageways connect the ears and throat. It is easy to demonstrate whether they are open or closed by exhaling with the mouth shut and the nose pinched. When the pathways are open, air enters the ear and causes a clicking sound. We can ward off this potential hazard by more gentle use of handkerchief, keeping the mouth open while blowing. Ear infections also arise after swimming, especially while diving or going under the surface. Water enters the nose and finds its way to the ears via the same Eustachian tubes. Other factors that encourage ear infections are enlarged tonsils and adenoids, sinus disease, improperly performed nasal irrigations and various abnormalities of the nose.

EATING FROM TENSION

Mrs. L. writes: Every month I have premenstrual tension and the only relief I can get is to keep on eating. This prevents me from reducing my excess weight. Have you any suggestions?

REPLY

Consolation eating is fairly common at times of stress. The remedy lies in understanding the situation and eating accordingly.

Not always. In many instances the affected gland "comes to a head" and drains like a boil.

If this much exercise does not bother you, then listen only to those who are older than you are.

ABDOMINAL PAIN FROM HEART

J. K. L. writes: Could a heart disorder cause stomach symptoms?

REPLY

Yes. When the heart fails and dropsy develops, congestion in the upper abdomen leads to abdominal symptoms. This includes lack of appetite, nausea, and indigestion. The pain of angina pectoris and coronary thrombosis appears to come from the stomach. This explains why physicians at the turn of the century blamed many sudden deaths on "acute indigestion" rather than the heart attack.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Eisenhower Soft-Pedals Democrat Background; Prefers Entering White House As A Republican; First Political Speech Was For Democrats

WASHINGTON—I have seen General Eisenhower on both my trips to Europe this year, but in neither case have I talked to him about politics. Furthermore, I doubt whether 99 per cent of the political pundits who have come back from Paris as alleged interpreters of Ike's desire to run or not to run have really broached the subject to him either.

Only on one occasion—and that was several years ago—have I ever mentioned personal politics to General Eisenhower. I reminded him of an incident back in Kansas when he was a Democrat.

Ike gave me a quick look, asked "Where did you hear about that?" and promptly dropped the subject. It was obvious that he did not want to discuss the days when he started life as a rootin'-tootin' William Jennings Bryan Democrat and made his first speech at a Jackson Day dinner.

Regardless of that early background, there is no question but that General Eisenhower wants to run as a Republican—for a very good reason. He feels that a new President, backed by a new party, could use a completely new broom. If elected as a Democrat, on the other hand, he would be so under obligation to President Truman personally and to those around him that he could not clean house. The cronies and mediocrities would hang on.

That position, in the opinion of this observer, makes sense. Whoever is elected in 1952 should be obligated to no one except his conscience and the American people.

GOP's Greatest Mistake

Biggest mistake the Republicans have made in recent years is to take seriously the overconfidence of their Illinois national committeeman, Werner Schroeder, who once said: "The Republican party can even win with a Chinaman." The GOP must face the fact that the majority of people in the U.S.A. today are registered Democrats, and if a Republican President is to be elected, a man must be nominated who can persuade Democrats to cross the party line.

Unlike the old-line politicians, a lot of people in this country consider their country more important than their party, but they must have a truly inspiring leader of the Eisenhower variety to make them cross over.

At any rate, Eisenhower's early record as a Democrat might turn out to be an asset. Real fact is that the Eisenhower family was among the few Democrats in rock-ribbed Republican Abilene, Kans., and Dwight's father had so little political pull that J. W. Howe, editor of the Abilene News and leading Democrat of the town, had to advise the youngster on how to get his West Point appointment.

What helped him was that Kansas Republicans at that time were bitterly split between the square-dealers, who followed Teddy Roosevelt, and the stand-patters, who followed Taft. So Eisenhower, a bright and friendly youngster, took the advice of Editor Howe, went around to see both factions, and got the endorsement of each.

This was enough for GOP Sen. Joseph P. Bristow, who gave Ike the coveted West Point appointment.

Jackson Day Speech

Eisenhower has made thousands of speeches during his long career, but his first and perhaps only political speech was made at the age of 19 before the Jackson Day dinner in Abilene, Kans. George H. Hodges, a leading Democrat and later governor of Kansas, was the chief speaker, and Dwight was chosen as the one speaker to represent the younger Democrats. His title was: "The Student in Politics."

"There is an old proverb that says 'as the twig is bent the tree's inclined'," began that earnest young Democrat who later decided he wanted to become a Republican. "A man after voting the straight ticket for several elections seldom changes from one side to the other.

"This fact is proved conclusively by the controversy now going on in the Republican party. One branch is called the square-dealers, insurgents, and reformers. Although these men are loud in their denunciation of Cannon, Aldrich, and a few others who are hide-bound party men, yet they refuse to join any other party and at election vote the Republican ticket. . .

"There is an inborn desire in all normal and healthy boys to help the smaller contestants in an even fight," Eisenhower continued. "A young man, in speaking of the political situation the other day, said: 'My father is a Republican and so was his father, but I am going to vote for the Democrats at the next election because I think they need me and the Republicans do not.'

Boosts Democratic Principles

"But notwithstanding such reasoning as an admiration of fair play, the parental vote, and the like, a man's first vote generally is cast correctly. He has arrived at an age of great self-confidence and has acquired a feeling of self-importance, for he figures that he will be about 1/15 of a millionth part of the vote of the United States. . .

"A leader of a political party who is a clean and fearless fighter," concluded young Eisenhower, "and possesses a winning manner is undoubtedly the mean of attracting a large number of votes. The young man sees that the more honest and fearless leaders have become disgusted with the actions of the leaders and the party proper. He admires these men greatly but he cannot help but think and remark that they are fighting for many of the same principles which the Democratic party advocated."

That was Dwight Eisenhower's first and last contribution to the Democratic party. According to the Abilene News:

"To say that he handled himself nicely would be putting it mildly. His speech was well-received."

A few months later, Ike Eisenhower was in West Point, where no one is supposed to be either a Democrat or a Republican.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Dime A Dozen

Dean Acheson told Eugene Dooman, both of the State Department, that China experts were a dime a dozen. To a degree, that is correct because during the past 100 years, a surprisingly large number of Americans, public officials, missionaries, teachers, doctors, businessmen, sea captains went to China.

Some became expert in language and dialect; some played important roles in the administration of the country. Especially able have been missionaries, who always live close to the people, often far inland away from the Westernized atmosphere of the treaty ports.

For instance, Roy Anderson, who was born in Soochow, whose father, a former newspaperman in Atlanta, Georgia, turned missionary, was president of Soochow University. Roy Anderson spoke many dialects of Chinese and played Chinese politics like a true Southern Democrat. He was an important factor in Sun Yat-Sen's revolution of 1911 which defeated the Manchus.

Subsequently, from 1911 to 1925 when he died, Anderson made and unmade cabinet officers, provincial governors and, in one instance, even a president. He died in Peking on the very same day that Sun-Yat-Sen died there and the Chinese erected a monument to him.

There were many such Americans in China. Rodney Gilbert, for instance, who occaionally writes for the "New York Herald Tribune," was regarded by Chinese as one of the best informed men in the country. Upton Close was an adviser to Wu Pei-Fu. George Fitch was always close to Chiang Kai-Shek. At one time, nearly every Chinese warlord or official of standing had an American adviser, and many of them did excellent service.

The businessmen, particularly those connected with the British-American Tobacco Company and the Standard Oil Company of New York, stayed long and knew much. No man has accumulated more information and more friends than Major Arthur Bassett of the British-American Tobacco Company. His career in China might be cited as an example of prolonged residence and vast knowledge.

A Missourian, he arrived in China in 1906 from the Philippines where he was an American lawyer. He was the United States district attorney attached to the American court under extraterritorial jurisdiction. Subsequently, he joined the British-American Tobacco Company. During World War I, he was provost marshal attached to the 15th Infantry in Tientsin. He was an astute intelligence officer.

Bassett possessed an unerring intuition concerning Chinese which made it possible for him to take an obscure cigaret, the "Ruby Queen," and make it the best selling brand in the country by the employment of Chinese methods of selling through a Chinese organization of his own devising. As a matter of fact, his success served to revolutionize the sales methods of all companies dealing in imported consumer's goods.

In the 1930's there must have been a thousand or more men and women of this calibre in the United States, Americans with a vast and intensive knowledge of Chinese, Chinese affairs and personalities, and some of them with prolonged residence in that country and other parts of Asia. They were all available for the service of our government.

After Roosevelt became President, most of the so-called "old China hands" were dropped by the State Department. Because of their long residence in the country, they were supposed to be prejudiced. Because they knew so many important Chinese personally and intimately, they were supposed to be biased. Even men in the State Department, with long experience in China, were shoved out of the department altogether or moved to other parts of the world with which they had no familiarity.

An entirely new crowd came in. Dean Acheson and Alger Hiss, who took over management of Far Eastern affairs, had had no Far Eastern experience, knew no Far Eastern language and had never visited a Far Eastern county. The same was true of Dr. Philip Jessup.

Most of the newer men who emerged as authorities centered about the Institute of Pacific Relations, then profoundly dominated by Frederick Vanderbilt Field and Owen Lattimore. This organization became a kind of Far Eastern trade union that, in some manner, now being investigated by the McCarran Committee, exercised an undue influence upon the selection and promotion of personnel in the Far Eastern Divisions of the State Department.

Dean Acheson could, out of the many Americans with Far Eastern experience, select those whom he wished as experts and advisers. He aparently chose not the most experienced, the most successful or the wisest, but those who fitted his predispositions. The question then arises: what predisposed him in the direction that he took?

Choosing A Nominee

By MARK SULLIVAN

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is supported for the Republican Presidential nomination by a number of Republican leaders who have impressive standing. Chief among them is Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, and the others include leaders in large Eastern states, conspicuously Pennsylvania and Massachusetts. These, with leaders in scattered states outside the east, make the Eisenhower movement formidable.

But to get Gen. Eisenhower nominated the leaders must have support from rank and file Republican voters. The Presidential nomination will be made in a convention of some 1,100 delegates, of whom many will be chosen by Republican voters in direct primaries in the states, others by processes which reflect the voters indirectly. The rank and file of Republican voters has power to make the conclusive decision.

As to the present feeling about Gen. Eisenhower among Republican voters, there is little evidence for or against so far. In New Hampshire a poll was conducted recently by "The Manchester Union Leader." The order of choices for the Republican Presidential nomination was striking — first, Gen. Douglas MacArthur with 255 votes; second, Sen. Robert Taft with 201 votes; third, Harold E. Stassen with 167 votes; fourth, Gen. Eisenhower with 104 votes.

Eisenhower's Status

Looking forward to the direct primaries that will begin early next spring, the first question is what will be the status of Gen. Eisenhower at that time—whether he will continue as he now is, a choice favored by important party leaders without express assent by him, or will have taken action in the form of either expressed willingness or expressed unwillingness to be a candidate. Assuming that Gen. Eisenhower, when the primaries begin next spring, has a status in which Republican voters will be called on to say whether they prefer him or another for the Presidential nomination, his situation will be extraordinary and in fact is extraordinary now.

Gen. Eisenhower has a unique relation to the United States of itself and to the United States in its relation to the world. He is he official head of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, made up of 10 European countries and the United States and Canada. The function of that organization is to build up the military and economic strength of Western Europe for defense against aggression by Communist Russia. Gen. Eisenhower is the head of NATO, he implements its functioning, and is the symbol of what it stands for.

This position of Gen. Eisenhower creates a score of complex conditions likely to bedevil him when he considers whether to decide, tacitly or expressly, whether to let advocacy of him for the Republican Presidential nomination go on. It is likely to bedevil both him and the country if and when he should be in a campaign for the nomination, and if and when he should be in the ensuing campaign for the Presidency.

Many Complex Conditions

The conditions likely to enter voters' minds are many and infinitely complex. The NTAO, which Gen. Eisenhower heads is itself a subject of some concern on the part of many persons. Recently it has seemed to point toward need or wish of Western European countries for more help by us to build up their economic strength. This raises a question how much and how long we can give help without running risk to us of economic disaster through inflation. Also NATO is an important part of the foreign policy of the Truman administration. Voters may assume, and in this case would probably be wrong, that Gen. Eisenhower as the symbol of NTAO is also a symbol of the administration's foreign policy as a whole. And voters may fail or refuse to distinguish between the present foreign policy of the Truman administration and its past record, including its record about China.

Regardless of Gen. Eisenhower and whatever is or may become his relation to the Republican Presidential nomination, America has desperate need of a great clarification. This is a statement from a source other than the administration, which is necessarily partisan and self-interested, of what is likely to be the cost of NATO and of other commitments the administration has assumed or implied. Only by knowing this can we decide how much foreign aid we can give without incurring risk of what Communist Russia most wishes, economic debacle in the United States as a result of inflation. Only thus can Republican voters choose a good nominee, and the electorate as a whole choose a good President.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—A new code of ethics seems to be required for Republican national chairmen, though it is based on an entirely different set of circumstances than the case of Democratic National Chairman William Boyle.

Guy Gabrielson, head of the Republican National Headquarters, happens to be president of a company which needed a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. So he naturally went about it directly without intermediaries. Now he is being accused of impropriety because the headlines tell how Mr. Boyle ,the head of the Democratic headquarters, has been approaching the RFC by telephoning "introductions" to officials for his clients who sought loans.

It turns out that Mr. Boyle is being questioned by a Senate committee not only as to his own activities but as to whether he derived any financial benefit from the contacts which his law partner had made with the RFC after he became national chairman.

Different Cases

The two cases are entirely different but many Republican senators are highly displeased with what Mr. Gabrielson did—mostly because it enables the Democrats to point the finger of blame in his direction. It thus tends to absolve—at least in the headlines—Mr. Boyle of any impropriety. For if "everybody was doing it," the doctrine espoused in some quarters here is that this makes it all right.

Actually, as Senator Taft—who doesn't agree with his colleagues about the matter—puts it, there is a vast difference between the Boyle and the Gabrielson cases. For one thing, as Representative Clare Hoffman of Michigan, Republican, remarks facetiously, Mr. Gabrielson ought to resign for "dumbness"—that is, for thinking a Republican national chairman would have any influence or pull with the Democratic-controlled RFC.

But Senator Williams of Delaware, Republican, who has been emphatic in his expressions in the Senate disapproving what Mr. Gabrielson did, says that everyone knows that there may be a change some day in the political complexion of the administration here and the appointive power may shift to the next Republican administration. Then presumably a member of the RFC board of directors—this was before a single administrator had been appointed—might be worrying about what might happen when his own term expired in the middle of a Republican administration. Influence with a Republican party chairman might come in handy. The theory is that the RFC members who pay any attention to politics at all would be just as likely to want to feather their nests by standing in with a Republican national chairman as with a Democratic.

Primarily, the Republicans who are crying out against Mr. Gabrielson are indignant that the revelation about his negotiation of a loan tended to take the edge off the juicy scandal headlines from which the Republicans in Congress were expected to benefit in connection with the Boyle case. Along came the case of the Republican national chairman to spoil their publicity. The public, indeed, carelessly bunches the two together.

Tough For Politicians

Under the circumstances, whether Mr. Gabrielson really did anything wrong or improper has become secondary. He is about to be offered up as a sacrifice on the altar of political righteousness, and it isn't often that a Republican finds himself in a position to help the cause of his party by gracefully withdrawing from the picture on that score.

Mr. Gabrielson doubtless knows that, unfortunately, his resignation will not altogether cleanse the situation. For, if the truth were known, national committeemen of both parties are pretty influential citizens in their respective states and, while it may be that not any of the others had dealings with the RFC, it is also possible that some of them are lawyers who practice before government departments. Pretty soon all these investigations are going to take the joy out of life for the practical politician—and maybe, in a wave of curiosity as to what really constitutes ethics, the spotlight will be turned on all the members of Congress and members of the state legislatures whose law offices or law partners at home receive legal fees from corporations and labor unions and other interests which have legislative matters up with federal and state governments.

Partnerships And Taxes

The higher-taxation bloc in the Senate is fighting the family partnerships provision in the tax bill now before the Senate. The bloc says the provision will open up a new tax loophole costing the Treasury plenty.

A similar provision was in the Senate tax bill last year as this went to conference. The Senate "liberals" had fought it last year also, in vain. The House conferees would not accept it, so it was abandoned.

This year the House version of the tax bill carries a provision by which wider recognition would be given in the future to family partnerships for income-tax purposes. The Senate Finance Committee accepted the House provision, but proposes that it be allowed for income-tax returns all the way back to 1939. For that purpose the income-tax statute of limitations would be waived.

The Finance Committee says that since the Supreme Court decision of June 27, 1949, in the Culbertson case, some legitimate family partnerships have not been recognized as they should have been in applying the income tax. The committee argues that its provision would simply give family partnerships the same recognition for taxes as in the common law and in common sense. And the committee calls the retroactive feature necessary to clarify and settle a vast amount of litigation now pending on the tax liabilities of such partnerships.

Partnership profits are taxable under the personal income tax. If the head of a business takes a member of his family into partnership, and each family partner files a separate return, the total income-tax liability on the profits of the business is naturally reduced. The total tax liability on four separate net incomes of $20,000 each, for instance, is much less than on one net income of $80,000.

Between 1934 and 1945 family partnership returns increased from 291,000 to 629,000, according to Senator Douglas (D., Ill.) on the Senate floor on September 20. The higher-taxation Senate bloc admits that many of these returns were legitimate, questions the legitimacy of others. Senator Humphrey (D., Minn.) told the Senate on the same day:

"The bill allows a father who runs a business to reduce his taxes by making gifts to each of his children of an interest in his business. . . . An infant six months or six days old can be a partner. If the father wants to be technical, he can create a trust for his children, make himself trustee, and in that capacity become his own partner."

Humphrey estimated that, under present tax rates, a married man with two children and $100,000 net income would reduce his tax liability from $51,912 to $39,184—by $12,728, or almost one-fourth—if he gave each of two children a one-fourth partnership. The saving would be still greater under the higher taxes about to be imposed.

In the Culbertson case, a rancher had taken his four sons into partnership. Two, of legal age, were in the Army, one was 18, the fourth was 16. The U. S. Tax Court rejected the partnership for income-tax purposes, but a Court of Appeals accepted it because it contemplated that the sons would contribute their services in the future.

In overruling the Circuit Court, the Supreme Court pointed to its Tower case decision of 1946. In this the Court had ruled that for the income tax to recognize a partnership, each partner must contribute "either vital services or capital originating with him." Plans for the future did not suffice, and Tax Court findings on the facts must be accepted.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says the Communist party in the United States has "gone into a real underground operation with nothing but a sham above ground. Very little of the party machinery is visible today."

The Smith Act, which makes it a crime to conspire to teach and advocate the overthrow of the government by force, does not outlaw the Communist party. But any member of the party who can be proved a part of such a conspiracy can be sent to jail. Some have been sentenced to prison terms while a number of others are awaiting trial.

This threat, beyond any question, has had a great deal to do with what has been happening to Communist centers that formerly operated openly.

But it must not be concluded the problem has been solved. Communists have gone underground in other countries and gained strength while operating in that manner because the task of combating them was made more difficult.

Spread Of Infection To The Ears

Middle ear infections (otitis media) are common in infants and small children because the hearing apparatus usually is involved whenever they have a cold. As the youngsters grow older the ear is spared more and more, so that by the time adulthood is reached most respiratory infections are confined to the nose, throat and bronchial tubes.

The majority of ear infections in little tikes rarely go beyond the stage of slight redness and congestion. A certain percentage develops into serious lesions, with the formation of pus and rupture of the eardrum. It is important for all parents to be on the lookout whenever the child complains of earache, especially if a cold or contagious disease is present. Neglect often results in deafness that could have been prevented with the proper attention.

The more serious manifestations of an infected ear usually appear two to four days after the respiratory disease has reached its height. The temperature may have started to go down but shoots up again, ranging between 100 and 105 degrees F. Pain may or may not exist, and in some youngsters the drum ruptures wihout distress at any time. When earache is present it is likely to be most noticeable at night. Infants often indicate aching by rubbing and pulling the affected ear and by extreme irritability and restlessness.

Infected ears are less prevalent today than in the past. This generally is ascribed to the more widespread use of the sulfonamides and antibiotics in the treatment of colds. These wonder drugs have proved valuable in the treatment of ear involvement. They are so effective that in mild cases it is not always necessary to open the drum. But there are no hard and fast rules in this respect, as each case is an individual problem. When the physician is certain that pus has formed he recommends opening the drum because it is too risky to rely entirely upon the wonder drugs. Healing is prompt when the combination is used and the chance of recurrence is lessened.

Blowing the nose often jeopardizes the ears because there is danger of forcing bacteria into the Eustachian tubes. These passageways connect the ears and throat. It is easy to demonstrate whether they are open or closed by exhaling with the mouth shut and the nose pinched. When the pathways are open, air enters the ear and causes a clicking sound. We can ward off this potential hazard by more gentle use of handkerchief, keeping the mouth open while blowing. Ear infections also arise after swimming, especially while diving or going under the surface. Water enters the nose and finds its way to the ears via the same Eustachian tubes. Other factors that encourage ear infections are enlarged tonsils and adenoids, sinus disease, improperly performed nasal irrigations and various abnormalities of the nose.

EATING FROM TENSION

Mrs. L. writes: Every month I have premenstrual tension and the only relief I can get is to keep on eating. This prevents me from reducing my excess weight. Have you any suggestions?

REPLY

Consolation eating is fairly common at times of stress. The remedy lies in understanding the situation and eating accordingly.

ARMPIT CYSTS

L. P. writes: Is surgery necessary for sweat gland cysts in the armpit?

REPLY

Not always. In many instances the affected gland "comes to a head" and drains like a boil.

WALKING FOR AGED

M. C. writes: I am 88 and have always taken long walks of 25 to 30 blocks after supper. Friends tell me this is too much for me. What is your advice?

REPLY

If this much exercise does not bother you, then listen only to those who are older than you are.

ABDOMINAL PAIN FROM HEART

J. K. L. writes: Could a heart disorder cause stomach symptoms?

REPLY

Yes. When the heart fails and dropsy develops, congestion in the upper abdomen leads to abdominal symptoms. This includes lack of appetite, nausea, and indigestion. The pain of angina pectoris and coronary thrombosis appears to come from the stomach. This explains why physicians at the turn of the century blamed many sudden deaths on "acute indigestion" rather than the heart attack.

Eisenhower Soft-Pedals Democrat Background; Prefers Entering White House As A Republican; First Political Speech Was For Democrats

WASHINGTON—I have seen General Eisenhower on both my trips to Europe this year, but in neither case have I talked to him about politics. Furthermore, I doubt whether 99 per cent of the political pundits who have come back from Paris as alleged interpreters of Ike's desire to run or not to run have really broached the subject to him either.

Only on one occasion—and that was several years ago—have I ever mentioned personal politics to General Eisenhower. I reminded him of an incident back in Kansas when he was a Democrat.

Ike gave me a quick look, asked "Where did you hear about that?" and promptly dropped the subject. It was obvious that he did not want to discuss the days when he started life as a rootin'-tootin' William Jennings Bryan Democrat and made his first speech at a Jackson Day dinner.

Regardless of that early background, there is no question but that General Eisenhower wants to run as a Republican—for a very good reason. He feels that a new President, backed by a new party, could use a completely new broom. If elected as a Democrat, on the other hand, he would be so under obligation to President Truman personally and to those around him that he could not clean house. The cronies and mediocrities would hang on.

That position, in the opinion of this observer, makes sense. Whoever is elected in 1952 should be obligated to no one except his conscience and the American people.

GOP's Greatest Mistake

Biggest mistake the Republicans have made in recent years is to take seriously the overconfidence of their Illinois national committeeman, Werner Schroeder, who once said: "The Republican party can even win with a Chinaman." The GOP must face the fact that the majority of people in the U.S.A. today are registered Democrats, and if a Republican President is to be elected, a man must be nominated who can persuade Democrats to cross the party line.

Unlike the old-line politicians, a lot of people in this country consider their country more important than their party, but they must have a truly inspiring leader of the Eisenhower variety to make them cross over.

At any rate, Eisenhower's early record as a Democrat might turn out to be an asset. Real fact is that the Eisenhower family was among the few Democrats in rock-ribbed Republican Abilene, Kans., and Dwight's father had so little political pull that J. W. Howe, editor of the Abilene News and leading Democrat of the town, had to advise the youngster on how to get his West Point appointment.

What helped him was that Kansas Republicans at that time were bitterly split between the square-dealers, who followed Teddy Roosevelt, and the stand-patters, who followed Taft. So Eisenhower, a bright and friendly youngster, took the advice of Editor Howe, went around to see both factions, and got the endorsement of each.

This was enough for GOP Sen. Joseph P. Bristow, who gave Ike the coveted West Point appointment.

Jackson Day Speech

Eisenhower has made thousands of speeches during his long career, but his first and perhaps only political speech was made at the age of 19 before the Jackson Day dinner in Abilene, Kans. George H. Hodges, a leading Democrat and later governor of Kansas, was the chief speaker, and Dwight was chosen as the one speaker to represent the younger Democrats. His title was: "The Student in Politics."

"There is an old proverb that says 'as the twig is bent the tree's inclined'," began that earnest young Democrat who later decided he wanted to become a Republican. "A man after voting the straight ticket for several elections seldom changes from one side to the other.

"This fact is proved conclusively by the controversy now going on in the Republican party. One branch is called the square-dealers, insurgents, and reformers. Although these men are loud in their denunciation of Cannon, Aldrich, and a few others who are hide-bound party men, yet they refuse to join any other party and at election vote the Republican ticket. . .

"There is an inborn desire in all normal and healthy boys to help the smaller contestants in an even fight," Eisenhower continued. "A young man, in speaking of the political situation the other day, said: 'My father is a Republican and so was his father, but I am going to vote for the Democrats at the next election because I think they need me and the Republicans do not.'

Boosts Democratic Principles

"But notwithstanding such reasoning as an admiration of fair play, the parental vote, and the like, a man's first vote generally is cast correctly. He has arrived at an age of great self-confidence and has acquired a feeling of self-importance, for he figures that he will be about 1/15 of a millionth part of the vote of the United States. . .

"A leader of a political party who is a clean and fearless fighter," concluded young Eisenhower, "and possesses a winning manner is undoubtedly the mean of attracting a large number of votes. The young man sees that the more honest and fearless leaders have become disgusted with the actions of the leaders and the party proper. He admires these men greatly but he cannot help but think and remark that they are fighting for many of the same principles which the Democratic party advocated."

That was Dwight Eisenhower's first and last contribution to the Democratic party. According to the Abilene News:

"To say that he handled himself nicely would be putting it mildly. His speech was well-received."

A few months later, Ike Eisenhower was in West Point, where no one is supposed to be either a Democrat or a Republican.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Dime A Dozen

Dean Acheson told Eugene Dooman, both of the State Department, that China experts were a dime a dozen. To a degree, that is correct because during the past 100 years, a surprisingly large number of Americans, public officials, missionaries, teachers, doctors, businessmen, sea captains went to China.

Some became expert in language and dialect; some played important roles in the administration of the country. Especially able have been missionaries, who always live close to the people, often far inland away from the Westernized atmosphere of the treaty ports.

For instance, Roy Anderson, who was born in Soochow, whose father, a former newspaperman in Atlanta, Georgia, turned missionary, was president of Soochow University. Roy Anderson spoke many dialects of Chinese and played Chinese politics like a true Southern Democrat. He was an important factor in Sun Yat-Sen's revolution of 1911 which defeated the Manchus.

Subsequently, from 1911 to 1925 when he died, Anderson made and unmade cabinet officers, provincial governors and, in one instance, even a president. He died in Peking on the very same day that Sun-Yat-Sen died there and the Chinese erected a monument to him.

There were many such Americans in China. Rodney Gilbert, for instance, who occasionally writes for the "New York Herald Tribune," was regarded by Chinese as one of the best informed men in the country. Upton Close was an adviser to Wu Pei-Fu. George Fitch was always close to Chiang Kai-Shek. At one time, nearly every Chinese warlord or official of standing had an American adviser, and many of them did excellent service.

The businessmen, particularly those connected with the British-American Tobacco Company and the Standard Oil Company of New York, stayed long and knew much. No man has accumulated more information and more friends than Major Arthur Bassett of the British-American Tobacco Company. His career in China might be cited as an example of prolonged residence and vast knowledge.

A Missourian, he arrived in China in 1906 from the Philippines where he was an American lawyer. He was the United States district attorney attached to the American court under extraterritorial jurisdiction. Subsequently, he joined the British-American Tobacco Company. During World War I, he was provost marshal attached to the 15th Infantry in Tientsin. He was an astute intelligence officer.

Bassett possessed an unerring intuition concerning Chinese which made it possible for him to take an obscure cigaret, the "Ruby Queen," and make it the best selling brand in the country by the employment of Chinese methods of selling through a Chinese organization of his own devising. As a matter of fact, his success served to revolutionize the sales methods of all companies dealing in imported consumer's goods.

In the 1930's there must have been a thousand or more men and women of this calibre in the United States, Americans with a vast and intensive knowledge of Chinese, Chinese affairs and personalities, and some of them with prolonged residence in that country and other parts of Asia. They were all available for the service of our government.

After Roosevelt became President, most of the so-called "old China hands" were dropped by the State Department. Because of their long residence in the country, they were supposed to be prejudiced. Because they knew so many important Chinese personally and intimately, they were supposed to be biased. Even men in the State Department, with long experience in China, were shoved out of the department altogether or moved to other parts of the world with which they had no familiarity.

An entirely new crowd came in. Dean Acheson and Alger Hiss, who took over management of Far Eastern affairs, had had no Far Eastern experience, knew no Far Eastern language and had never visited a Far Eastern county. The same was true of Dr. Philip Jessup.

Most of the newer men who emerged as authorities centered about the Institute of Pacific Relations, then profoundly dominated by Frederick Vanderbilt Field and Owen Lattimore. This organization became a kind of Far Eastern trade union that, in some manner, now being investigated by the McCarran Committee, exercised an undue influence upon the selection and promotion of personnel in the Far Eastern Divisions of the State Department.

Dean Acheson could, out of the many Americans with Far Eastern experience, select those whom he wished as experts and advisers. He aparently chose not the most experienced, the most successful or the wisest, but those who fitted his predispositions. The question then arises: what predisposed him in the direction that he took?

Choosing A Nominee

By MARK SULLIVAN

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is supported for the Republican Presidential nomination by a number of Republican leaders who have impressive standing. Chief among them is Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, and the others include leaders in large Eastern states, conspicuously Pennsylvania and Massachusetts. These, with leaders in scattered states outside the east, make the Eisenhower movement formidable.

But to get Gen. Eisenhower nominated the leaders must have support from rank and file Republican voters. The Presidential nomination will be made in a convention of some 1,100 delegates, of whom many will be chosen by Republican voters in direct primaries in the states, others by processes which reflect the voters indirectly. The rank and file of Republican voters has power to make the conclusive decision.

As to the present feeling about Gen. Eisenhower among Republican voters, there is little evidence for or against so far. In New Hampshire a poll was conducted recently by "The Manchester Union Leader." The order of choices for the Republican Presidential nomination was striking — first, Gen. Douglas MacArthur with 255 votes; second, Sen. Robert Taft with 201 votes; third, Harold E. Stassen with 167 votes; fourth, Gen. Eisenhower with 104 votes.

Eisenhower's Status

Looking forward to the direct primaries that will begin early next spring, the first question is what will be the status of Gen. Eisenhower at that time—whether he will continue as he now is, a choice favored by important party leaders without express assent by him, or will have taken action in the form of either expressed willingness or expressed unwillingness to be a candidate. Assuming that Gen. Eisenhower, when the primaries begin next spring, has a status in which Republican voters will be called on to say whether they prefer him or another for the Presidential nomination, his situation will be extraordinary and in fact is extraordinary now.

Gen. Eisenhower has a unique relation to the United States of itself and to the United States in its relation to the world. He is he official head of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, made up of 10 European countries and the United States and Canada. The function of that organization is to build up the military and economic strength of Western Europe for defense against aggression by Communist Russia. Gen. Eisenhower is the head of NATO, he implements its functioning, and is the symbol of what it stands for.

This position of Gen. Eisenhower creates a score of complex conditions likely to bedevil him when he considers whether to decide, tacitly or expressly, whether to let advocacy of him for the Republican Presidential nomination go on. It is likely to bedevil both him and the country if and when he should be in a campaign for the nomination, and if and when he should be in the ensuing campaign for the Presidency.

Many Complex Conditions

The conditions likely to enter voters' minds are many and infinitely complex. The NTAO, which Gen. Eisenhower heads is itself a subject of some concern on the part of many persons. Recently it has seemed to point toward need or wish of Western European countries for more help by us to build up their economic strength. This raises a question how much and how long we can give help without running risk to us of economic disaster through inflation. Also NATO is an important part of the foreign policy of the Truman administration. Voters may assume, and in this case would probably be wrong, that Gen. Eisenhower as the symbol of NTAO is also a symbol of the administration's foreign policy as a whole. And voters may fail or refuse to distinguish between the present foreign policy of the Truman administration and its past record, including its record about China.

Regardless of Gen. Eisenhower and whatever is or may become his relation to the Republican Presidential nomination, America has desperate need of a great clarification. This is a statement from a source other than the administration, which is necessarily partisan and self-interested, of what is likely to be the cost of NATO and of other commitments the administration has assumed or implied. Only by knowing this can we decide how much foreign aid we can give without incurring risk of what Communist Russia most wishes, economic debacle in the United States as a result of inflation. Only thus can Republican voters choose a good nominee, and the electorate as a whole choose a good President.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—A new code of ethics seems to be required for Republican national chairmen, though it is based on an entirely different set of circumstances than the case of Democratic National Chairman William Boyle.

Guy Gabrielson, head of the Republican National Headquarters, happens to be president of a company which needed a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. So he naturally went about it directly without intermediaries. Now he is being accused of impropriety because the headlines tell how Mr. Boyle ,the head of the Democratic headquarters, has been approaching the RFC by telephoning "introductions" to officials for his clients who sought loans.

It turns out that Mr. Boyle is being questioned by a Senate committee not only as to his own activities but as to whether he derived any financial benefit from the contacts which his law partner had made with the RFC after he became national chairman.

Different Cases

The two cases are entirely different but many Republican senators are highly displeased with what Mr. Gabrielson did—mostly because it enables the Democrats to point the finger of blame in his direction. It thus tends to absolve—at least in the headlines—Mr. Boyle of any impropriety. For if "everybody was doing it," the doctrine espoused in some quarters here is that this makes it all right.

Actually, as Senator Taft—who doesn't agree with his colleagues about the matter—puts it, there is a vast difference between the Boyle and the Gabrielson cases. For one thing, as Representative Clare Hoffman of Michigan, Republican, remarks facetiously, Mr. Gabrielson ought to resign for "dumbness"—that is, for thinking a Republican national chairman would have any influence or pull with the Democratic-controlled RFC.

But Senator Williams of Delaware, Republican, who has been emphatic in his expressions in the Senate disapproving what Mr. Gabrielson did, says that everyone knows that there may be a change some day in the political complexion of the administration here and the appointive power may shift to the next Republican administration. Then presumably a member of the RFC board of directors—this was before a single administrator had been appointed—might be worrying about what might happen when his own term expired in the middle of a Republican administration. Influence with a Republican party chairman might come in handy. The theory is that the RFC members who pay any attention to politics at all would be just as likely to want to feather their nests by standing in with a Republican national chairman as with a Democratic.

Primarily, the Republicans who are crying out against Mr. Gabrielson are indignant that the revelation about his negotiation of a loan tended to take the edge off the juicy scandal headlines from which the Republicans in Congress were expected to benefit in connection with the Boyle case. Along came the case of the Republican national chairman to spoil their publicity. The public, indeed, carelessly bunches the two together.

Tough For Politicians

Under the circumstances, whether Mr. Gabrielson really did anything wrong or improper has become secondary. He is about to be offered up as a sacrifice on the altar of political righteousness, and it isn't often that a Republican finds himself in a position to help the cause of his party by gracefully withdrawing from the picture on that score.

Mr. Gabrielson doubtless knows that, unfortunately, his resignation will not altogether cleanse the situation. For, if the truth were known, national committeemen of both parties are pretty influential citizens in their respective states and, while it may be that not any of the others had dealings with the RFC, it is also possible that some of them are lawyers who practice before government departments. Pretty soon all these investigations are going to take the joy out of life for the practical politician—and maybe, in a wave of curiosity as to what really constitutes ethics, the spotlight will be turned on all the members of Congress and members of the state legislatures whose law offices or law partners at home receive legal fees from corporations and labor unions and other interests which have legislative matters up with federal and state governments.

Blaze Results From Slip Of Hammer

The slip of a hammer yesterday morning was blamed for starting a fire at the residence of Frank Swisher, 713 Virginia Avenue.

According to firemen from Engine Company No. 2 who extinguished the blaze, Swisher was doing some carpenter work in the basement of his home when the hammer slipped from his grasp and cracked a bottle of inflammable fluid under a bench. Fumes escaping from the bottle reached the pilot light of the hot water tank and started a flash fire.

Firemen managed to confine the blaze to the basement of the two-story brick home. The first-floor sub flooring was charred in several places and some hunting clothes and equipment were destroyed. The fire occurred at 11:30 a. m. and firemen remained at the scene for an hour. Water from a booster line was used to douse the flames.

Air Forces Facility And Unit Listed For Bedford

A permanent Air Force unit of more than 200 men and officers will be established in Bedford county, Pa., it has been learned.

The group will be under the command of the Eastern Air Defense Force.

According to reports from the Pennsylvania area, a sizeable defense installation has been under construction but its location and details of development are matters of rigid security. News sources have been requested to comply with censorship regulations.

Officers and men who will be stationed there will seek quarters within the county and efforts are being made to develop a housing project to care for the 50 or more families expected now. More are anticipated later.

The official press release by the Air Force follows:

"An advance detachment of an Air Force unit under the command of Eastern Air Defense Force will arrive soon at a new operational station outside Bedford.

"The announcement made today from Eastern Air Defense Force Headquarters at Newburgh, N. Y., said the unit will be built up gradually as construction is completed, probably in January.

"The organization is commanded by Major Paul W. Mattox who said married personnel among the unit's nearly 200 officers and airmen will seek quarters in the surrounding area, in-as-much as no family quarters will be available at the installation.

"A native of Winter Haven, Fla., Major Mattox managed a building supply company there before his recall to active duty in the Air Force in September, 1948. A heavy bomber pilot in World War 2, the Major was shot down over Austria in February, 1944, and was a prisoner of war for 15 months in Germany."

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—With a name like mine, one would figure me as an endless devourer of sauerbrauten, knockwurst, pigs' knuckles and other assorted delicacies from the land of the chowderhead .(Actually, I'm half Alsatian, one-sixteenth Irish and one-eighth Scottish—the most important eighth — among other things). When it comes right down to it, however, I am a steak and potatoes man at the table, pure Yankee from the shrimp cocktail to the apple pie, and most German food weighs me down until I feel like one of those dolls you can't knock off their feet, or it puts me to bilious sleep.

I make an exception to this aversion when I make my semi-annual visit to Luchow's which for nearly 70 years has held forth downtown at 14th Street, right off Union Square, as a monument to the Germanic kitchen. In the last 40 years, Der Vaterland has not been over-popular in this country and as far as I can discover, Luchow's never has done too much chest-pounding about the fact that its cuisine is chiefly Teutonic. However, you can take it from me that it is—and, likely, it is the best German restaurant in this country. Possibly even better than any in the Fifth or Sixth Reich—which is it now?—also, what with things the way they are in the old, Old World these months.

At one time, the dark wooden and gilt facade of Luchow's was right in the heart of all that was exciting and cosmopolitan about Manhattan. Now, however, it is in the heart of Communist territory, a last outpost of sedate elegance in a jungle of orange-juice stands, third-run movie houses, union clubrooms and cut-rate clothing stores. It appears to have refused to recognize this change in its environment. When you step into Luchow's today, it has the same warmth, ease, good food and beautifully off-key violin music that it undoubtedly had seven decades ago.

The place was founded in 1882 by August Luchow. It was bought a year and a half ago by Leonard Mitchell, who has operated Olmstead's in Washington for the last 10 years, and when this transaction was announced, H. L. Mencken—a patron for more than half a century—cried in anguish: "This is the end of civilization as we know it!" He wailed needlessly, it developed; Mr. Mitchell not only didn't "modernize"—a dreadful word—the place, but he restored a number of discarded traditional features.

If Luchow's dark corners could talk—whooey. It was there that Victor Herbert held forth regularly and there, according to report, that he wrote some of his operettas. It was there that Herbert called the meeting that led to the founding of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and it was there (this is kind of an anti-climax) that Gus Kahn was dining one night when a beautiful woman entered and so impressed him that he grabbed a pencil and wrote the lyrics of Yes, Sir, That's My Baby.

Back around 1900, Tammany Hall was situated kitty corner from Luchow's and Tony Pastor's was across the street, as was the Academy of Music, where Minnie Maddern Fiske and Marlowe and Sothern acted. The names of Luchow's customers have been impressive and endless—Caruso, Paderewski, McCormack, Barrymore, Lillian Russell, O. Henry, Edgar Lee Masters, ad infinitum.

• — • — •

Seventeen oil paintings are scattered around the restaurant, including a 7 by 12 Auguste Haagborg for which the Royal Museum in Stockholm once offered more than $20,000. Luchow's waiters are as changeless as its atmosphere; seven have been there more than 32 years and 21 in all have been there more than 22 years.

There are today seven public dining rooms in the place and one, the impressively-named Niebelungen room, occupies the site once tenanted by Huber's museum and menagerie. Back near the turn of the century, Luchow patrons were given an added fillip of entertainment when a lion (a toothless lion, it developed) escaped from the menagerie and roamed around the restaurant, sipping Wuerzburger from steins here and there with great pleasure.

History alone know what hardships Luchow's may have gone through during World Wars I and II, when the anti-German feeling was so strong. Somehow this doesn't seems quite right. In the next war, I think I will campaign against this kind of thing. I'll be hanged if I'll give up beef Storonoff just because the people who invented it are miserable nogoodniks.

President and Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes were the first couple to celebrate their silver wedding anniversary in the White House.

Will the coat you select be fashion worthy for seasons to come? Here are authentic style trends.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

From now until spring, your coat makes an entrance when you do. It is a most important factor in the first impression you make.

When it is of cloth, it should be of the finest material, workmanship and styling that you can afford. What you can afford and should spend, according to economists, is about one third of the money you budget for clothes between the first of September and March, unless, of course, your clothing bill runs into astronomical figures.

Fashion Insurance

To insure the highest return on such a large expenditure, stylists say you must ferret out the coats that incorporate the authentic trends in fashion — and then select from all you try on the one that becomes you most. Even for the trained expert, that's no snap, but in judging the new trends you can depend on the following to be sure fire!

There are three coat silhouettes worthy of your consideration. The most popular will be the straight-hanging, full-length style, designed with plenty of fullness eased into the sides or flung into the center back or front for the new "vertical-curve" effect.

Running a close second is the nip-waisted and flare-skirted coat, importantly fashioned this year in reefer, princess and belted designs.

The third coat silhouette is made up of all manner of shorties — 40", 33", and 20" — in boxy, barrel and tunic styles. But if you are planning to wear the new full-skirted dresses, recall the "new look of the 1940's" and you are sure to shudder and resist the 40" versions with no trouble at all but plenty of style wisdom.

For High Returns

The details to look for to protect your coat investment are soft, natural roomy shoulders; sleeve fullness just below the shoulder; no collar, very little collar, or one that is bunchy and softly draped around your shoulders. The future of your coat's fabric can be counted on if it is deep piled or textured, such as poodle cloth, fleece, tweed, velour-like materials, mohair blends, zibeline and corduroy. Your coat can be electrified with colors such as scarlet, bright pink, wine, burnished gold, bronzy green, royal or purple — or a basic like black, navy, dark gray, brown (the entire range from beige through copper to oxford) or a tweedy mixture.

For chi-chi, let the lining be brilliant shock. Add those details up and your coat is sure to be handsome — that's the look of the season!

OMAHA—(INS)—Lt. Gen. Curtis LeMay, No. 1 trigger man of the free world if Russia attacks our side, is a hard-looking man who chews a dead stogie and talks out of the side of his mouth, like Mickey Cochrane used to do when the chips were down.

But if you'd suggest right now that the head of the crack Strategic Air Command has even a trace of alloy in his heart of gold, I know of 300 guys who'd take a punch at you.

They are the occupants of the snazziest barracks in the history of the military. Better not let them hear you say anything about the people of Omaha, either. For the people furnished the barracks—out of their own stores and pockets—and there's never been more affection racing back and forth between the military man and the civilian than you'll detect around SAC headquarters.

It all goes back to the special job of the men of SAC, and LeMay's way of standing up and battling for them. The average enlisted man who winds up in SAC has to know more than any other enlisted man in our arms history.

• — • — •

He has to know hitherto uncharted courses in the feeding and watering of the most advanced iron birds that come out of the blueprint nesting grounds. If he is in the fist-swinging end of SAC, he must be ready night and day to take his appointed place in an appointed part of an appointed ship and do an excruciatingly sensitive job correctly—as a cog in the vast machinery of throwing the great Sunday punch SAC could throw before Stalin could say Jackie Robinson.

Up till last week, airmen at SAC headquarters lived pretty much as post-bound American soldiers have lived since the war of 1812. They were crowded into ancient and crummy red-brick barracks, always too many men to a room, with a common latrine. Getting one good night's sleep a month became a standard goal.

Well, somebody gave a hot-foot to a short row of these barracks and they happily burned to the ground. Washington, after the usual hawing and hemming, sent the general $300,000 and told him, in effect, to build something equally uncomfortable to that which burned.

But LeMay had another idea, and shaking it loose from him proved to be just too much. Finally the Air Force reminded him that if he did not want to build a red-brick ant-hill, he should, at least, build one of the approved Air Force type barracks. LeMay bit off another chunk of cigar . . . and work began, as he wanted it.

• — • — •

You ought to see it. If it were put up on the beach at Miami, or out around Malibou or Phoenix, the prop. & Mgr. could get about 15 skins a day for each room. It's pale green with a lot of windows. At each end of the hall of each floor there's a lounge, beautifully done. There's a television room, radio room, and room for the family when it visits.

Only two men to a bedroom, with plenty of closet-space and dresser drawers, good lighting and innersprings. They share a fine bathroom with the two guys on the other side, and perhaps the first lock in latrine history is on the door.

The first really comfortable barracks any U. S. serviceman ever knew actually cost less dough that it would have cost to reproduce the wretched old job. And the people of Omaha were only too happy to deck it out in fine style, to the tune of about $50,000 worth of furniture and fittings.

One airman who was liberated from the old red-brick quarters breathed the fresh air of the new place, on opening day, and said, "I was gonna' get marired, but now I dunno. I hate to leave this purty place." No sad sack, he. He's a glad SAC.

P. S.—The brass came out from Washington, looked it over, marveled, and who knows? Maybe it's the prototype of the standard barracks of the future. After all there's nothing in the draft or enlistment contract that says a kid had to be miserable while serving his country.

Up till last week, airmen at SAC headquarters lived pretty much as post-bound American soldiers have lived since the war of 1812. They were crowded into ancient and crummy red-brick barracks, always too many men to a room, with a common latrine. Getting one good night's sleep a month became a standard goal.

Well, somebody gave a hot-foot to a short row of these barracks and they happily burned to the ground. Washington, after the usual hawing and hemming, sent the general $300,000 and told him, in effect, to build something equally uncomfortable to that which burned.

But LeMay had another idea, and shaking it loose from him proved to be just too much. Finally the Air Force reminded him that if he did not want to build a red-brick anthill, he should, at least, build one of the approved Air Force type barracks. LeMay bit off another chunk of cigar . . . and work began, as he wanted it.

You ought to see it. If it were put up on the beach at Miami, or out around Malibou or Phoenix, the prop. & Mgr. could get about 15 skins a day for each room. It's pale green with a lot of windows. At each end of the hall of each floor there's a lounge, beautifully done. There's a television room, radio room, and room for the family when it visits.

Only two men to a bedroom, with plenty of closet-space and dresser drawers, good lighting and innersprings. They share a fine bathroom with the two guys on the other side, and perhaps the first lock in latrine history is on the door.

The first really comfortable barracks any U. S. serviceman ever knew actually cost less dough that it would have cost to reproduce the wretched old job. And the people of Omaha were only too happy to deck it out in fine style, to the tune of about $50,000 worth of furniture and fittings.

One airman who was liberated from the old red-brick quarters breathed the fresh air of the new place, on opening day, and said, "I was gonna' get married, but now I dunno. I hate to leave this purty place." No sad sack, he. He's a glad SAC.

P. S.—The brass came out from Washington, looked it over, marveled, and who knows? Maybe it's the prototype of the standard barracks of the future. After all there's nothing in the draft or enlistment contract that says a kid had to be miserable while serving his country.

Should you respect a child's modesty?

Answer: By all means, even though you may think it is exaggerated as it sometimes will be. No matter how hard you may try to bring a child up free from "false shame," he or she is likely to acquire it from playmates and should be left to outgrow it rather than laughed at or coerced. A child who has previously had few or no conscious sexual feelings may develop an exaggerated modesty with the approach of adolescence in the effort to control emotions, the intensity of which is frightening, and which he or she is still too young to express wisely. "Shocking" a child is more apt to strengthen inhibitions than to free him or her from them.

Is the average I. Q. declining?

Answer: There is no proof of this, says a writer in Eugenics News. The idea that the average intelligence must be declining because the more intelligent "upper classes" do not have as many children as the "lower" ones ignores the fact that the intelligence of 60% of the underprivileged groups is never fully developed. Before we can even estimate the average intelligence we must find ways to judge the "real mental ability" of the man who never had a chance to get beyond the sixth grade as fairly as we could if he had gone to college. Given an equal opportunity his children may be as intelligent as those of a "Ph. D."

Can a writer "say more than he knows"?

Answer: Certainly. All writing—indeed, all behavior—expresses unconscious aims and feelings which are unconsciously recognized by others. The ultimate success of a novelist or poet depends on his ability to release or gratify his readers' repressed and unconscious feelings at the same time as he does his own through his "creations." The great essayist, De Quincey, wrote: "All that is literature seeks to communicate power: all that is not literature, to communicate knowledge." "Power" of course means emotion, but the process by which it is "communicated," while based upon consciously planned techniques, remains fundamentally intuitive.

Shoemaker Raises Funds To Build Aqueduct For Native Town In Italy

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP) — A 68-year-old shoemaker returned from Italy today, his mission accomplished. He had given his native Santa Groce Di Magliano its most precious gift—water.

Three years ago, Joseph D'Amico of Atlantic City, N. J. went back on a visit to the ancient village where he was born. There, he was shocked to see his 74-year-old sister—and all the other 7,000 villagers—trudge five miles up a mountain for their water.

"I decided then and there that town would have water," he said.

Returning home he raised $10,000 from his former townsmen in this country, then added $4,000 of his own money to build an aqueduct for Santa Groce.

The aqueduct was completed when he returned to Santa Groce five months ago.

Youth Is Held For $10 Holdup

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Joseph A. Wagstaff, 26, known to police as the "Chevy Chase bad boy" was held today charged with a $10.60 holdup of a taxi driver.

He and a companion, Richard H. Osborne, 20, Washington were arrested last night after a chase in which six shots were fired by policemen.

George R. Murray, the cab driver, told police the men threatened him with a revolver.

Wagstaff's brushes with the law include:

A shooting in Las Vegas, Nev., in an argument over a gambling debt in 1946. He was sentenced to a year in prison.

A shooting in 1947 which he was wounded by a Bethesda policeman after barricading himself in a Chevy Chase home and threatening to shoot anyone who came near.

An assault upon a maid in his home with a knife in 1949. He was sentenced to two years in the Maryland House of Corrections.

An additional year added to that sentence on charge of attempting to break out of the Rockville, Md., jail while awaiting sentence.

School Board Okays Hagerstown Contract

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 25 (AP) —The Washington County Board of Education said today there are no extravagances in the architect's plans for a new elementary school in Hagerstown.

The Board of County Commissioners last week held up the awarding of the contract for the $725,000 building after one of the commissioners protested the plans are full of "frills."

The commissioners took up the matter again today but made no decision.

Mental Inmate Sues Indiana For $15 Million

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 25 (AP) — A 46-year-old man in the hospital for insane at the Michigan City State Prison has sued the state of Indiana for $15,000,000 damages.

Kenneth White says in a petition written in longhand that the state owes him money for submitting him to "organized crime" when it put him in prison.

White, who was a well digger, told the Indiana Supreme Court his "professional name and reputation" has been damaged. He asks $125 for every hour spent in prison.

White was sentenced Nov. 28, 1949 in Princeton, Ind., to 2 to 25 years on a charge of obtaining title to another man's automobile by fraud.

Czech Envoy Says Oatis Well

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Communist Czechoslovakia's new envoy said today imprisoned Associated Press Correspondent William N. Oatis is "quite well". He held open the possibility that his release might be negotiated.

But Ambassador Vladimir Prochazka said first "it would be necessary to clean the atomosphere" of relations between the U. S. and Czechoslovakia. He added there were no signs of improvement at this time.

Prochazka's reassurance that Oatis is alive and well was given at a news conference at which the envoy defended Oatis' conviction and assailed the U. S. for exerting "pressure" on Czechoslovakia by means of export controls and a current move to cut off tariff concessions.

Oatis, sentenced to ten years on charges that his news reporting made him guilty of spying against the Communist regime, is now in jail, Prochazka said. He said this information was received quite recently from Prague but added no details.

Rep. Rankin Blocks Child's Entry To U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Asserting the country is being "flooded" with Unamerican elements," Rep. Rankin (D-Miss) today blocked House passage of a bill to admit three-year-old half-Japanese child to the United States.

The bill, by Senator Knowland (R-Calif), has been passed by the Senate.

The child, Pascal Nemoto Yutaka, has been adopted by Air Force Capt. and Mrs. James R. Evans of Imperial Beach, Calif. Evans is now stationed in Japan but has been ordered home in October.

Rep. Feighan (D-Ohio) sought action on the bill under a procedure requiring unanimous consent.

City Tax Office Has Busy Day

The City Collector's Office had another busy day yesterday, with collections totaling $24,033 by 3 p. m.

George E. Davis, city collector, said Monday's collections totaled $31,305.61, bringing the total by 3 p. m. to the $55,338.61 mark.

Mail payments which were being tabulated late yesterday afternoon were expected to raise the total considerably.

Curley Is Nominated In Boston Primary

BOSTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—The veteran James Michael Curley and the man who unseated him as mayor two years ago—John B. Hayes—will repeat their fight for mayor of this stail old city again in November.

They won nomination tonight in Boston's first mayoral primary—a non-partisan test of strength at the polls that saw the 77-year-old Curley suffering a setback in some of his one-time strongholds.

Curley—last of the nation's big city "bosses"—was still confident of winning in the final showdown in the final showdown in his attempt at a comeback with the assertion "now there's just two of us—the road is now clear, the issues are clear."

State Police Open New Pistol Range

FREDERICK, Md., Sept. 25 (AP)—Col. Elmer F. Munshower, state police superintendent, will dedicate a new outdoor pistol range at Barracks "B" near here tomorrow.

The range, constructed under the supervision of Lt. Walter K. May, is modern in every detail and considered one of the best in the area.

Grand Jury Says New York Police Corrupt For 10 Years

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—A boiling mad Brooklyn grand jury charged today that New York's top policemen have been in league with gamblers for 10 years.

It put the finger on nearly every inspector of the past decade labelling them "a hierarchy of corrupt officials."

Even those who never took a penny, the grand jury said, were in on the scheme to rake in bribes.

The grand jury demanded a wholesale housecleaning of brass in the 19,000-man police department. It said those who can't be fired should be demoted.

It also urged that district attorneys (prosecutors) make a constant check of the cops in their boroughs.

The grand jury's bitter arraignment of the department came in the form of a presentment, which is a statement that does not require criminal prosecution like an indictment.

Police Commissioner George Monaghan—a recent appointee who was not blamed by the grand jury—had nothing to say about the presentment.

The rackets-probing grand jury's presentment came a week after balky bookie Harry Gross wrecked its big bribe case against 18 New York policemen. Gross refused to testify against them.

The cops allegedly took $1,000,000 a year in bribes to protect Gross' $20,000,000 a year gambling ring.

England's King Gains Strength

LONDON, Sept. 25 (AP)—King George VI took nourishment today for the first time since he underwent a serious lung operation Sunday.

A medical bulletin issued by Buckingham Palace revealed to the monarch's anxious subjects that he has thrown off any immediate post-operative shock or complications.

"The king has had a comfortable day and has been able to take some nourishment," the bulletin said.

The sixth issued since the operation, it was in the same encouraging vein as a morning announcement that the king had a restful night and "continues to gain strength."

A murmur of "that's good" swept through a small crowd, made up mostly of women, when the sixth bulletin was posted on the palace fence. The throng had waited through a shower for the news.

Read together, the day's two announcements showed clearly that the king was making a strong fight toward health in his dimly lighted sick room in the palace. But his fight still is expected to be a long one.

That is why no final decision has yet been taken on whether the visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to Canada and to Washington will be cancelled. They are due to fly to Quebec Oct. 2. A palace spokesman noted that they would not have to leave London until this weekend.

Gabrielson Asked To Resign As Chairman

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Rep. Saylor (R-Pa) today wrote Guy Gabrielson suggesting that he resign immediately as chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Saylor said in his letter that he believes "great harm has been done the cause of the Republican Party by the implications of your own relations with the RFC as an executive of the Carthage Hydrocol, Inc., while acting as chairman of our great political party."

Carthage-Hydrocol has an $18,500,000 RFC loan.

Saylor said "there is no evidence at this time that these relations (with the Reconstruction Finance Corp.) have been anything but legitimate and honorable."

Sailor Who Griped Will Be Disciplined

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 25 (AP)—A gob who griped about the chow served at the Bainbridge, Md., naval training center will be disciplined but not court-martialed.

Several weeks ago Bruce S. Hoping, yeoman third class, USNR, incurred the displeasure of the navy by distributing handbills urging his mates to tell their Congressmen about the quality of the food served at Bainbridge.

The file on the case wound up in the lap of Rear Adm. R. O. Davis, commandant of the Fifth Naval District. Davis said today he had considered carefully "the circumstances and charges" and had decided that:

"The offense does not lie within the proper court martial category and his (Hopping's) commanding officer at Bainbridge has been directed to take appropriate disciplinary action short of judicial action."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Efforts to settle the 10 day old W. M. & A., Bus Company strike continued today with little prospects of an early settlement.

Principal points in dispute are wages and pension plans in a new working agreement.

School Board Okays Hagerstown Contract

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 25 (AP) —The Washington County Board of Education said today there are no extravagances in the architect's plans for a new elementary school in Hagerstown.

The Board of County Commissioners last week held up the awarding of the contract for the $725,000 building after one of the commissioners protested the plans are full of "frills."

The commissioners took up the matter again today but made no decision.

Mental Inmate Sues Indiana For $15 Million

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 25 (AP) — A 46-year-old man in the hospital for insane at the Michigan City State Prison has sued the state of Indiana for $15,000,000 damages.

Kenneth White says in a petition written in longhand that the state owes him money for submitting him to "organized crime" when it put him in prison.

White, who was a well digger, told the Indiana Supreme Court his "professional name and reputation" has been damaged. He asks $125 for every hour spent in prison.

White was sentenced Nov. 28, 1949 in Princeton, Ind., to 2 to 25 years on a charge of obtaining title to another man's automobile by fraud.

Czech Envoy Says Oatis Well

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Communist Czechoslovakia's new envoy said today imprisoned Associated Press Correspondent William N. Oatis is "quite well". He held open the possibility that his release might be negotiated.

But Ambassador Vladimir Prochazka said first "it would be necessary to clean the atomosphere" of relations between the U. S. and Czechoslovakia. He added there were no signs of improvement at this time.

Prochazka's reassurance that Oatis is alive and well was given at a news conference at which the envoy defended Oatis' conviction and assailed the U. S. for exerting "pressure" on Czechoslovakia by means of export controls and a current move to cut off tariff concessions.

Oatis, sentenced to ten years on charges that his news reporting made him guilty of spying against the Communist regime, is now in jail, Prochazka said. He said this information was received quite recently from Prague but added no details.

The bill, by Senator Knowland (R-Calif), has been passed by the Senate.

The child, Pascal Nemoto Yutaka, has been adopted by Air Force Capt. and Mrs. James R. Evans of Imperial Beach, Calif. Evans is now stationed in Japan but has been ordered home in October.

Curley Is Nominated In Boston Primary

BOSTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—The veteran James Michael Curley and the man who unseated him as mayor two years ago—John B. Hayes—will repeat their fight for mayor of this stail old city again in November.

They won nomination tonight in Boston's first mayoral primary—a non-partisan test of strength at the polls that saw the 77-year-old Curley suffering a setback in some of his one-time strongholds.

Curley—last of the nation's big city "bosses"—was still confident of winning in the final showdown in the final showdown in his attempt at a comeback with the assertion "now there's just two of us—the road is now clear, the issues are clear."

The range, constructed under the supervision of Lt. Walter K. May, is modern in every detail and considered one of the best in the area.

Grand Jury Says New York Police Corrupt For 10 Years

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—A boiling mad Brooklyn grand jury charged today that New York's top policemen have been in league with gamblers for 10 years.

It put the finger on nearly every inspector of the past decade labelling them "a hierarchy of corrupt officials."

Even those who never took a penny, the grand jury said, were in on the scheme to rake in bribes.

The grand jury demanded a wholesale housecleaning of brass in the 19,000-man police department. It said those who can't be fired should be demoted.

It also urged that district attorneys (prosecutors) make a constant check of the cops in their boroughs.

The grand jury's bitter arraignment of the department came in the form of a presentment, which is a statement that does not require criminal prosecution like an indictment.

Police Commissioner George Monaghan—a recent appointee who was not blamed by the grand jury—had nothing to say about the presentment.

The rackets-probing grand jury's presentment came a week after balky bookie Harry Gross wrecked its big bribe case against 18 New York policemen. Gross refused to testify against them.

The cops allegedly took $1,000,000 a year in bribes to protect Gross' $20,000,000 a year gambling ring.

England's King Gains Strength

LONDON, Sept. 25 (AP)—King George VI took nourishment today for the first time since he underwent a serious lung operation Sunday.

A medical bulletin issued by Buckingham Palace revealed to the monarch's anxious subjects that he has thrown off any immediate post-operative shock or complications.

"The king has had a comfortable day and has been able to take some nourishment," the bulletin said.

The sixth issued since the operation, it was in the same encouraging vein as a morning announcement that the king had a restful night and "continues to gain strength."

A murmur of "that's good" swept through a small crowd, made up mostly of women, when the sixth bulletin was posted on the palace fence. The throng had waited through a shower for the news.

Read together, the day's two announcements showed clearly that the king was making a strong fight toward health in his dimly lighted sick room in the palace. But his fight still is expected to be a long one.

That is why no final decision has yet been taken on whether the visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to Canada and to Washington will be cancelled. They are due to fly to Quebec Oct. 2. A palace spokesman noted that they would not have to leave London until this weekend.

Gabrielson Asked To Resign As Chairman

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Rep. Saylor (R-Pa) today wrote Guy Gabrielson suggesting that he resign immediately as chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Saylor said in his letter that he believes "great harm has been done the cause of the Republican Party by the implications of your own relations with the RFC as an executive of the Carthage Hydrocol, Inc., while acting as chairman of our great political party."

Carthage-Hydrocol has an $18,500,000 RFC loan.

Saylor said "there is no evidence at this time that these relations (with the Reconstruction Finance Corp.) have been anything but legitimate and honorable."

Sailor Who Griped Will Be Disciplined

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 25 (AP)—A gob who griped about the chow served at the Bainbridge, Md., naval training center will be disciplined but not court-martialed.

Several weeks ago Bruce S. Hoping, yeoman third class, USNR, incurred the displeasure of the navy by distributing handbills urging his mates to tell their Congressmen about the quality of the food served at Bainbridge.

The file on the case wound up in the lap of Rear Adm. R. O. Davis, commandant of the Fifth Naval District. Davis said today he had considered carefully "the circumstances and charges" and had decided that:

"The offense does not lie within the proper court martial category and his (Hopping's) commanding officer at Bainbridge has been directed to take appropriate disciplinary action short of judicial action."

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

The Big Broadway Shoot

On my way home from the office the other evening, I stopped to see Bud Fisher, who draws Mutt and Jeff practically the first comic strip and still the funniest. We got to talking about shootings by gunmen without hunting licenses and naturaly the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, for which Charles Becker, a New York police lieutenant, sat down for the last time in the hot seat at Sing Sing. It happened about two in the morning in front of the old Metropole Hotel in West Forty-third Street, New York.

John Wheeler

"Early to bed and early to rise, and you meet few prominent people," said George Ade once. And perhaps miss a murder.

At the time of this event, I was a reporter on a morning paper, and finished work about midnight. It wasn't I had gone to bed when the shooting started, but I was absent because I lingered a few blocks away at the Winter Garden Theater waiting for a young lady who had been attending a late rehearsal before the show opened the next night.

There had been stories of graft along Broadway, and Becker was the head of the Strong Arm Squad, supposed to raid joints which violated the law. The reports were Rosenthal, who was the proprietor of a gambling establishment, had been shaken down to the point where the well was running dry. He had agreed to testify before the Grand Jury, and this caused a general outbreak of goose flesh and the oiling up of the old equalizers. There is a similar situation in New York today.

The policeman, Becker, had gone to a fight in Coney Island, many miles from the scene of the murder, with some of his cronies that night. The gambler was in the Metropole Hotel with a few frends or guys he thought were. The tenderloin was on edge. A messenger walked up to his table.

"There's a man wants to see you ouside," he said.

Rosenthal got up and went through the front door into the street, apparently without suspicion. A black automobile at the curb began to spit shots through its open windows, the target fell to the sidewalk, and the car roared away. The gambler was dead. How was Becker, the cop, who was home asleep by this time, connected ith the crime?

Herbert Swope, an alert reporter then, rousted Charles Whitman, the district attorney, out of bed and urged him to rush down to the West Forty-seventh Street police station. It was reported Becker's friends were trying to cover up the license number. Some witness had noted it down. The four gunmen—Gyp, the Blood, Lefty Louis, and the others—were found in the Catskills, hiding out. Then the trail led to the intermediaries, Bald Jack Rose, Sam Schepps, and some more. They began to feel the heat of the electric chair, and, as I recall it, Rose was the first to go over to the other side and sing. That's how the police lieutenant came in. He was convicted at his second trial.

Fisher used to draw a lot of timely cartoons when there was a big story running. During World War I, he had Mutt and Jeff hanging around with the Czar before we got in and until the Rusisan Embasy protested to the State Department. At the time of the Becker case, he made a picture of Jeff planting some flowers and Mutt said,

"What's that—a Virginia creeper?"

"No," answered Jeff. "It's a Jack Rose squealer."

The small-time gambler saw it while in jail where he had been put for safe keeping and wrote Bud a letter, asking him for the original drawing which was sent him. He hung it in his cell proudly, evidently feeling it was no reflection on his reputation. He eventually got off.

Folowing the murder, the Metropole, which had always been frequented mostly by the tin-horn sports of the day, was largely deserted. The patrons were superstitious, fearing some one might want to see them outside, in which case the gentleman paged would either get under the table or sneak out the kitchen door. This got to be a gag. The hotel finally had to close up. I recall siting in old Rector's with Wilson Mizner, the Broadway wit and Herbert Swope one night. The former proposed a partnership to take over the joint—he was to supply the ideas, Swope and I the money. We could make it pay by keeping customers out, he insisted.

"Just put an old man on the door, preferably one with the palsy who naturally shakes his head no, so everybody won't be taking a punch at him. Let him turn down every third couple. The word of its exclusiveness will spread, and you'll have a mob fighting to get in."

It seemed a good idea that night, as is often the case, but the hotel continued to gather cobwebs for some time to come. It actually never opened again.

Men's Sales Army Is Named In Chest Drive

To Select Prospects At Thursday Meeting

Members of the Men's Sales Army for the 1951 Community Chest United Defense USO campaign will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at YMCA to select names of prospects to be solicited during the appeal which opens on October 2, according to Henry K. Duke, chairman of the army.

This is the newly formed section this year and will be responsible for the solicitation of business and professional groups having less than eight employes. The larger firms, governmental units and the public schools are included in the Classified section but are grouped according to size of firm rather than the business classification as has been the custom the past several years.

Assiting Duke in the organization of the army are Woodward D. Pealer and Louis V. Shinnamon, co-chairmen, who are organizing ten teams each.

Teams Named

Those reported in Pealer's section include: Team one, George L. Carney, Jr., captain, Herman Grabenstein, James McIntosh, W. Nathan Hauger and E. W. Lowery; Team two, John L. Conway, captain, Marcus A. Naughton, James F. Scarpelli, Paul M. Shircliff and William Umstot.

Team three Donald Coomber, captain; Team four, Dr. William S. Firey, captain, Dr. John Gorman, Albert B. Tosh, E. F. Mullan, Jr., and Richard L. Bucy; Team five Arthur Friedland, captain; Team six, Ray F. Hamner, captain, George H. Plummer, Paul A. Roberson, James A. Rowe and Edwin D. VanMeter.

Team seven, John P. Mackey, captain, John M. Robb, Leslie J. Clark, John W. McClure and Henry Mackey; Team eight, Edward Monaghan, captain, William J. Aumiller and David E. Boyd; Team nine, Donald F. Salesky, captain, Dr. John Robinson, Jr. and Arthur Crump; Team ten, Andrew J. Saliga, captain, Franklin W. Kremer, Paul Buchanan, Ray E. Deremer and Norman E. Chirdon.

Others Listed

Included in the Shinnamon section of the army are: Team 11, Robert O. Collins, captain, Hugh Bartik, John Love, L. E. Bennett and H. W. Campbell; Team 12, Thomas F. Conlon, Jr., captain; Team 13, John J. Coyle, captain, Miles Amick, Bruce Anderson, Edgar Young and Ralph Higgins.

Team 14, Russell J. Ponton, captain; Team 15, Glenn K. Davis, captain, Paul Morin, William Harrison, Waldo Harshberger and Howard E. Cooper; Team 16, Daniel J. Dopko, captain; Team 17, Eric Gibbs, captain; Team 18, David P. Goodfellow, captain; Team 19, George Hankins, captain; Team 20, Robert W. Huck, captain.

While all of the teams are not completed, Duke stated that he thought a record had been set in the matter of building a campaign organization and thought that teams would be 100 per cent organized by the meeting on Thursday evening.

The addition of the USO as a part of the annual appeal and the slightly larger agency budgets because of increased costs has raised the amount sought to $105,159.48 which is the largest fund sought since the war fund years of 1944 and 1945.

Ski Club Election Set Tonight At YMCA

An election of officers is planned at an organizational meeting of the Western Maryland Ski Club this evening at 7:30 o'clock at Central YMCA.

Business to be discussed includes the formation of car pools to transport ski enthusiasts on weekend ski trips, teaching of the sport to beginners and receiving and distributing information on the weather. An attempt will be made by the organization to develop ski areas in this section of the state. Also planned at this evening's meeting will be movies. "Ski Skill" will be shown as well as a film on Canadian skiing. Anyone interested in skiing is invited to attend.

makes its difficult for landings in early morning and night.

Oscar Lewis, station manager for AAA, attended a week-long meeting for the line's agents in Washington last week.

He said that the managers discussed All American service and how to improve it, winter flying and other operational problems.

Lewis revealed that with two flights daily 155 passengers from Cumberland used the airline last month.

Compares Favorably

He stated that Cumberland compares favorably with most intermediate stations on All American seven routes on the number of passengers carried each flight.

The schedule of Cumberland's two flights until October 1 is: Westbound, 10:15 a. m. (DST) and eastbound, 2:53 p. m. (DST).

On October 1 this schedule will go into effect: Westbound 10:06 a. m. (EST), and eastbound, 2:53 p. m. (EST).

Miller said that Cumberland would be a more profitable station if an evening service east and westbound could be made available, but this, he added, is impossible because of the conditions peculiar to the Municipal Airport.

Feathers Of The Past Meet Billy Allen, 65

Floored Attell Twice Claims Ketchel "Best"

By C. V. BURNS

Tonight's featherweight championship fight between Sandy Saddler and Willie Pep is of particular interest to James Allen, 65, of Amcelle Acres, because he once fought one of the greatest featherweight champions of all-time and floored him twice in a no-decision match.

James Allen was a leading 126-pound boxer two score years ago. He fought under the name of "Billy" Allen, engaged in 70 professional matches from 1906 to 1911 and one of the most important tests of his ring career came on January 23, 1911 when he met Abe Attell, the title-holder, in a 10-round no decision scrap at Syracuse, N. Y.

JAMES "BILLY" ALLEN

Those who follow boxing know that Attell, who is still living and resides in New York, is regarded as one of the greatest featherweight champions of all-time.

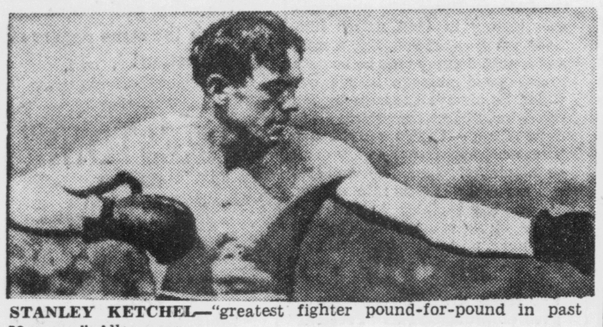
"I had Attell on the floor twice in that Syracuse fight," Allen recalls. "It was a no decision affair but many of the newspapermen at the ringside agreed that I shaded the champ.

"Dropping the world's champion twice was the biggest thrill of my entire boxing career.

"Abe was a clever boxer and a sharp puncher."

Attell won the feather title in 1904 and lost it in 1912 to Johnny Kilbane in a 20-round engagement at Vernon, Calif.

Stanley Ketchel, holder of the world's middleweight title from 1907 to 1910, was the greatest "fighter" pound-for-pound in the past 50-year history of the prize ring is the opinion expressed by Allen.



STANLEY KETCHEL—"greatest fighter pound-for-pound in past 50 years," Allen says.

Allen was a close, personal friend of the battler who was known as the "Michigan Assassin." In fact, "Billy" and Stanley were buddies and traveled from the Pacific Coast eastward for bouts. However, both men did most of their fighting on the West Coast.

Not only was Ketchel a terrific hitter but he was one of the gamest and fastest ringmen of the past half century, Allen contends.

Although outweighed 35 pounds, Ketchel fought Jack Johnson for the world's heavyweight championship in 1909 and came close to winning it when he floored the clever negro with a right to the head that landed behind the mastoid bone. Ketchel extended Jack twelve rounds before he was finally stopped.

Ketchel's brawls with Billy Papke are still listed among the greatest all-time ring battles.

Born Stanislaus Kiecal, the great Ketchel was a native of Grand Rapids, Michigan. He was Polish-American and his best fighting weight was 154 pounds.

On October 15, 1910 while he was still middleweight king, Ketchel was shot and killed by a ranch hand at Conway, Mo.

Allen appeared in many bouts at the Coliseum in San Francisco and also in Seattle, Wash. He did a hitch in the army and while in the service he boxed in the Philippines and Melbourne, Australia.

A native of Westernport where he first saw the light of day in 1886, Allen went to the Pacific Coast as a young man and learned his boxing there.

The ex-featherweight scrapper has taken in a number of local amateur boxing shows in recent years and next to boxing he likes basketball, baseball and softball. At one time he managed a Cresaptown team in one of the county sandlot baseball leagues, piloted a well known basketball quint that played under the name of "Allen's Aces" and during the 1951 County Softball League season which ended its season recently, "Billy" guided the destinies of the Potomac Valley Cubs, one of the hardest-hitting outfits in the circuit.

For the past 24 years Allen has been employed as an electrician at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America.

REPLACES EAGAN—Robert K. Christenberry, 52, poses at his desk in New York following his appointment yesterday as chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission to succeed Eddie Eagan who resigned the $9,378-a-year post he held since 1945. Christenberry, a former sports writer and U. S. consular official, is president of the Hotel Astor. He is a native of Milan, Texas. The commission has control of boxing and wrestling.

Braves Annex Pair, Giants Defeat Phils

Brooklyn's Lead Cut To One Game; Chisox Stun Indians, 4-2

BOSTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Brooklyn Dodgers, suddenly seized by panic, collapsed almost entirely tonight while dropping a floodlighted doubleheader to the Boston Braves, 6-3 and 14-2.

Those shocking setbacks enabled the furiously driving New York Giants to whittle down the Dodgers' first-place lead to a single game with three more to play. The Dodgers still have five to go, including another pair here with the Tribesmen. Box:

Bi-State Will Act On Hyndman Protest

Officers of the Bi-State Baseball League will meet with managers and players of the Westvaco and Hyndman teams tonight at 8 o'clock at the home of Farrady Post, American Legion, Frostburg, to discuss a decision at third base in last Sunday's game upon which umpires disagreed.

One arbiter ruled Frank Patrone was safe at third base after he was trapped between third and home. Another umpire ruled that Patrone was out for running out of the base line. Patrone later scored on a hit that climaxed a five-run rally and enabled Westvaco to win, 8-7.

Westvaco leads in the best-of-five series, 2-0.

Giles Reported Chosen As NL's New President

Reds' Prexy To Make His Decision In Week

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25 (INS)—Warren Giles has been chosen the new president of the National League.

This was learned today by International News Service from an authoritative source who said the 55-year-old president of the Cincinnati Reds has asked for a week in which to make his decision.

National League club owners decided on Giles after he withdrew as a candidate for the baseball commissionership last week to pave the way for the election of former senior circuit president Ford Frick.

Plans are for Giles' formal election to the post which carries a four year term and a $50,000 a year salary to take place after the world series.

It is understood that Giles' reason for wanting more time is that he'd like to remain in Cincinnati for another year or two. Gabe Paul, currently vice president of the Cincinnati ball club, is said to be in line for Giles' job when he leaves.

Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, James Gallagher, general manager of the Chicago Cubs, John Quinn, general manager of the Boston Braves and Ben Reese, former editor of the St. Louis Post Dispatch, were also considered for the National League post, it was said.

Boxing Club Being Probed As Monopoly

IBC Investigated By Government

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (INS)—The New York Daily Mirror said in a copyrighted story tonight that the government has launched an investigation of the International Boxing Club as a potential monopoly.

The Mirror said agents of the Justice Department have been questioning prominent figures in the game, including middleweight champion Ray Robinson and IBC president James Norris.

According to the story, Robinson is counted upon by the government as one of its chief witnesses in the case. Sugar Ray, it said, has been called upon to "stand by" in the event sufficient evidence is obtained to warrant grand jury action.

Robinson is said to have presented a facsimile of his contract for the title fight with Jake LaMotta in Chicago last February in which Ray became bound "to IBC services."

The newspaper said government agents have toured familiar boxing haunts and queried managers and other figures associated with the sports. The Kefauver committee, it added, is also believed to have been instrumental in forcing an IBC probe.

Norris controls the largest indoor arenas in the nation, Madison Square Garden in New York; the Olympia in Detroit and the Stadium in Chicago.

Each of these arenas also house major league hockey teams.

Student Editor Says:

Athletics And Student Cheating Mimic Rest Of Society At Worst

Coach Allen Says He Warned Of Cage Fix

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 25 (AP)—"Athletics and student cheating merely mimic the rest of our society—at its worst," says a student editor.

A sports authority declares elimination of admission charge for athletic contests is "the only sure means for a return to complete amateurism" in intercollegiate sports.

"These are among views expressed in a symposium on "college morals" in the October issue of Motive, national student magazine published here by the Methodist Church Board of Education.

Sports Editor Fred Russell of the Nashville Banner suggested—short of the drastic step of not charging admission—"two definite moves for de-emphasis would be the elimination of spring football practice and the prohibition of postseason games.

"The basic reason for football's over-emphasis is the money the game brings in at the gate. As the breadwinner, certain privileges were granted football . . . these privileges have been stretched, and often abused, to the point that the original function of the game has been corrupted. At many colleges, football is no longer a sport; it is drudgery."

Forrest C. (Phog) Allen, University of Kansas basketball coach, called for "a high commissioner of all intercollegiate athletics at once . . . with real power to enforce rules and complete control over hypocritical subsidization of players."

Allen said he was "pooh-pooed" for his public warning of a gambling fix in basketball in 1944.

Two student editors joined in the symposium.

Allen Hoffard, editor of the Pacific University Index, said "proselyting of athletes is, without a doubt, one of the major troubles in the present college setup."

However, Joan Turner, editor of the MacMurray College Greetings (Jacksonville, Ill.), doesn't believe "the college conscience is gone."

Most students, she said, come from high schools where "cheating is prevalent and 'smart'." That honor does become a part of their lives at college amazed her, she said.

"It leads me to doubt that honor died with southern gallantry or with the West Point class of '18, or that it now rests solely with congressmen, as the cries which arose out of Washington during the recent West Point scandals would indicate," she said.

Feathers Of The Past Meet Billy Allen, 65

Floored Attell Twice Claims Ketchel "Best"

By C. V. BURNS

Tonight's featherweight championship fight between Sandy Saddler and Willie Pep is of particular interest to James Allen, 65, of Amcelle Acres, because he once fought one of the greatest featherweight champions of all-time and floored him twice in a no-decision match.

James Allen was a leading 126-pound boxer two score years ago. He fought under the name of "Billy" Allen, engaged in 70 professional matches from 1906 to 1911 and one of the most important tests of his ring career came on January 23, 1911 when he met Abe Attell, the titleholder, in a 10-round no decision scrap at Syracuse, N. Y.

JAMES "BILLY" ALLEN

Those who follow boxing know that Attell, who is still living and resides in New York, is regarded as one of the greatest featherweight champions of all-time.

"I had Attell on the floor twice in that Syracuse fight," Allen recalls. "It was a no decision affair but many of the newspapermen at the ringside agreed that I shaded the champ.

"Dropping the world's champion twice was the biggest thrill of my entire boxing career.

"Abe was a clever boxer and a sharp puncher."

Attell won the feather title in 1904 and lost it in 1912 to Johnny Kilbane in a 20-round engagement at Vernon, Calif.

Stanley Ketchel, holder of the world's middleweight title from 1907 to 1910, was the greatest "fighter" pound-for-pound in the past 50-year history of the prize ring is the opinion expressed by Allen.

STANLEY KETCHEL—"greatest fighter pound-for-pound in past 50 years," Allen says.

Allen was a close, personal friend of the battler who was known as the "Michigan Assassin." In fact, "Billy" and Stanley were buddies and traveled from the Pacific Coast eastward for bouts. However, both men did most of their fighting on the West Coast.

Not only was Ketchel a terrific hitter but he was one of the gamest and fastest ringmen of the past half century, Allen contends.

Although outweighed 35 pounds, Ketchel fought Jack Johnson for the world's heavyweight championship in 1909 and came close to winning it when he floored the clever negro with a right to the head that landed behind the mastoid bone. Ketchel extended Jack twelve rounds before he was finally stopped.

Ketchel's brawls with Billy Papke are still listed among the greatest all-time ring battles.

Born Stanislaus Kiecal, the great Ketchel was a native of Grand Rapids, Michigan. He was Polish-American and his best fighting weight was 154 pounds.

On October 15, 1910 while he was still middleweight king, Ketchel was shot and killed by a ranch hand at Conway, Mo.

Allen appeared in many bouts at the Coliseum in San Francisco and also in Seattle, Wash. He did a hitch in the army and while in the service he boxed in the Philippines and Melbourne, Australia.

A native of Westernport where he first saw the light of day in 1886, Allen went to the Pacific Coast as a young man and learned his boxing there.

The ex-featherweight scrapper has taken in a number of local amateur boxing shows in recent years and next to boxing he likes basketball, baseball and softball. At one time he managed a Cresaptown team in one of the county sandlot baseball leagues, piloted a well known basketball quint that played under the name of "Allen's Aces" and during the 1951 County Softball League season which ended its season recently, "Billy" guided the destinies of the Potomac Valley Cubs, one of the hardest-hitting outfits in the circuit.

For the past 24 years Allen has been employed as an electrician at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America.

Christenberry, 52, poses at his desk in New York following his appointment yesterday as chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission to succeed Eddie Eagan who resigned the $9,378-a-year post he held since 1945. Christenberry, a former sports writer and U. S. consular official, is president of the Hotel Astor. He is a native of Milan, Texas. The commission has control of boxing and wrestling.

The newspaper said government agents have toured familiar boxing haunts and queried managers and other figures associated with the sports. The Kefauver committee, it added, is also believed to have been instrumental in forcing an IBC probe.

Norris controls the largest indoor arenas in the nation, Madison Square Garden in New York; the Olympia in Detroit and the Stadium in Chicago.

Each of these arenas also house major league hockey teams.

Student Editor Says:

Athletics And Student Cheating Mimic Rest Of Society At Worst

Coach Allen Says He Warned Of Cage Fix

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 25 (AP)—"Athletics and student cheating merely mimic the rest of our society—at its worst," says a student editor.

A sports authority declares elimination of admission charge for athletic contests is "the only sure means for a return to complete amateurism" in intercollegiate sports.

"These are among views expressed in a symposium on "college morals" in the October issue of Motive, national student magazine published here by the Methodist Church Board of Education.

Sports Editor Fred Russell of the Nashville Banner suggested—short of the drastic step of not charging admission—"two definite moves for de-emphasis would be the elimination of spring football practice and the prohibition of postseason games.

"The basic reason for football's over-emphasis is the money the game brings in at the gate. As the breadwinner, certain privileges were granted football . . . these privileges have been stretched, and often abused, to the point that the original function of the game has been corrupted. At many colleges, football is no longer a sport; it is drudgery."

Forrest C. (Phog) Allen, University of Kansas basketball coach, called for "a high commissioner of all intercollegiate athletics at once . . . with real power to enforce rules and complete control over hypocritical subsidization of players."

Allen said he was "pooh-pooed" for his public warning of a gambling fix in basketball in 1944.

Two student editors joined in the symposium.

Allen Hoffard, editor of the Pacific University Index, said "proselyting of athletes is, without a doubt, one of the major troubles in the present college setup."

However, Joan Turner, editor of the MacMurray College Greetings (Jacksonville, Ill.), doesn't believe "the college conscience is gone."

Most students, she said, come from high schools where "cheating is prevalent and 'smart'." That honor does become a part of their lives at college amazed her, she said.

"It leads me to doubt that honor died with southern gallantry or with the West Point class of '18, or that it now rests solely with congressmen, as the cries which arose out of Washington during the recent West Point scandals would indicate," she said.

Saddler, Pep 4th Meeting Set Tonight

Featherweight Title Match To Be Staged At The Polo Grounds

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP) — Chapter four of the Sandy Saddler-Willie Pep featherweight title serial, scheduled for tomorow night at the Polo Grounds, is fighting an uphill battle against rain, baseball talk and Louis-Marciano.

Showers put the damper on the International Boxing Club's hopes for a good windup sale. Plenty of choice seats remained on the racks at $20. Best estimate is a house of 15,000 and a gate of $75,000.

Despite a ban on home television and radio, the fight failed to whip up the enthusiasm of their third meeting last September when 38,781 paid $262,150 to see Pep retire on his stool after seven rounds, claiming a dislocated left shoulder.

There will be theater TV, with New York blacked out, in 17 theaters in 13 cities, and movies of the fight the next day in the theaters. This package will bring in $110,000 or more than the IBC expects at the gate.

Saddler, the defending champ and 2 to 1 favorite, takes a 37½ per cent slice of the gravy. Pep, trying to become the first to hold the same title three times, gets 22½ per cent.

Rain doused Manhattan today in periodic showers. The weatherman said more of the same was to be expected, ending early Wednesday.

The heavy fight schedule for late summer and early fall had its effect on the gate appeal of the 126-pounders. Just as Ray Robinson-Randy Turpin eclipsed the Kid Gavilan-Billy Graham show, the shadow of Joe Louis-Rocky Marciano on Oct. 11 dimmed this match.

If this 15-round match, scheduled for 9:00 p. m. (EST), lives up to the others it will be an interesting contest. The first two were better than the third with its unfortunate ending.

Saddler, a lean spindle-shanked 25-year-old negro from New York's Harlem, is the puncher. A switch-over southpaw, he packs his real wallop in his left hand. He's real rough in the clinches.

Pep, 29, the boxing master, is an artist at the stick-and-spin school. If it goes the route, Wily Willie almost certainly will outstab Sandy.

The pick here is Saddler by a knockout before the tenth.

Gov. Dewey Demands Boxing Clean House, Eagan Resigns

Robert Christenberry Appointed Ring Czar

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 25 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today appointed a new boxing czar for New York State and demanded that the fight game clean house.

Eddie Eagan

In one breath, Dewey announced the resignation of former amateur boxer Eddie Eagan and appointed Robert J. Christenberry, New York City hotel keeper, as chairman of the State Athletic Commission.

Newsmen asked the governor's secretary, James C. Hagerty, whether Dewey had forced out Eagan, in view of mounting criticism against the silvery-haired, one-time Olympic champ.

Hagerty replied tersely:

"He resigned. The announcement speaks for itself."

Christenberry, 52, is president of the Hotel Astor. He formerly was a sports writer and U. S. consular official. Eagan also 52, had held the $9,378-a-year post since 1945.

Both men are Republicans.

The three-member athletic commission, and especially Eagan, has been under heavy fire by sports writers and state legislators in recent years because of its handling of the boxing sport generally. Democratic legislators have charged that the commission did nothing to keep underworld influences out of the sport.

By implication, Dewey rapped the International Boxing Club, which virtually has a monopoly on major ring events.

"Every avenue must be kept open so that free competition exists in every licensed club in the state, with equal opportunity for every boxer," Dewey declared.

John H. Mosner Wins

John H. Mosner advanced to the semi-finals of the second flight in the Cumberland Country Club's fall golf tournament by defeating Sam Gantt, 3 and 2, in a match played yesterday.

Mosner will play Frederic (Fritz) Eiler in the semi-finals.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 25 (AP)—Nolen Richardson, 47, former shortstop for the Detroit American League baseball team, died today after a long illness.

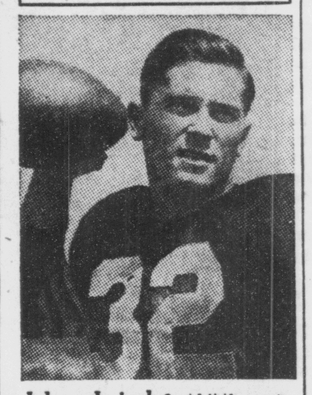
Bob Voigts Signs Five Year Contract At Northwestern

EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 25 (INS)—Bob Voigts, 36-year-old head football coach at Northwestern University, was signed today to a new five-year contract.

The new contract replaces one that was not due to expire until 1953. Northwestern officials declined to disclose details of the new document but it is believed Voigts received a salary increase.

University President J. Roscoe Miller praised Voigts and said the coach "has earned the respect and confidence of everyone connected with Northwestern."

FANCY PASSING



Johnny Lujack first hit the country's headlines in college football and then went to further glory with the Chicago Bears. His phenomenal passing in 1949 netted him 2,658 yards — or, roughly, a mile and a half. Johnny tells us he gets pretty good mileage in his car which he always keeps in tip-top condition. "I like something I can depend on — that's why I use 'Prestone' anti-freeze in my car," says Johnny. "I put it in and forget about it right on into Spring. I know my radiator won't freeze up in bitter cold ... and it won't boil over, no matter how warm it gets between cold spells. It's tops!" One shot lasts all winter. No other anti-freeze gives you the same degree of protection as "Prestone" brand anti-freeze.

You're SET
One shot lasts all winter!

You're SAFE
No rust...no foam... no freeze...no failure!

You're SURE
No other anti-freeze gives the same degree of protection!

Allegany High Jayvee Eleven Defeats Beall

Hoffman, Rank Score In 12 To 0 Victory

Coach James Hosack's Allegany High School Jayvees opened their season with a 12 to 0 victory over Beall High's junior varsity gridders yesterday at Campobello.

Jim Hoffman's off tackle smash from the 12-yard line netted the Campers' first touchdown in the opening period while Dick Rank circled an end and raced 80 yards for the second score in the final stanza.

Cooper and Delaney of Beall and Rank, Joyce and Puhalla of AHS were the best on offense. Allegany's line stopped Beall twice inside the 10-yard line and Hadra, reserve center, was especially outstanding on defense for the victors. Stevenson and Eichhorn were Beall's best bets on the line.

The jayvee teams are composed of ninth and tenth graders.

Allegany will open a two-game series with Ridgeley High next Monday, will meet Beall in a return game later in the season and will play single contests with LaSalle and Fort Hill. Lineups:

Saddler, Pep 4th Meeting Set Tonight

Featherweight Title Match To Be Staged At The Polo Grounds

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP) — Chapter four of the Sandy Saddler-Willie Pep featherweight title serial, scheduled for tomorow night at the Polo Grounds, is fighting an uphill battle against rain, baseball talk and Louis-Marciano.

Showers put the damper on the International Boxing Club's hopes for a good windup sale. Plenty of choice seats remained on the racks at $20. Best estimate is a house of 15,000 and a gate of $75,000.

Despite a ban on home television and radio, the fight failed to whip up the enthusiasm of their third meeting last September when 38,781 paid $262,150 to see Pep retire on his stool after seven rounds, claiming a dislocated left shoulder.

There will be theater TV, with New York blacked out, in 17 theaters in 13 cities, and movies of the fight the next day in the theaters. This package will bring in $110,000 or more than the IBC expects at the gate.

Saddler, the defending champ and 2 to 1 favorite, takes a 37½ per cent slice of the gravy. Pep, trying to become the first to hold the same title three times, gets 22½ per cent.

Rain doused Manhattan today in periodic showers. The weatherman said more of the same was to be expected, ending early Wednesday.

The heavy fight schedule for late summer and early fall had its effect on the gate appeal of the 126-pounders. Just as Ray Robinson-Randy Turpin eclipsed the Kid Gavilan-Billy Graham show, the shadow of Joe Louis-Rocky Marciano on Oct. 11 dimmed this match.

If this 15-round match, scheduled for 9:00 p. m. (EST), lives up to the others it will be an interesting contest. The first two were better than the third with its unfortunate ending.

Saddler, a lean spindle-shanked 25-year-old negro from New York's Harlem, is the puncher. A switch-over southpaw, he packs his real wallop in his left hand. He's real rough in the clinches.

Pep, 29, the boxing master, is an artist at the stick-and-spin school. If it goes the route, Wily Willie almost certainly will outstab Sandy.

The pick here is Saddler by a knockout before the tenth.

Gov. Dewey Demands Boxing Clean House, Eagan Resigns

Robert Christenberry Appointed Ring Czar

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 25 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today appointed a new boxing czar for New York State and demanded that the fight game clean house.

Eddie Eagan

In one breath, Dewey announced the resignation of former amateur boxer Eddie Eagan and appointed Robert J. Christenberry, New York City hotel keeper, as chairman of the State Athletic Commission.

Newsmen asked the governor's secretary, James C. Hagerty, whether Dewey had forced out Eagan, in view of mounting criticism against the silvery-haired, one-time Olympic champ.

Hagerty replied tersely:

"He resigned. The announcement speaks for itself."

Christenberry, 52, is president of the Hotel Astor. He formerly was a sports writer and U. S. consular official. Eagan also 52, had held the $9,378-a-year post since 1945.

Both men are Republicans.

The three-member athletic commission, and especially Eagan, has been under heavy fire by sports writers and state legislators in recent years because of its handling of the boxing sport generally. Democratic legislators have charged that the commission did nothing to keep underworld influences out of the sport.

By implication, Dewey rapped the International Boxing Club, which virtually has a monopoly on major ring events.

"Every avenue must be kept open so that free competition exists in every licensed club in the state, with equal opportunity for every boxer," Dewey declared.

John H. Mosner Wins

John H. Mosner advanced to the semi-finals of the second flight in the Cumberland Country Club's fall golf tournament by defeating Sam Gantt, 3 and 2, in a match played yesterday.

Mosner will play Frederic (Fritz) Eiler in the semi-finals.

Former Tiger Dies

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 25 (AP)—Nolen Richardson, 47, former shortstop for the Detroit American League baseball team, died today after a long illness.

Bob Voigts Signs Five Year Contract At Northwestern

EVANSTON, Ill. Sept. 25 (INS)—Bob Voigts, 36-year-old head football coach at Northwestern University, was signed today to a new five-year contract.

The new contract replaces one that was not due to expire until 1953. Northwestern officials declined to disclose details of the new document but it is believed Voigts received a salary increase.

University President J. Roscoe Miller praised Voigts and said the coach "has earned the respect and confidence of everyone connected with Northwestern."

FANCY PASSING

Johnny Lujack first hit the country's headlines in college football and then went to further glory with the Chicago Bears. His phenomenal passing in 1949 netted him 2,658 yards — or, roughly, a mile and a half. Johnny tells us he gets pretty good mileage in his car which he always keeps in tip-top condition. "I like something I can depend on — that's why I use 'Prestone' anti-freeze in my car," says Johnny. "I put it in and forget about it right on into Spring. I know my radiator won't freeze up in bitter cold... and it won't boil over, no matter how warm it gets between cold spells. It's tops!" One shot lasts all winter. No other anti-freeze gives you the same degree of protection as "Prestone" brand anti-freeze.

You're SET
One shot lasts all winter!

You're SAFE
No rust... no foam... no freeze... no failure!

You're SURE
No other anti-freeze gives the same degree of protection!

OAKLAND'S MT. TOP LEAGUE CHAMPIONS—The Oakland Amvets are the 1951 champions of the 10-team Mountain Top Baseball League following a two-game sweep over Terra Alta in the playoff series. Terra Alta won the first half of the split season race and Oakland finished on top in the second half. The Amvets won the games in the title series by scores of 6-2 and 8-4. Bob Glaze, Oakland pitching ace, won 16 and lost 2 and fanned 137 batsmen during the season. The championship squad pictured above, left to right: FRONT ROW—James Murray, scorekeeper; George Sanders, manager; Robert Glaze, pitcher; James Lyons, centerfield; Gary Baker, shortstop; Dish Cogley, second base, and Bobby Glaze, batboy. SECOND ROW—Marle Fauber, second base; William Sweitzer, right field; John Crosco, outfielder; Ray McManus, catcher; Joe Kahl, left field; Junior Evans, third base; Ted James, 1st base.

13 Three-Year-Olds To Vie At Belmont

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—With Battlefield through for the year because of an injury, Hall of Fame and Counterpoint will make it a two-way battle from now on for three-year-old honors.

They'll go right at it tomorrow in the $20,000-added Jerome Handicap at Belmont. Eleven other three-year-olds will try for the big money in the mile race.

The distance is more suitable to Hall of Fame which has been winning over any stretch and at all tracks of late. Counterpoint, out of action since the Dwyer Stakes in July, likes a long piece of ground to run over like in the Belmont where he beat Battlefield among others.

OAKLAND'S MT. TOP LEAGUE CHAMPIONS—The Oakland Amvets are the 1951 champions of the 10-team Mountain Top Baseball League following a two-game sweep over Terra Alta in the playoff series. Terra Alta won the first half of the split season race and Oakland finished on top in the second half. The Amvets won the games in the title series by scores of 6-2 and 8-4. Bob Glaze, Oakland pitching ace, won 16 and lost 2 and fanned 137 batsmen during the season. The championship squad pictured above, left to right: FRONT ROW—James Murray, scorekeeper; George Sanders, manager; Robert Glaze, pitcher; James Lyons, centerfield; Gary Baker, shortstop; Dish Cogley, second base, and Bobby Glaze, batboy. SECOND ROW—Marle Fauber, second base; William Sweitzer, right field; John Crosco, outfielder; Ray McManus, catcher; Joe Kahl, left field; Junior Evans, third base; Ted James, 1st base.

13 Three-Year-Olds To Vie At Belmont

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—With Battlefield through for the year because of an injury, Hall of Fame and Counterpoint will make it a two-way battle from now on for three-year-old honors.

They'll go right at it tomorrow in the $20,000-added Jerome Handicap at Belmont. Eleven other three-year-olds will try for the big money in the mile race.

The distance is more suitable to Hall of Fame which has been winning over any stretch and at all tracks of late. Counterpoint, out of action since the Dwyer Stakes in July, likes a long piece of ground to run over like in the Belmont where he beat Battlefield among others.

13 Three-Year-Olds To Vie At Belmont

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—With Battlefield through for the year because of an injury, Hall of Fame and Counterpoint will make it a two-way battle from now on for three-year-old honors.

They'll go right at it tomorrow in the $20,000-added Jerome Handicap at Belmont. Eleven other three-year-olds will try for the big money in the mile race.

The distance is more suitable to Hall of Fame which has been winning over any stretch and at all tracks of late. Counterpoint, out of action since the Dwyer Stakes in July, likes a long piece of ground to run over like in the Belmont where he beat Battlefield among others.

Mineral County Tax Payments Scheduled Soon

Discount Deadline Will End Oct. 31

KEYSER, W. Va.—The Mineral County sheriff's office here has been a bee-hive of activity the past two weeks with six women employes augmenting the regular staff in completion of tax tickets in order to be ready for the first payments of taxes, both personal and real estate.

Each section, is taken separately and each is filed alphabetically according to their separate indexing, easily obtainable by the personnel of the sheriff's office when the discount period opens next month. Bills, under West Virginia law, may be paid in two parts. The first half will be due in October with a discount period continuing through Oct. 31. In November payments may be paid without discount and in December interest at nine percent will be charged. The second half payment may be made up to April 30 with a discount being given. In May the flat rate will be effective and starting June 1, nine percent is charged on the second half.

Many county property owners pay the entire annual tax in the early part of the paying period and benefit through the discount, while others select the two payment plan.

The staff is on the down grade of the 8,905 tickets for taxes, but there is still much to be done and from now on to the paying period the staff will be a very busy lot of individuals. The tickets or account records are divided into districts as follows:

Cabin Run District, 445; Elk District, 600; Elk Garden, 145; Keyser Independent, (area adjoining Keyser but not incorporated), 350; Keyser, municipality, 2,475; Piedmont independent, 200; Piedmont (incorporated), 820; New Creek District, 850; Ridgeley (incorporated) 650; Welton District, 410, and Frankfort District, 1,900.

Little Luke Lass, Born Without Hands And Feet, To Enter Kindergarten Monday

BY CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Her playmates voices joining in "Happy Birthday To You" proved that the party of five-year-old Nancy Walsh of Luke, Maryland, was a huge success Sunday afternoon. The sound of noise-makers filled the air as the party-goers had a happy time with their favors and friends.

The blue-eyed, golden haired Nancy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Walsh, 321 Pratt Street, the festivities were just as she had anticipated for the past several weeks.

You see, Nancy was born without hands or feet but one would never realize it as she played hostess to the younger set on her birthday. I had the pleasure of conversing with Nancy last week while she prepared her favorite mudpie recipe under the grape arbor on the back porch.

Eight heaping tablespoons of white sand, which her father had just received to repair the front porch, a sprinkling of black dirt and a dash more of sand, well moulded in a small bucket, resulted in the finest marble cake I have ever seen.

To Enter Kindergarten

Nancy, who extended me a special invitation to her party, showed how she and her playmates would play pin the tail on the donkey. And she said her party would be complete with cake, white ice cream and "coke" or whatever drink her guests would prefer.

She remarked she would be entering kindergarten the first of October at Luke School and Mrs. Walter Fazenbaker of Westernport would be her teacher. Expected enrollment for the fifth year of the kindergarten is 25 children from Tri-Towns. The instructions for pupils of pre-school age are sanctioned by the Allegany County Board of Education and the schedule follows along the pattern of the county schools.

Comic Book Fan

She showed me her Christmas presents and also informed me of the latest adventures of Black Pete, Mickey Mouse and Goofy of comic book land. Her imitation of the wood pecker was something to hear.

Nancy takes occassional trips to Cumberland and visits the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

She received her first set of braces in September 1948, according to Mrs. Vivian L. Annan, executive secretary of the league and Miss Margaret Poole, physical therapist. The first braces had a round flat bottom but her latest braces have a regulation set of shoes attached. On her birthday Sunday, Nancy wore bright red shoes.

Although Nancy as yet has no artificial hands, the league officials say that in time she will be provided with them. the latest developments are noted and Nancy will be given the most improved discoveries.

Mineral County Tax Payments Scheduled Soon

Discount Deadline Will End Oct. 31

KEYSER, W. Va.—The Mineral County sheriff's office here has been a bee-hive of activity the past two weeks with six women employes augmenting the regular staff in completion of tax tickets in order to be ready for the first payments of taxes, both personal and real estate.

Each section, is taken separately and each is filed alphabetically according to their separate indexing, easily obtainable by the personnel of the sheriff's office when the discount period opens next month. Bills, under West Virginia law, may be paid in two parts. The first half will be due in October with a discount period continuing through Oct. 31. In November payments may be paid without discount and in December interest at nine percent will be charged. The second half payment may be made up to April 30 with a discount being given. In May the flat rate will be effective and starting June 1, nine percent is charged on the second half.

Many county property owners pay the entire annual tax in the early part of the paying period and benefit through the discount, while others select the two payment plan.

The staff is on the down grade of the 8,906 tickets for taxes, but there is still much to be done and from now on to the paying period the staff will be a very busy lot of individuals. The tickets or account records are divided into districts as follows:

Cabin Run District, 445; Elk District, 600; Elk Garden, 165; Keyser Independent, (area adjoining Keyser but not incorporated), 350; Keyser, municipality, 2,475; Piedmont Independent, 200; Piedmont (incorporated), 820; New Creek District, 850; Ridgeley (incorporated) 690; Welton District, 410, and Frankfort District, 1,900.

Little Luke Lass, Born Without Hands And Feet, To Enter Kindergarten Monday

BY CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Her playmates voices joining in "Happy Birthday To You" proved that the party of five-year-old Nancy Walsh of Luke, Maryland, was a huge success Sunday afternoon. The sound of noise-makers filled the air as the party-goers had a happy time with their favors and friends.

The blue-eyed, golden haired Nancy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Walsh, 321 Pratt Street, the festivities were just as she had anticipated for the past several weeks.

You see, Nancy was born without hands or feet but one would never realize it as she played hostess to the younger set on her birthday. I had the pleasure of conversing with Nancy last week while she prepared her favorite mudpie recipe under the grape arbor on the back porch.

Eight heaping tablespoons of white sand, which her father had just received to repair the front porch, a sprinkling of black dirt and a dash more of sand, well moulded in a small bucket, resulted in the finest marble cake I have ever seen.

To Enter Kindergarten

Nancy, who extended me a special invitation to her party, showed how she and her playmates would play pin the tail on the donkey. And she said her party would be complete with cake, white ice cream and "coke" or whatever drink her guests would prefer.

She remarked she would be entering kindergarten the first of October at Luke School and Mrs. Walter Fazenbaker of Westernport would be her teacher. Expected enrollment for the fifth year of the kindergarten is 25 children from Tri-Towns. The instructions for pupils of pre-school age are sanctioned by the Allegany County Board of Education and the schedule follows along the pattern of the county schools.

Comic Book Fan

She showed me her Christmas presents and also informed me of the latest adventures of Black Pete, Mickey Mouse and Goofy of comic book land. Her imitation of the wood pecker was something to hear.

Nancy takes occassional trips to Cumberland and visits the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

She received her first set of braces in September 1948, according to Mrs. Vivian L. Annan, executive secretary of the league and Miss Margaret Poole, physical therapist. The first braces had a round flat bottom but her latest braces have a regulation set of shoes attached. On her birthday Sunday, Nancy wore bright red shoes.

Although Nancy as yet has no artificial hands, the league officials say that in time she will be provided with them. the latest developments are noted and Nancy will be given the most improved discoveries.

About three times a year clinics are held for the children of Allegany County with Dr. George E. Bennett and Dr. George O. Easton, of Johns Hopkins Hospital conducting them. Dr. E. David Weinberg, also of Johns Hopkins pays a visit to Cumberland once a year.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 25 (INS)—Certainly, Sam Fuller, who started in life as Arthur Brisbane's copy boy at the age of 14 on the old New York Evening Journal, is well qualified to produce a picture on the birth and growth of our great newspapers.

Sammy's first independent picture will be "Park Row," in which he tells about the world's most famous newspaper street where men like William Randolph Hearst, Horace Greeley, James Gordon Bennett, Charles Dana and Joseph Pulitzer made newspaper history.

Fuller is still young—in his early thirties—but he has done quite a lot for a man of his age. He has written a book called "The Dark Page," which Columbia recently made starring Brod Crawford. "Steel Helmet," and that United Artists will release this newspaper opus.

I'd say the best wedding present Leslie Caron will receive is the top femme role in "Glory Alley" which M-G-M has wrapped up for her with love and kisses.

The youthful French actress, who stole a march on the American glamour girls and married George Hormel, of the millionaire canning family, will have Ralph Meeker as her co-star. Raoul Walsh will direct them.

Leslie, brought to America by Gene Kelly for "An American in Paris," will be well known when that fine picture reaches the American public. It's one of the best in entertainment, and in true artistry.

David Selznick, who cleared a half million dollars recently in a reissue of "Rebecca" in Germany, tried his best to buy Daphne Du Maurier's new book, "My Cousin Rachel."

However, from London I hear that 20th Century-Fox has already bought the story and it was bought while Darryl Zanuck was there.

David felt Du Maurier's "Rebecca" had been such a hit, and that "My Cousin Rachel" might bring him the same success, but he was 20 minutes late.

Rumors that Errol Flynn and Patricia Wymore were on the verge of you-know-what have died down since his return from Korea. Pat and Errol have been running around in that imported car of his having fun blaring traffic directions to other motorists over a loud speaker—much to the consternation of the highway police.

Anyway, there's not much chance of their being separated in the near future except for Pat's appearance in a Las Vegas night club.

When she returns she goes into "She's Working Her Way Through College" with Virginia Mayo, Ronald Reagan, Gene Nelson and Don De Fore. At the same time, Errol will be making "Mara Maru" on the Warner lot.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The biggest bunch of flowers Betty Hutton received in weeks came from Ralph Meeker, her current co-star.

Lana Turner with Cy Howard and the Cubby Broccolis at Ciro's for the Lisa Kirk opening. Lana is making it a point to go nowhere alone with any escort.

Friends of Peggy Lee and Dave Barbour hope it's true they are reconciling.

Mrs. Spike Jones (Helen Grayco) flew in tonight to spend a week with her children, two-year-old Spike Jr., and three months old Leslie Ann. Helen will then rejoin Spike and the orchestra and continue her tour with them.

Someone tells me that Nina Foch was at the Tallyho with Vincente Minnelli, who could hardly be mistaken for Norman Krasna, Nina's favorite escort.

Jean Pierre Aumont's family and friends, worried over his continued despondency, have someone staying with him 24 hours a day. Jean Pierre has been so grief stricken since the death of his beautiful wife, Maria Montez, that his friends fear for his health.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Earlier Communion Service Is Planned

MT. SAVAGE—The Vestry of St. George's Episcopal Church has announced that the hour of the early Communion service on Sundays will be changed from 8 o'clock to 7:30, beginning next Sunday.

The change to the earlier hour, the governing body said, is for the convenience of lay people who hold several positions in the church and have met with time conflicts because of the proximity of the first service to the Church School hour.

It was also announced that bells will be rung a half hour in advance of each service and an additional warning bell at five minutes before service time, instead of on the hour.

According to the records, the first service has at times been held at 7 a. m. as well as 7:30 and 8 o'clock, so the change to the 7:30 hour is not entirely new to the parish schedule.

All services will be on Eastern Standard Time next Sunday.

PIN-WORMS GO! Jayne's P-W Gets Real Results
Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.
To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:
First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.
Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

PIN-WORMS GO! Jayne's P-W Gets Real Results
Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.
To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:
First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.
Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

A Suit for Thick and Thin

Well-Groomed Friends

FASHION: Here's evidence that the double-breasted suit is equally good for thick and thin! Stan "the man" Musial looks smart in his—so does Toots Shor, stylish-stout restaurateur.

Feminine Advice: Comedienne Dorothy Greener says girls put great stock in the way their dates treat a waiter. If he's considerate and not boorishly aggressive when little things go wrong, he'll probably be a good-dispositioned husband. . . . And Actress Susan Peters advises, "If you want to know whether he's neat, look in the glove compartment of his car!"

Handyman: Two stuck bar glasses can be safely separated by putting the bottom one in warm water and pouring cold in the top one. . . . Aluminum foil under ice-cube trays keeps them from sticking. . . . If door chimes are sluggish, blow a little powdered graphite on the plunger.

Care of Clothes: To protect or rehabilitate a tweedy sport jacket, have your tailor sew suede patches on the elbows and put bindings on the cuffs. By doing this you get added years of wear from your garment—it's not only smart-looking, it's quite fashionable! The idea originated as a patchwork job, but many men now ask to have it done as soon as they purchase a new jacket.

Popular Patch

Odd Items: The United States, with one-fifteenth of the world's population, owns 92 per cent of the world's bathtubs. . . . Think we have it bad? There's 26½ cents taxes in every 50 cents an Englishman spends for gas. We pay less than a dime in taxes on the same amount. . . . If singing star Champ Butler looks well-dressed on TV, it's because he's a graduate of the haberdashery business. . . . All Longchamps' waiters must line up each morning before the maitre d'hotel while he inspects shaves, shoeshines, etc.

Amateur Chef: Soprano Dorothy Sandlin (right) offers this guarantee for a tender, flavorful steak: Make a paste of a quarter box of salt; spread it on one side, at least one and a half inches thick, and broil. Turn and repeat. Then scrape off the crustlike shell of salt from the steak and serve.

Salty Advice

Pass the Cigars: This week to—Ted Mack, whose graciousness and consideration of the amateurs on his television show is a model others might well emulate.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

THROW HIM IN TWICE

PUTTING an opponent in the lead once is all that you have to do with the usual type of throw-in play. Upon rare occasions you have to throw him in twice. On the first turn, he may have a safe exit card which he is able to lead without doing himself any harm. Later on, perhaps on the very next trick, you toss the lead to him again and this time he is obliged to do your bidding, as he has no alternative left.

	♠ None ♥ Q 9 8 7 6 5 2 ♦ K Q 3 ♣ A K 4
♠ A Q J 10 5 4 ♥ A K 10 ♦ 7 ♣ Q J 5	N W E S	♠ 9 8 6 ♥ 4 3 ♦ A J 10 8 6 5 ♣ 7 6
	♠ K 7 3 2 ♥ J ♦ 9 4 2 ♣ 10 9 8 3 2

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	2 ♥	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♠	4 ♥	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl.

A double of 4-Hearts might have paid East and West better than making their own spade game contract. North's double of the spades took into account the fact that he held none of them himself, and therefore felt his partner's bunched trumps might produce a trick or so.

To complicate West's figuring, North led the unreadable heart 9, and South's J forced West to play high to win the trick. The declarer then went to town, via a well conceived plan, which involved tossing North into the lead twice. After the opening trick won by the heart A, he led the diamond 7. North put on the Q and the A won. Now the spade 9, 8 and 10 were finessed in succession, followed by the A to fell the K.

North was obliged to discard on the spades, cutting himself down to the heart Q-8-7, diamond K and club A-K-4. The club Q then put North in with the K. He exited with the diamond K, which the spade Q ruffed. Now the club 5 was led. North played the 4 to let the 10 win, and South returned the 9, the J falling to the A. There was nothing left in North's hand now except the heart Q-8-7, so he had to lead into the K-10. He picked the 8, which the 10 won. So did the K and the spade J took the game trick. The defense therefore won nothing except three tricks in clubs, despite its bright prospects in the other suits.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 10 7 4 2 ♥ J ♦ K 10 9 7 ♣ K J 10 2
♠ 9 5 ♥ A K Q 4 2 ♦ J 5 ♣ 9 8 6 4	N W E S	♠ J ♥ 10 8 6 3 ♦ A Q 4 2 ♣ A 7 5 3
	♠ A K Q 8 6 3 ♥ 9 7 5 ♦ 8 6 3 ♣ Q

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

If there was no bidding except South's 1-Spade, North's 2-Spades and South's 4-Spades, what is the only correct defense?

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

THROW HIM IN TWICE

PUTTING an opponent in the lead once is all that you have to do with the usual type of throw-in play. Upon rare occasions you have to throw him in twice. On the first turn, he may have a safe exit card which he is able to lead without doing himself any harm. Later on, perhaps on the very next trick, you toss the lead to him again and this time he is obliged to do your bidding, as he has no alternative left.

	♠ None ♥ Q 9 8 7 6 5 2 ♦ K Q 3 ♣ A K 4
♠ A Q J 10 5 4 ♥ A K 10 ♦ 7 ♣ Q J 5	N W E S	♠ 9 8 6 ♥ 4 3 ♦ A J 10 8 6 5 ♣ 7 6
	♠ K 7 3 2 ♥ J ♦ 9 4 2 ♣ 10 9 8 3 2

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	2 ♥	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♠	4 ♥	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl.

A double of 4-Hearts might have paid East and West better than making their own spade game contract. North's double of the spades took into account the fact that he held none of them himself, and therefore felt his partner's bunched trumps might produce a trick or so.

To complicate West's figuring, North led the unreadable heart 9, and South's J forced West to play high to win the trick. The declarer then went to town, via a well conceived plan, which involved tossing North into the lead twice. After the opening trick won by the heart A, he led the diamond 7. North put on the Q and the A won. Now the spade 9, 8 and 10 were finessed in succession, followed by the A to fell the K.

North was obliged to discard on the spades, cutting himself down to the heart Q-8-7, diamond K and club A-K-4. The club Q then put North in with the K. He exited with the diamond K, which the spade Q ruffed. Now the club 5 was led. North played the 4 to let the 10 win, and South returned the 9, the J falling to the A. There was nothing left in North's hand now except the heart Q-8-7, so he had to lead into the K-10. He picked the 8, which the 10 won. So did the K and the spade J took the game trick. The defense therefore won nothing except three tricks in clubs, despite its bright prospects in the other suits.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 10 7 4 2 ♥ J ♦ K 10 9 7 ♣ K J 10 2
♠ 9 5 ♥ A K Q 4 2 ♦ J 5 ♣ 9 8 6 4	N W E S	♠ J ♥ 10 8 6 3 ♦ A Q 4 2 ♣ A 7 5 3
	♠ A K Q 8 6 3 ♥ 9 7 5 ♦ 8 6 3 ♣ Q

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

If there was no bidding except South's 1-Spade, North's 2-Spades and South's 4-Spades, what is the only correct defense?

WE ARE RESPONSIELE FOR ONLY ONE INCORRECT INSERTION

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear brother, W. A. Laurent, who died 3 years ago, Sept. 26, 1948.
A beautiful memory, a smiling face,
A broken link we can never replace,
Till memory fades and life departs,
He will live forever in our hearts.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear brother, W. A. Laurent, who died 3 years ago, Sept. 26, 1948.
A beautiful memory, a smiling face,
A broken link we can never replace,
Till memory fades and life departs,
He will live forever in our hearts.

Stock Market Steps Briskly Along To Fractional Gains

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Stock Market stepped briskly upward today with most of the gains running fractions to around a point.

Railroad stocks started the ball rolling but later mining shares and radio-TV issues ran the carriers a close second.

By the close of the market the industrials and mining stocks were making the best showing of any group.

The volume was 1,740,000 shares, an improvement over yesterday's 1,680,000.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 30 cents at $100.40.

A breakdown showed 518 of the 1,110 issues traded advanced and 320 declined. New highs numbered 33 and three issues touched new low points.

Among the lustier gains of the day was American Smelting (up three at 103), whose directors proposed a two-for-one split of common stock.

Other large gainers included Reynolds Metals, ahead 2¼ at 63¾; Aluminium Ltd., up 2½ at 104; Zenith Radio, ahead 2⅜ at 67⅜, and U. S. Gypsum, which gained two at 117½.

Gains of around a point were substantial in number. They included General Electric, up 1⅛ at 61¼; Philip Morris 1⅛ at 49⅜; Nickel Plate 1½ at 223½; and American Cyanamid 1¾ at 118.

Pennsylvania Railroad led the list of the 15 most active issues—36,200 shares, up ¼ at 19⅞. There were only two issues among the fifteen that showed losses for the day—Moore McCormack Lines, off 1⅛ at 21½ and Baltimore and Ohio, down ⅛ at 21¾.

Fractional advances included New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio and Union Pacific in the rail group; Standard (NJ), Texas Co., and Gulf, among the oils; U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic in the steel section; General Motors and Studebaker in the motors; Goodyear Rubber; Boeing, Douglas and Lockheed Aircraft, and American Can, American Woolen and International Paper.

Declines included Goodrich and U. S. Rubber, Radio Corp., Kennecott Copper, Air Reduction, du Pont, United Airlines, Eastern Airlines and Trans World, Johns Manville and Certain-teed.

Stock Market Steps Briskly Along To Fractional Gains

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Stock Market stepped briskly upward today with most of the gains running fractions to around a point.

Railroad stocks started the ball rolling but later mining shares and radio-TV issues ran the carriers a close second.

By the close of the market the industrials and mining stocks were making the best showing of any group.

The volume was 1,740,000 shares, an improvement over yesterday's 1,680,000.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 30 cents at $100.40.

A breakdown showed 518 of the 1,110 issues traded advanced and 320 declined. New highs numbered 33 and three issues touched new low points.

Among the lustier gains of the day was American Smelting (up three at 103), whose directors proposed a two-for-one split of common stock.

Other large gainers included Reynolds Metals, ahead 2¼ at 63¾; Aluminium Ltd., up 2½ at 104; Zenith Radio, ahead 2⅜ at 67⅜, and U. S. Gypsum, which gained two at 117½.

Gains of around a point were substantial in number. They included General Electric, up 1⅛ at 61¼; Philip Morris 1⅛ at 49⅜; Nickel Plate 1½ at 223½; and American Cyanamid 1¾ at 118.

Pennsylvania Railroad led the list of the 15 most active issues—36,200 shares, up ¼ at 19⅞. There were only two issues among the fifteen that showed losses for the day—Moore McCormack Lines, off 1⅛ at 21½ and Baltimore and Ohio, down ⅛ at 21¾.

Fractional advances included New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio and Union Pacific in the rail group; Standard (NJ), Texas Co., and Gulf, among the oils; U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic in the steel section; General Motors and Studebaker in the motors; Goodyear Rubber; Boeing, Douglas and Lockheed Aircraft, and American Can, American Wollen and International Paper.

Declines included Goodrich and U. S. Rubber, Radio Corp., Kennecott Copper, Air Reduction, du Pont, United Airlines, Eastern Airlines and Trans World, Johns Manville and Certain-teed.

Paul Miller Is Critical From Bullet Wound

Barton Vet Shoots Self Under Heart

A Barton resident is in critical condition at Miner's Hospital, Frostburg, suffering from a self-inflicted bullet wound below his heart, State Police said last night.

Paul Francis Miller, 43, a driver for the Potomac Candy Company, Westernport, police said, inflicted the shot from a 22 calibre pistol belonging to Arthur Blank, Allegany. Police said Miller borrowed the gun yesterday afternoon saying he was going to use it to shoot a dog.

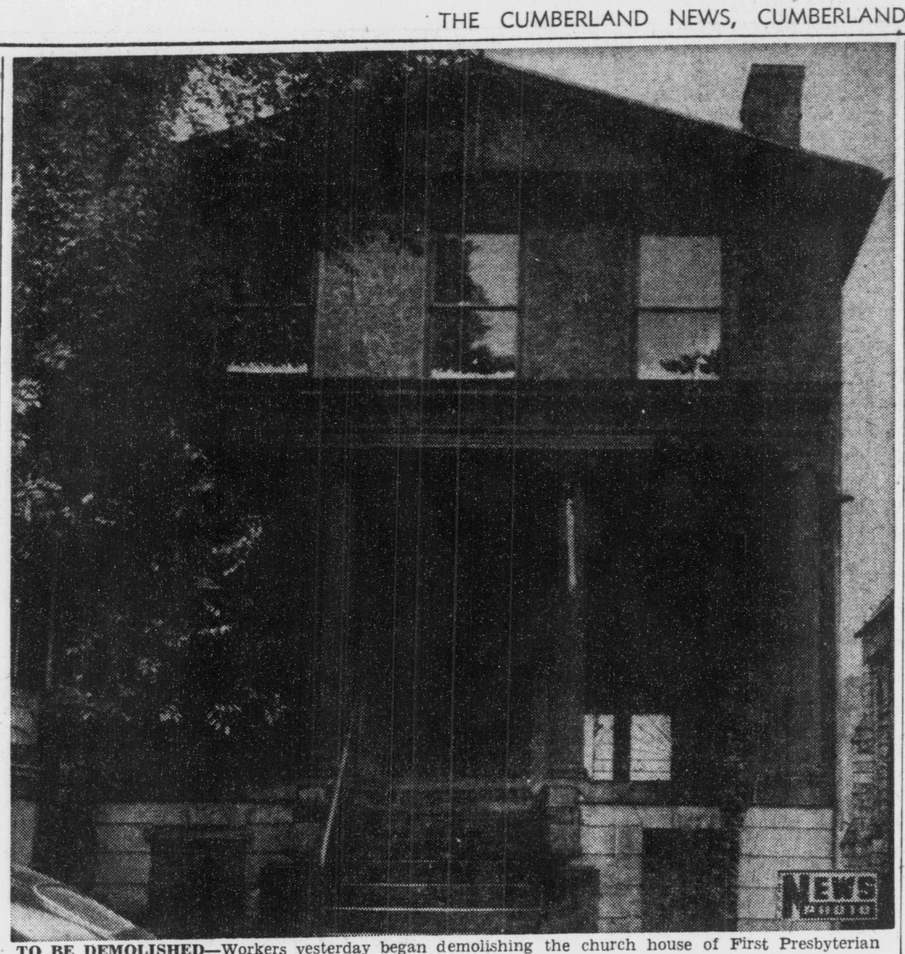
Trooper First Class William Baker, criminal investigator, said last night that Miller reported for work yesterday. The shooting occured about 6:30 p. m. along the highway, Baker added, between Shaft and Midlothian. Miller waited for some time after the shooting and later drove the truck about a half mile to the Shaft Volunteer Fire Department and told George Winters, a resident who lives nearby, he had shot himself. An ambulance from Frostburg was summoned and Miller was taken to the hospital where he was admitted about 7:45 p. m., Baker continued.

George R. Drew, who had been traveling along the highway at the time of the shooting, told Trooper Baker he saw Miller in a crouched position in the truck, half in and half out. He said he did not stop since he thought Miller was doing some repair work on the truck.

Personal notes written by Miller, Baker added, addressed to Miller's wife and employer were found in the truck.

Miller, a World War II veteran of about three years service in the U. S. Army, spent some time overseas in the European Theater.

He married the former Madeline Bradley of Barton and the couple have a four-year-old son, Thomas.



TO BE DEMOLISHED—Workers yesterday began demolishing the church house of First Presbyterian Church in preparation for building a $200,000 modern addition to the historic Washington Street edifice. The City Engineer yesterday issued a permit for construction of the new building, which will be 37 by 133 feet, with a reinforced concrete foundation and concrete block and stone veneer walls. Native stone similar to that used when the church was built 76 years ago, will be used for the church house.

Training Course For Ice Cream Workers Planned

Health Department To Sponsor Class

A training program for ice cream manufacturers and their personnel will lead off the fall training program of the Allegany County Health Department, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, reported yesterday.

The ice cream forum will be held late in October or early November and will be followed by similar training courses on milk plant management and a food handlers class.

Several speakers are being lined up for the ice cream class, the first of its kind to be held in this area.

J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, said the program will include problems of management and sanitation in the ice cream industry.

Included will be the managers and workers in the ice cream and frozen custard industry in this area.

At present, some 250 to 300 persons are employed in the ice cream manufacturing plants, six ice cream distributing companies and the 14 frozen custard stands in Allegany County.

All of the courses will be held in the Health Department Training Center, Union Street county building.

The Health Department sponsors a continuing educational program designed to keep food and sanitation workers abreast of the latest developments in their field.

Young Mother Held On Bad Check Charge

A young mother is being held in County Jail on charges she forged and cashed five checks for a total amount of $110.

The State's Attorney's Office said yesterday Mrs. Nettie R. Green, 21, of 222 Philos Street, Westernport, had admitted forging the bad checks on the Citizens National Bank.

Authorities said Mrs. Green told them her husband left her five months ago and that he had not been supporting her. She said she wrote the checks to buy food, medicine and clothing for her six-year-old daughter.

The checks were cashed between September 10 and September 18. They were signed with the name of a former employer who had given Mrs. Green authority to sign checks for him.

Mrs. Green is expected to be given a Trial Magistrates Court hearing today.

FREDERICK C. DREYER

"Buck" Dreyer, Allegany County Treasurer, Dies

County Board To Fill Vacancy

County Treasurer Frederick C. "Buck" Dreyer, well-known riverman, died late yesterday in Memorial Hospital. He was 71.

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners is expected to fill the vacancy left by his death at the Friday board meeting. Mrs. Johanna Sills, county auditor, has been acting treasurer for the past week.

Had Varied Career

During a long and varied career, Mr. Dreyer became well known to Allegany Countians as a businessman, riverboat operator, recreation promoter, court attache, and finally, as county treasurer.

He was born in Cumberland April 27, 1880, a son of the late George John Dreyer and Weddie Kaiser Dreyer. At the age of 12, he went to work at the McKaig Foundry and Machine Shop. He eventually became sales manager of the firm, a position he held nine years.

He later was president and general manager of the F. C. Dreyer Supply Company, and then of the Humbird Supply Company.

Several years later he resigned to open the Dreyer Motor Boat Line, which operated cabin cruisers on the Potomac River between Riverside Park and Dreyer's Beach a few miles upstream.

Was River Lifesaver

His interest in the river and in boating later led him to become one of the early promoters of the Deep Creek Lake area in Garrett County. He sponsored the first beauty contests and water carnivals to be held at the lake.

Realizing the need for rescue facilities at the lake and in other Western Maryland waters, he started his own rescue service. His acute knowledge of boating and currents brought him many emergency rescue calls from police, and he was credited with saving the lives of several swimmers and boaters.

Served County 17 Years

In 1936, the late Governor Harry Nice appointed him a bailiff in People's Court, now known as Trial Magistrates Court. He held the position for two years, until he became county treasurer.

He was re-elected to the treasurer post in 1942, 1946 and in 1950, and was embarking on his 13th consecutive year in office at the time of his death. He had previously served one two-year term in the same office, from 1915 to 1917.

Largely through his own interest, the city's only surviving horse-drawn, hand-operated pumper wagon is still preserved in Canada Hose House on North Mechanic Street, where he lived.

Was Senior Santa Claus

Every Christmas season for 40 years he had played Santa Claus to local children at stores, lodges,

Board Rules Pin Ball Machines With Payoff Are Gambling Devices

Liquor Control Group Amends Prohibited Hours

A new regulation stipulating that pin ball machines providing cash returns are "slot machines" and gambling devices has been adopted by the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners.

The rule applies whether the money is returned by the machine itself or in cash by the licensee, his agents or servants.

In another action disclosed yesterday the board unanimously amended its regulations concerning prohibited hours. Under the new ruling no alcoholic beverages shall be sold or served on the licensed premises after 12 midnight on weekdays.

All tables must be cleared of bottles and glasses containing alcoholic beverages between 1 a. m. and 7 a. m. on week days. All tables must be cleared of bottles and glasses containing alcoholic beverages at all hours on Sunday after 1 a. m.

Walter C. Capper is chairman of the board. Other members are Stanley O. Hamilton and Oliver H. Bruce, Jr.

The new pin ball ruling reads in full as follows:

GAMBLING BY MECHANICAL DEVICES—The term "slot machines" shall include pin ball machines and all other forms of mechanical machines or devices in which coins are deposited and money returned to the player, either by the machine itself or in cash by the licensee, his agents or servants. Such machines shall be regarded as gambling devices and also all other machines in any licensed premises where bets are made on combinations of numbers, figures or tokens, or in any other manner.

The prohibited hours ruling reads in full as follows:

PROHIBITED HOURS — No alcoholic beverages shall be sold or served on the licensed premises after 12:00 midnight on week days and all tables must be cleared of bottles and glasses containing alcoholic beverages between 1:00 a. m. and 7:00 a. m. on week days; and all tables must be cleared of bottles and glasses containing alcoholic beverages at all hours on Sunday after 1:00 a. m.

The Weather

The current dry spell in Cumberland was eased somewhat yesterday evening when showers visited the Queen City sending residents scurrying for cover. The high as recorded at Constitution Park weather station was 81, the low 57 and at 8:20 p. m. yesterday the mercury stood at 64 degrees. Rainfall recorded was .05 inches and humidity at 6 p. m. was 62 per cent. Forecast for the Cumberland area today is partly cloudy and somewhat cooler.

All American To Continue Air Stops Here

Cobey Says CAB Turns Down Cancellation

The Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday denied All American Airways its petition to drop Cumberland from its plane service.

W. Earle Cobey, city attorney, said he had been informed by the Maryland State Aviation Commission that a formal order to the effect has been returned by the CAB in view of the opposition to the airlines move.

Cobey said fighting the petition was the Post Office Department, the City of Cumberland, the Maryland State Aviation Commission, and the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

The CAB ruled that in view of the interest shown in keeping the service here, it was reluctant to suspend the operation without a public hearing.

Review In January

This means that Cumberland will have airline service until the All American applies to the CAB for the renewal of its certificate.

January has been set for the time when the CAB reviews its renewal petition. It was indicated that in its renewal petition, All American may ask to suspend operations here.

The city attorney, in pointing out that Cumberland will have a hearing, said that in many cases such as the one acted upon by the CAB yesterday, service has been suspended without a hearing.

David L. Miller, vice president of the airline, said this morning that his firm is not particularly upset about the decision.

He commented that the line has found that there is no doubt about the potential of an airline here.

But the terrain is the main hazard, Miller declared. He stated bluntly that no amount of lights would change the airline's position in regarding the airport and its location as hazardous for night flying.

In addition to objecting to the airport's location among the mountains, Miller pointed out that the weather peculiar to this valley also

Jury Convicts Truck Driver For Overweight

Accident Man Gets $426 Fine

John O. Riley of Accident was found guilty by a Garrett County Circuit Court jury yesterday in Oakland on a charge of violating the Maryland Truck Overweight Law. The jury deliberated only about 10 minutes at the conclusion of a precedent-setting trial.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, who presided at the trial, then fined Riley $426 plus court costs on the basis of 6-cents-per-pound for the 7,100 pounds of overweight.

First Acquitted

Riley had been acquitted of the charge in July by Magistrate Charles S. Zeller of Grantsville, who had termed the new law "confusing, poorly written and a hardship." The unusual aspect of the case is that the State Roads Commission appealed the dismissal, the first time that body had taken such action in Maryland from a trial magistrate's ruling.

In a second case appealed by the State Roads Commission, the state dismissed its appeal yesterday in the Oakland court. This case involved Emmett Hall, a driver for the Hopwood Lumber Company, Hopwood, Pa., who had been fined $496 by Magistrate Zeller on an overload of 11,600 pounds. The commission had appealed, contending that Zeller should have imposed a $696 fine. Hall paid the $496 fine.

State's Attorney Dwight Stover pointed out that since the Hall case, Magistrate Zeller has been fining guilty truck drivers on the basis of a 6-cents-per-pound for violations in excess of 5,000 pounds. In the Hall case Zeller had figured the fine at 2-cents-per-pound up to 5,000 pounds and 6 cents thereafter rather than a flat 6-cent rate on every pound.

Two other cases settled yesterday were appeals by truck drivers from convictions by Trial Magistrate James Cover of Friendsville.

Assesses Fine

Judge Harris found Wayne E. Hook of near Friendsville guilty of violating the overweight law in one of these appeals and assessed a $396 fine. Hook was a driver for Richard Coddington of Friendsville.

Judge Harris also fined John-Bowman of near Accident $54, the same penalty that had been assessed by Magistrate Cover. Bowman's attorney, Walter Dawson, submitted his case to the court without argument or testimony.

Chief interest in the trials centered on the Riley case. By convicting him, the jury upheld the State Roads Commission contention that axleload of a truck means the weight transmitted to the highway.

State's Attorney Stover was aided in the cases by Assistant Attorney-General Joseph B. Buscher, assigned to the State Roads Commission.

Daylight Saving Time Will End Here Sunday

Voters To Decide Fast Time Issue

Cumberland area residents will turn their clocks back an hour Sunday morning as this area returns to Standard Time.

According to a Cumberland ordinance, the time change in this city will take place Sunday, September 30, at 1 a. m. Similar action will be taken in the area, including major industrial plants, which followed Cumberland's lead on the fast time issue.

Daylight Saving Time, which has been in effect here since 1947, by City Ordinance 1809, has been a constant source of controversy.

Some of the uncertainty as to the popularity of the plan will be settled next spring when the issue is placed on the city ballots.

Another vote will follow on a county-wide scale in next fall's general election.

Referendums Slated

The DST issue will go on the city ballot on March 18, 1952, as a result of Senate Bill 45, sponsored by Senate Minority Leader Robert B. Kimble. The measure requires that the issue be submitted to the voters at a regular or special election.

The issue will be clear cut since the bill requires votes in the referendum be labeled "For Daylight Savings Time" and "Against Daylight Savings Time."

An unfavorable vote in Cumberland need not be conclusive, however, as the measure could be beaten in the city election and passed in the county-wide general election.

The county vote, officials said, would supersede any city action on the measure since House Bill 547, introduced by Rep. Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., provides that "Daylight Savings Time shall be effective in all parts of Allegany County—subject to a referendum."

Dry Weather Halts Work On Alleys

Grading To Resume When Rains Arrive

The Street Department announced yesterday that its annual alley clean up will be postponed until the fall rains come.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, said the work must be halted for the present due to the dust raised during the operation.

She said some of the most urgent work on alleys will be continued but the general program must be curtailed due to the dust.

In the meanwhile, crews will be working on grading of shoulders on unpaved streets and can complete several cribbing jobs which were set aside while the alley repairs were underway.

The Street Department faced an unusually heavy schedule this spring as a result of one of the worst winters in Cumberland for many years.

Crews were kept busy during early spring clearing away cinders and dirt which colected on streets and in catch basins during the winter as a result of frequent cindering and heavy construction on flood control and other jobs.

Late rains delayed, for some time, the beginning of the street oiling program but that job was pushed through in a matter of weeks when weather cleared.

Several weeks ago, crews began work on cleaning alleys and removing ruts which formed over the winter.

Pensions amounting to $20,109.60 were paid to World War I veterans during the same period and $10,345.20 was given to World World II veterans, bringing the overall total to $30,454.80.

Burial allowances expended in August, according to the report amounted to $1,690 and $20,000 in insurance was paid. Back pay, pensions, burial allowances and insurance totaled $60,183.91 for the month.

The number of forms filed with the commission included 65, 259 powers of attorney, 82 hospital and domiciliary care, 348 affidavits and notary, 290 appeals, reviews and hearings, 19 housing cases and 4900 contacts were made.

The total amount of expenditures for back pay for the period from July 1 to August 31 was $21,702.26 for veterans of the three wars. Pensions during the same period amounted to $51,313.80, burial allowances, $3,490 and insurance $32,000 bringing the total for back pay, pensions, burial allowances and insurance to $108,506.06 for the two month period.

Railroader Sustains Serious Eye Injury

A 44-year-old Western Maryland Railway worker may lose an eye as the result of an accident yesterday.

Hospital attaches said Swick underwent surgery yesterday, but will go to the operating room again this morning.

Episcopalians Plan Anniversary Service Oct. 16

Dedication Planned For New Organ

Emmanuel Episcopal Church will mark the 100th anniversary of the dedication of its present edifice with a special centenary service featuring the dedication of a new organ.

Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, church rector, announced last night that the service will be held at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 16.

Rose Hill Cemetery also was dedicated on the same day in 1851.

The cornerstone for the church was laid in May, 1849, with construction taking more than two years for completion.

Installation of the new organ by the Moller Company of Hagerstown will begin about October 1, according to James L. Pitkethly, organ committee chairman.

Removal of the old organ was begun September 10 and was completed several days later. The past several Sundays hymns have been sung to piano accompaniment.

Details of the special service have not been completed, Rev. Richardson reported.

Although the present building is nearly a century old, the parish history dates back to 1803.

Barton Vet Shoots Self Under Heart

A Barton resident is in critical condition at Miner's Hospital, Frostburg, suffering from a self-inflicted bullet wound below his heart, State Police said last night.

Paul Francis Miller, 43, a driver for the Potomac Candy Company, Westernport, police said, inflicted the shot from a 22 calibre pistol belonging to Arthur Blank, Allegany. Police said Miller borrowed the gun yesterday afternoon saying he was going to use it to shoot a dog.

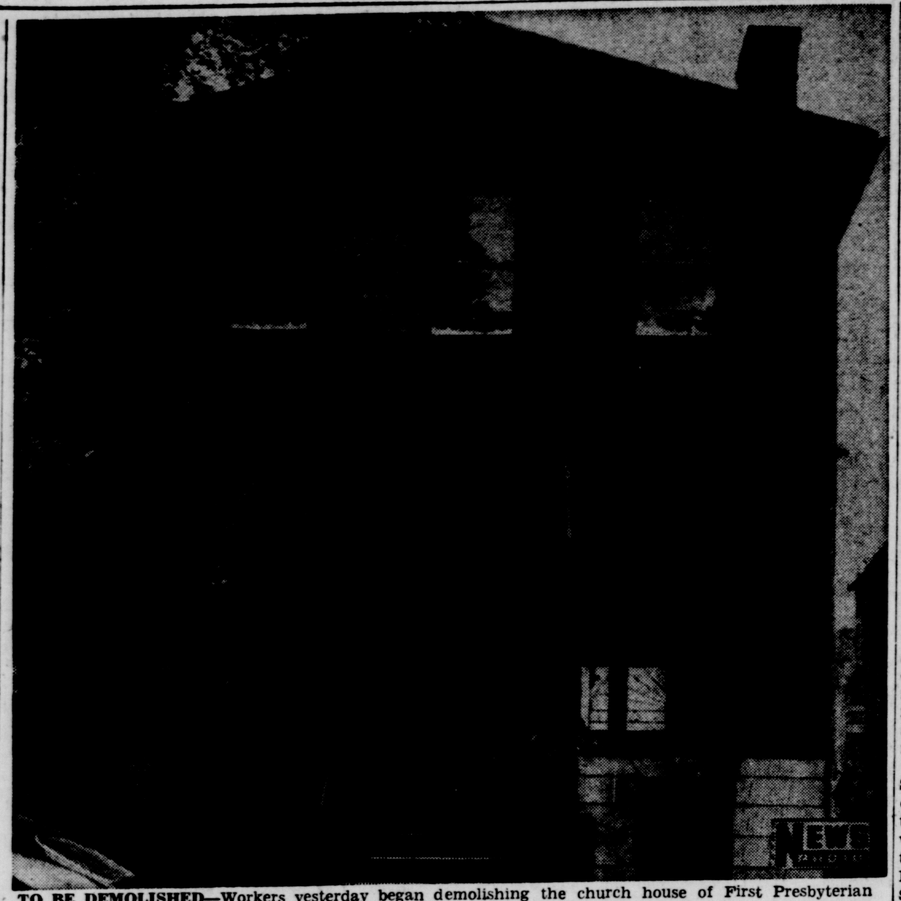
Trooper First Class William Baker, criminal investigator, said last night that Miller reported for work yesterday. The shooting occured about 6:30 p. m. along the highway, Baker added, between Shaft and Midlothian. Miller waited for some time after the shooting and later drove the truck about a half mile to the Shaft Volunteer Fire Department and told George Winters, a resident who lives nearby, he had shot himself. An ambulance from Frostburg was summoned and Miller was taken to the hospital where he was admitted about 7:45 p. m., Baker continued.

George R. Drew, who had been traveling along the highway at the time of the shooting, told Trooper Baker he saw Miller in a crouched position in the truck, half in and half out. He said he did not stop since he thought Miller was doing some repair work on the truck.

Personal notes written by Miller, Baker added, addressed to Miller's wife and employer were found in the truck.

Miller, a World War II veteran of about three years service in the U. S. Army, spent some time overseas in the European Theater.

He married the former Madeline Bradley of Barton and the couple have a four-year-old son, Thomas.



TO BE DEMOLISHED—Workers yesterday began demolishing the church house of First Presbyterian Church in preparation for building a $200,000 modern addition to the historic Washington Street edifice. The City Engineer yesterday issued a permit for construction of the new building, which will be 37 by 133 feet, with a reinforced concrete foundation and concrete block and stone veneer walls. Native stone similar to that used when the church was built 76 years ago, will be used for the church house.

Training Course For Ice Cream Workers Planned

Health Department To Sponsor Class

A training program for ice cream manufacturers and their personnel will lead off the fall training program of the Allegany County Health Department, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, reported yesterday.

The ice cream forum will be held late in October or early November and will be followed by similar training courses on milk plant management and a food handlers class.

Several speakers are being lined up for the ice cream class, the first of its kind to be held in this area.

J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, said the program will include problems of management and sanitation in the ice cream industry.

Included will be the managers and workers in the ice cream and frozen custard industry in this area.

At present, some 250 to 300 persons are employed in the ice cream manufacturing plants, six ice cream distributing companies and the 14 frozen custard stands in Allegany County.

All of the courses will be held in the Health Department Training Center, Union Street county building.

The Health Department sponsors a continuing educational program designed to keep food and sanitation workers abreast of the latest developments in their field.

Young Mother Held On Bad Check Charge

A young mother is being held in County Jail on charges she forged and cashed five checks for a total amount of $110.

The State's Attorney's Office said yesterday Mrs. Nettie R. Green, 21, of 222 Philos Street, Westernport, had admitted forging the bad checks on the Citizens National Bank.

Authorities said Mrs. Green told them her husband left her five months ago and that he had not been supporting her. She said she wrote the checks to buy food, medicine and clothing for her six-year-old daughter.

The checks were cashed between September 10 and September 18. They were signed with the name of a former employer who had given Mrs. Green authority to sign checks for him.

Mrs. Green is expected to be given a Trial Magistrates Court hearing today.

FREDERICK C. DREYER

"Buck" Dreyer, Allegany County Treasurer, Dies

County Board To Fill Vacancy

County Treasurer Frederick C. "Buck" Dreyer, well-known riverman, died late yesterday in Memorial Hospital. He was 71.

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners is expected to fill the vacancy left by his death at the Friday board meeting. Mrs. Johanna Sills, county auditor, has been acting treasurer for the past week.

Had Varied Career

During a long and varied career, Mr. Dreyer became well known to Allegany Countians as a businessman, riverboat operator, recreation promoter, court attache, and finally, as county treasurer.

He was born in Cumberland April 27, 1880, a son of the late George John Dreyer and Weddie Kaiser Dreyer. At the age of 12, he went to work at the McKaig Foundry and Machine Shop. He eventually became sales manager of the firm, a position he held nine years.

He later was president and general manager of the F. C. Dreyer Supply Company, and then of the Humbird Supply Company.

Several years later he resigned to open the Dreyer Motor Boat Line, which operated cabin cruisers on the Potomac River between Riverside Park and Dreyer's Beach a few miles upstream.

Was River Lifesaver

His interest in the river and in boating later led him to become one of the early promoters of the Deep Creek Lake area in Garrett County. He sponsored the first beauty contests and water carnivals to be held at the lake.

Realizing the need for rescue facilities at the lake and in other Western Maryland waters, he started his own rescue service. His acute knowledge of boating and currents brought him many emergency rescue calls from police, and he was credited with saving the lives of several swimmers and boaters.

Served County 17 Years

In 1936, the late Governor Harry Nice appointed him a bailiff in People's Court, now known as Trial Magistrates Court. He held the position for two years, until he became county treasurer.

He was re-elected to the treasurer post in 1942, 1946 and in 1950, and was embarking on his 13th consecutive year in office at the time of his death. He had previously served one two-year term in the same office, from 1915 to 1917.

Largely through his own interest, the city's only surviving horse-drawn, hand-operated pumper wagon is still preserved in Canada Hose House on North Mechanic Street, where he lived.

Was Senior Santa Claus

Every Christmas season for 40 years he had played Santa Claus to local children at stores, lodges,

Board Rules Pin Ball Machines With Payoff Are Gambling Devices

Liquor Control Group Amends Prohibited Hours

A new regulation stipulating that pin ball machines providing cash returns are "slot machines" and gambling devices has been adopted by the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners.

The rule applies whether the money is returned by the machine itself or in cash by the licensee, his agents or servants.

In another action disclosed yesterday the board unanimously amended its regulations concerning prohibited hours. Under the new ruling no alcoholic beverages shall be sold or served on the licensed premises after 12 midnight on weekdays.

All tables must be cleared of bottles and glasses containing alcoholic beverages between 1 a. m. and 7 a. m. on week days. All tables must be cleared of bottles and glasses containing alcoholic beverages at all hours on Sunday after 1 a. m.

Walter C. Capper is chairman of the board. Other members are Stanley O. Hamilton and Oliver H. Bruce, Jr.

The new pin ball ruling reads in full as follows:

GAMBLING BY MECHANICAL DEVICES—The term "slot machines" shall include pin ball machines and all other forms of mechanical machines or devices in which coins are deposited and money returned to the player, either by the machine itself or in cash by the licensee, his agents or servants. Such machines shall be regarded as gambling devices and also all other machines in any licensed premises where bets are made on combinations of numbers, figures or tokens, or in any other manner.

The prohibited hours ruling reads in full as follows:

PROHIBITED HOURS — No alcoholic beverages shall be sold or served on the licensed premises after 12:00 midnight on week days and all tables must be cleared of bottles and glasses containing alcoholic beverages between 1:00 a. m. and 7:00 a. m. on week days; and all tables must be cleared of bottles and glasses containing alcoholic beverages at all hours on Sunday after 1:00 a. m.

The Weather

The current dry spell in Cumberland was eased somewhat yesterday evening when showers visited the Queen City sending residents scurrying for cover. The high as recorded at Constitution Park weather station was 81, the low 57 and at 8:20 p. m. yesterday the mercury stood at 64 degrees. Rainfall recorded was .05 inches and humidity at 6 p. m. was 62 per cent. Forecast for the Cumberland area today is partly cloudy and somewhat cooler.

All American To Continue Air Stops Here

Cobey Says CAB Turns Down Cancellation

The Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday denied All American Airways its petition to drop Cumberland from its plane service.

W. Earle Cobey, city attorney, said he had been informed by the Maryland State Aviation Commission that a formal order to the effect has been returned by the CAB in view of the opposition to the airlines move.

Cobey said fighting the petition was the Post Office Department, the City of Cumberland, the Maryland State Aviation Commission, and the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

The CAB ruled that in view of the interest shown in keeping the service here, it was reluctant to suspend the operation without a public hearing.

Review In January

This means that Cumberland will have airline service until the All American applies to the CAB for the renewal of its certificate.

January has been set for the time when the CAB reviews its renewal petition. It was indicated that in its renewal petition, All American may ask to suspend operations here.

The city attorney, in pointing out that Cumberland will have a hearing, said that in many cases such as the one acted upon by the CAB yesterday, service has been suspended without a hearing.

David L. Miller, vice president of the airline, said this morning that his firm is not particularly upset about the decision.

He commented that the line has found that there is no doubt about the potential of an airline here.

But the terrain is the main hazard, Miller declared. He stated bluntly that no amount of lights would change the airline's position in regarding the airport and its location as hazardous for night flying.

In addition to objecting to the airport's location among the mountains, Miller pointed out that the weather peculiar to this valley also

Jury Convicts Truck Driver For Overweight

Accident Man Gets $426 Fine

John O. Riley of Accident was found guilty by a Garrett County Circuit Court jury yesterday in Oakland on a charge of violating the Maryland Truck Overweight Law. The jury deliberated only about 10 minutes at the conclusion of a precedent-setting trial.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, who presided at the trial, then fined Riley $426 plus court costs on the basis of 6-cents-per-pound for the 7,100 pounds of overweight.

First Acquitted

Riley had been acquitted of the charge in July by Magistrate Charles S. Zeller of Grantsville, who had termed the new law "confusing, poorly written and a hardship." The unusual aspect of the case is that the State Roads Commission appealed the dismissal, the first time that body had taken such action in Maryland from a trial magistrate's ruling.

In a second case appealed by the State Roads Commission, the state dismissed its appeal yesterday in the Oakland court. This case involved Emmett Hall, a driver for the Hopwood Lumber Company, Hopwood, Pa., who had been fined $496 by Magistrate Zeller on an overload of 11,600 pounds. The commission had appealed, contending that Zeller should have imposed a $696 fine. Hall paid the $496 fine.

State's Attorney Dwight Stover pointed out that since the Hall case, Magistrate Zeller has been fining guilty truck drivers on the basis of a 6-cents-per-pound for violations in excess of 5,000 pounds. In the Hall case Zeller had figured the fine at 2-cents-per-pound up to 5,000 pounds and 6 cents thereafter rather than a flat 6-cent rate on every pound.

Two other cases settled yesterday were appeals by truck drivers from convictions by Trial Magistrate James Cover of Friendsville.

Assesses Fine

Judge Harris found Wayne E. Hook of near Friendsville guilty of violating the overweight law in one of these appeals and assessed a $396 fine. Hook was a driver for Richard Coddington of Friendsville.

Judge Harris also fined John-Bowman of near Accident $54, the same penalty that had been assessed by Magistrate Cover. Bowman's attorney, Walter Dawson, submitted his case to the court without argument or testimony.

Chief interest in the trials centered on the Riley case. By convicting him, the jury upheld the State Roads Commission contention that axleload of a truck means the weight transmitted to the highway.

State's Attorney Stover was aided in the cases by Assistant Attorney-General Joseph B. Buscher, assigned to the State Roads Commission.

Daylight Saving Time Will End Here Sunday

Voters To Decide Fast Time Issue

Cumberland area residents will turn their clocks back an hour Sunday morning as this area returns to Standard Time.

According to a Cumberland ordinance, the time change in this city will take place Sunday, September 30, at 1 a. m. Similar action will be taken in the area, including major industrial plants, which followed Cumberland's lead on the fast time issue.

Daylight Saving Time, which has been in effect here since 1947, by City Ordinance 1809, has been a constant source of controversy.

Some of the uncertainty as to the popularity of the plan will be settled next spring when the issue is placed on the city ballots.

Another vote will follow on a county-wide scale in next fall's general election.

Referendums Slated

The DST issue will go on the city ballot on March 18, 1952, as a result of Senate Bill 45, sponsored by Senate Minority Leader Robert B. Kimble. The measure requires that the issue be submitted to the voters at a regular or special election.

The issue will be clear cut since the bill requires votes in the referendum be labeled "For Daylight Savings Time" and "Against Daylight Savings Time."

An unfavorable vote in Cumberland need not be conclusive, however, as the measure could be beaten in the city election and passed in the county-wide general election.

The county vote, officials said, would supersede any city action on the measure since House Bill 547, introduced by Rep. Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., provides that "Daylight Savings Time shall be effective in all parts of Allegany County—subject to a referendum."

Dry Weather Halts Work On Alleys

Grading To Resume When Rains Arrive

The Street Department announced yesterday that its annual alley clean up will be postponed until the fall rains come.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, said the work must be halted for the present due to the dust raised during the operation.

She said some of the most urgent work on alleys will be continued but the general program must be curtailed due to the dust.

In the meanwhile, crews will be working on grading of shoulders on unpaved streets and can complete several cribbing jobs which were set aside while the alley repairs were underway.

The Street Department faced an unusually heavy schedule this spring as a result of one of the worst winters in Cumberland for many years.

Crews were kept busy during early spring clearing away cinders and dirt which colected on streets and in catch basins during the winter as a result of frequent cindering and heavy construction on flood control and other jobs.

Late rains delayed, for some time, the beginning of the street oiling program but that job was pushed through in a matter of weeks when weather cleared.

Several weeks ago, crews began work on cleaning alleys and removing ruts which formed over the winter.

Episcopalians Plan Anniversary Service Oct. 16

Dedication Planned For New Organ

Emmanuel Episcopal Church will mark the 100th anniversary of the dedication of its present edifice with a special centenary service featuring the dedication of a new organ.

Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, church rector, announced last night that the service will be held at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 16.

Rose Hill Cemetery also was dedicated on the same day in 1851.

The cornerstone for the church was laid in May, 1849, with construction taking more than two years for completion.

Installation of the new organ by the Moller Company of Hagerstown will begin about October 1, according to James L. Pitkethly, organ committee chairman.

Removal of the old organ was begun September 10 and was completed several days later. The past several Sundays hymns have been sung to piano accompaniment.

Details of the special service have not been completed, Rev. Richardson reported.

Although the present building is nearly a century old, the parish history dates back to 1803.
